BY YOUNG CHINESE

By VERGIL BERGER
PEKING (Reuters) — The Communist Chinese capital's famous Tien An Men (Heavenly Peace) Square was renamed Dongfang Hong (The East Is Red) Square today as thousands of organized youths continued to hold sway over the city.

The youths, officially-backed by the Communist party in their campaign to rid Peking of Western influences, also took over, apparently permanently, the churches serving the capital's few Christians.

Red flags fluttered from the

The youths, known as the Red Guards, covered the walled cathedral compound with posters denouncing old and foreign traditions.

Some posters were covered with biblical pictures used in the cathedral—scenes of the nativity, of Christ teaching, and various saints—crossed out with heavy black brush strokes and characters to indicate, such things were henceforth not allowed.

WINDOWS SHUTTERED

Red guards refused foreign correspondents access to the cathedral grounds. From across the street it was possible to see that some of the buildings' windows were shuttered.

East Is Red, the new name of Tien An Men Square, is the title of a Chinese Communist anthem now being played and sung here publicly—far more often than the national anthem.

The campaign to oppose bourgeois tendencies took some unexpected forms.

A poster outside a depot for pedicabs—tricycles pedalled by a driver with a seat behind for his passenger—says these may still be hired, but the passenger should pedal himself while the driver sits in the seat.

Several flower stores closed this week and the Red Guards proclaimed that having flowers in the house is not revolutionary.

Stamp stores were closed with the declaration that philately is a bourgeois pastime.

TERRORIZE PEKING

Meanwhile, although many people seemed unconcerned by the happenings, some showed frightened expressions in their faces and observers said there is little doubt the Red Guards were terrorizing some Peking inhabitants.

Long-haired youths in the capital were trimming their hair in public under the stern eye of the Red Guards. Tight trousers—worn upon as Western symbols—also were getting drastic treatment on the spot.

Monday young men with tight pants legs ripped them down the sides or cut them into shorts while the "red guards" intensified their drive against "revisionism," bourgeois tendencies and Western influence.

School children and students, who with official approval carried the campaign for strict compliance with Communist Leader Mao Tse-tung's philosophy to the man-in-the-street, covered walls of the city with posters during the last three days.

GIVE ULTIMATUM

Some of these gave a one-week ultimatum to anyone with pointed shoes to get rid of them or face the consequences. Women have been washing out their permanent waves to avoid censure.

Everything traditional is under attack as symbolizing the old bourgeois order.

Stone dragons were torn from the entrances of some buildings and elaborate decorations removed.

Hundreds of red guards swarmed into Peking's small Protestant church, broke at least one church window and put up a portrait of Mao.

Early B.C. Election Call
Blasted by NDP MPs

Two members of Parliament from British Columbia Monday criticized Premier Bennett's decision to call a provincial election Sept. 12.

Barry Mather, New Democratic Party MP for New Westminster, said in Surrey the Social Credit government has become so arrogant in its 14 years of power that it ignores the right of the people to have a government for five years and not for two years.

He said people have stated they are fed up with tactics which have produced three provincial and three federal elections in B.C. in the last six years.

Harold Winch (NDP, Vancouver-East), said it is time a law was passed in Canada making it compulsory for an election to be called once every four years. This would apply to the provincial as well as federal government, he said.

Mr. Winch criticized what he called "Admiral Bennett's issues" and said the premier has advanced no plausible reason for calling the election.

Mr. Winch said Premier Bennett's home purchase grant plan has a weak foundation due

SOCIAL CREDIT PARTY
LEADS NOMINATIONS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Social Credit leads the nominations for the Sept. 12 provincial election, with 53 persons selected to contest B.C.'s 55 constituencies.

To date, a total of 144 candidates have been nominated. No Progressive Conservatives have been named.

The New Democratic Party is second in the nominations, with 48 candidates selected, the Liberals third with 34 and the Communists fourth with seven. Two Independents are also running.

Mr. Winch was speaking at a rally for Ernest Hall, NDP candidate in the Surrey riding in the Sept. 12 provincial election.

He said anyone planning to build a home next year will not delay construction plans in order to become eligible for the additional $25 grant on top of the regular $500 home-builder's grant.

"Costs of new homes are increasing by 10 per cent each year," said Mr. Winch.

He said the average three-bedroom house costs between $18,000 and $24,000 now and he predicted this price will increase by $2,000 in the coming year.

"Who will wait a year to pay an extra $2,000 to get an extra $25 from Bennett?" he asked.

Elsewhere, B.C. Conservatives are making an 11th-hour drive to run candidates with nominating conventions scheduled for North Vancouver—Capilano, Point Grey and Delta.

George Driedger, president of the Social Credit League, Monday denied allegations by NDP leader Robert Strachan that the Social party has been dumping maverick MLAs.

Five Social Credit MLAs have been defeated at nominating conventions.

"Neither the government nor the league had anything to do with these people being dropped," said Mr. Driedger.

"Our constituency organizations have complete autonomy."

Session
Monday

OTTAWA (CP)—Warning that a railway strike "could be disastrous" for the country, Prime Minister Pearson announced Monday night he has called Parliament to meet next Monday and deal with the impending crisis.

Parliament was to have enjoyed until Oct. 5 a summer break that began July 15.

If a strike begins this Friday as scheduled, the government will introduce unspecified "proposals" to resolve the dispute and get the railways running again.

But even if the strike has been settled by then, MPs will be asked to deal with new legislation that will be based on "a relationship to the earning capacity of the railway companies."

It would involve some parts of the MacPherson report which five years ago recommended more freedom for the railways in rate-making and other areas now under rigid federal control.

In a dramatic climax to a long afternoon of cabinet talks, Mr. Pearson revealed the plan in a 500-word telegram to the railways and union leaders calling for "immediate discussions" in a "determined effort to settle their dispute before the strike deadline, set for noon regional standard time Friday."

"Such a strike will have consequences for the national economy which are bound to be serious and could be disastrous," his message said.

SUGGESTED MEETING

Mr. Pearson suggested both sides meet with Labor Minister Nicholson to seek a settlement, then warned:

"If this effort at mediation should unhappily fail, the government will make proposals to Parliament to resolve the dispute." He did not spell out what the proposals would entail.

He also made it clear that until a strike starts it would be left up to labor and management to work out the settlement. Then he added a spur to such negotiations by the reference to new rail legislation.

Ever since 1959, when the former Conservative government clamped a freeze on freight rates pending new railway legislation, the railways have argued that they have no way of raising new revenues to meet increased wages.

Mr. Pearson's pledge to give immediate priority to legislation based on recommendations made five years ago by the

Nicholson
Will Seek Mediation

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Nicholson said today he will hold preliminary meetings tonight with heads of the railways and railway union leaders aimed at settling their contract dispute in time to avoid a countrywide railway strike set for Friday.

The separate meetings would attempt to lay the groundwork for mediation efforts later in the week, possibly Wednesday.

Mr. Nicholson told a press conference that there has been "excellent response" to Prime Minister Pearson's telegram Monday night calling on both sides to enter new discussions.

A small group of union leaders would meet him in the board room of his labor department office beginning about 6 p.m. EDT.

Later, Mr. Nicholson would hold talks with President Donald Gordon of the CNR and Premier Ian Sinclair of the CPR.

SET WEDNESDAY MEETING

Mr. Nicholson said a larger group of union leaders would meet him Wednesday morning at 9:30 a.m. EDT in his office. He hopes this would lead to arrangements for a joint labor-management session as soon as possible.

He was asked about remarks by union leaders in Montreal that the Friday walkout was inevitable because a membership vote would be required on any settlement worked out through mediation.

"I'm still an optimist," Mr. Nicholson replied.

The minister said the government has given no assurances regarding the implementation of the Freedman report, which recommended legislation giving unions the right to negotiate the application of automated work methods.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, one of the unions involved in the current dispute, has insisted that the railways guarantee negotiation on any work changes affecting jobs or working conditions.

Mr. Nicholson said there had been "encouraging progress" on that issue.

Oregon Timber Burns

COTTAGE GROVE, Ore. (UPI)—Oregon's worst forest fire in 21 years today chewed its way through the timbered coast range about 20 miles west of here. The state forestry department reported that an aerial survey revealed the fire had spread over 41,600 acres.

Reds Blast Ship

SAIGON (CP)—A U.S. merchant ship with war supplies for Viet Nam was blasted by a Communist mine today and sank in the Saigon River. Seven of its American crew members were killed.

Blast Traps Workers

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—Two were killed, at least 10 injured and an undetermined number of employees trapped today by a mysterious blast which destroyed part of a wire company.

More 'Quakes

ERZURUM, Turkey. (AP)—Tremors rumbled through eastern Turkey for the fourth straight day since Friday's devastating earthquake, but there were no reports of damage. (See story Page 3.)

Steel Contract Out
After Second Look

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP)—Workers at the Steel Co. of Canada here have rejected a proposed new contract which had earlier been approved by their union negotiating committee.

A legal strike could begin at Steelco seven days after the minister of labor releases the report of a conciliation board that assisted in contract negotiations. The report has not yet been released.

Workers voted on the proposed contract Monday and their union, the United Steelworkers of America today released voting figures: 4,494 against; 3,397 in favor; and 21 spoiled ballots.

The union has 11,000 members at Steelco's Hamilton plants and 4,000 others in fabricating plants at Toronto, Gananogue, Ont., Brantford, Hamilton and Edmonton.

BUSHMAN

Flicker Idol
After Fall

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Francis X. Bushman, great lover of the silent screen whose full life ranged from the days of lantern slide lectures to current television, died today after a fall at his home. He was 83.

Bushman, actually the screen's first great lover, had a handsome face which first made women swoon more than a half century ago and which also attracted many women in recent years.

He was top star in Hollywood for seven years after making his first picture, "Lost years," in 1911. Then his fans learned he was married, and all but forgot him.

The silver-haired great-grandfather never let age slow him down. Recently he was on four TV shows and made several local appearances.

SWOON KING

The original swoon king starred in 424 movies, more than any other actor has. He was an oldtime actor in every sense of the word — drove around town in a long, low, lavender Marmon automobile with "Francis X. Bushman" painted in gold on its side; smoked lavender cigarettes; and had his servants dressed in lavender uniforms.

At his peak he made $6 million in five years. He spent it as fast as he made it. He had 300 great dane dogs on his 280-acre estate along with race horses and hogs.

W. Berlin Kidnappers
Grab Canadian Girl

BERLIN (AP)—A four-year-old Canadian girl, in West Berlin on a visit with her mother, has been kidnapped and 35,000 marks ($8,750) ransom demanded, the police disclosed today.

The girl was abducted Monday morning from her grandparents' home in a well-to-do section of the city after the kidnappers bound and chloroformed her mother, police said.

Police identified the girl as Audrey Klewer and her mother

as 28-year-old Regina Klewer, a German-born Canadian citizen from Montreal.

Police said the two arrived here Sunday to visit the woman's parents.

The mother was reported in a hospital suffering shock. Police said this was the first kidnapping for ransom of a child in West Berlin since the Second World War.

Sources said the mother emigrated to Canada several years ago. The kidnapped girl was born in Ottawa.

SOCRED LOSER FIGHTING BACK

He Tossed Judo Expert for Loss

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—A female judo expert roused Social Credit party officials from bed early this morning when she refused to accept defeat in her bid for a nomination.

Mrs. Jo Dean lost the Social Credit nomination in the North Vancouver-Capilano

Riding for the Sept. 12 provincial election by one ballot, 24 to 23.

The nomination was won by Ken Pugsley, 52, a North Vancouver school principal. Mrs. Dean's defeat was confirmed at a hastily-called early morning meeting of constituency officials.

"I'm not a poor loser," Mrs. Dean said at the earlier meeting. "there were a lot of irregularities. I'm just fighting for a principle."

She claimed 47 persons had voted in the first meeting, though only 46 were qualified to do so. Mr. Dean claimed Mr. Pugsley campaigned unfairly for the nomination by sending out letters suggesting he was the "official" Social Credit candidate.

He denied the allegation. After the earlier meeting, she got on the telephone.

"As far as I'm concerned, the meeting and its results are perfectly valid," said Trade Minister Ralph Loffmark, roused from his bed at 2 a.m. to iron out the alleged discrepancies.

Officials at the post-midnight meeting confirmed Mr. Loffmark's opinion.

When one party member showed impatience with Mrs. Dean's complaints, she reminded him:

"I've got an orange belt in judo."

Looks like th' country'll go onto a sidin' while th' Inflation Unlimited goes through.

If y' kin remember Francis X. Bushman—y' better start takin' it easy on th' stairs.

Does Mister Bennett git a homeowner's grant fer livin' in a House he owns—legislative, that is?

Treasure in Old Barn

Ancient coach, a landau thought to have been owned by castle builder, coal baron Robert Dunsmuir, has been located in a downtown barn owned by Tallyho operators Art Knapp and John Olson. Stableman-driver Albert Haynes tried seats, above, and reported restoration would be feasible. But first provincial archivist Willard Ireland will examine the landau to try to determine its authenticity. It is believed coach was turned over to city in trust years ago, for the provincial museum, which never had space for it. Tallyho owners say it's been stored by that business for at least 24 years. Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said city will restore the old carriage and will ask archives for permission to use it in centennial functions this year and next. (Times photo by Strickland.)

10 University Graduates Prepare for Duty Abroad

Ten young men and women from Vancouver Island are preparing for two-year stints in Asia, Africa, Latin America and the West Indies with the Canadian University Service Overseas.

Graduates of Canadian universities and other institutions, they are among 400 volunteers to be sent to 35 developing countries by the five-year-old CUSO organization.

At present taking six-week training courses at several centres, the young people involved are Bill Atkinson, Kenneth Strong, Neil and Patricia Hutchinson, Christine Zacharelli, Glenda Hawes, Joan Climenhaga and Patricia Neve, all of Victoria; Donald Unger of Courtenay, and Liese Unger, formerly of Black Creek, B.C.

Mr. Atkinson, 23, the son of Mrs. M. E. Arney, 650 Linden, is a University of British Columbia graduate, who will teach in the Government Secondary School in Lutong, Sarawak, Malaysia.

He is at present taking a training course at UBC as is Kenneth Henry Vincent Strong, 27, son of Mrs. I. Strong 1722 Lee. Mr. Strong will teach at Chiangmai University in Chiangmai, Thailand. He received his B.Sc. and teaching certificate at UBC.

Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson will take postings in Kakamega, Kenya, where Mr. Hutchinson, a University of Victoria arts graduate, and an MDCM graduate of McGill University, will work at the Kakamega District Hospital. Mrs. Patricia Hutchinson, 26, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Butler, 2130 Central, will teach at the Government Secondary School there. She is a B.Sc. graduate of UBC in biology.

Training at Loyola College, Montreal, before being posted to Lusaka, Zambia, as a psychologist with the ministry of education, is Christine Zacharelli, 22. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Zacharelli, 3358 Biscoe Drive, she is a University of Victoria graduate in psychology and sociology.

CHILE NEXT STOP
Glenda Hawes, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hawes, 2698 Tapp Ave., will teach at Santiago College in Santiago, Chile. Also a University of Victoria graduate, Miss Hawes is training at St. Francis Xavier University in Antigonish, N.S., as are Joan Climenhaga, 21, and Patricia Neve, 21.

Miss Climenhaga, daughter of Dr. J. L. Climenhaga, 877 Newpro, graduated from the University of Victoria and will teach at Point Fortin Secondary School in Trinidad.

Miss Neve, a history and political science graduate of the University of Victoria, will teach at the West Demerara Government Secondary School in Pouterayen, Guyana. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Neve, 4031 White Rock Street.

Destined for Nyeri, Kenya, are Donald Unger, 23, son of Mrs. H. Unger of Courtenay, and Mrs. Liese Unger, 23, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Hildebrandt of Black Creek. A B.Ed. graduate of UBC, Mr. Unger will teach at the Government Secondary School in Nyeri, and his wife who received her RN from St. Joseph's School of Nursing, will nurse at Nyeri District Hospital. Both are now training at Loyola College.

JOBLESS SPECTRE NEW U.K. WORRY

LONDON (AP)—The spectre of growing unemployment haunted Britain's trade union movement today as the labor government's economic squeeze began tightening on industry.

Imperial Chemical Industries, Britain's biggest private employer, aroused the fears by firing 1,050 workers at three plants producing nylon fibre.

It was the largest reduction by any company since the government imposed drastic credit restrictions and froze wages and prices five weeks ago. The measures were designed to stabilize the economy and restore overseas confidence in the pound sterling.

ICI's action spelled more trouble for Prime Minister Wilson in his already losing battle to win support from Britain's 7,500,000 unionists for the government's economic measures.

The company blamed high taxation and the credit squeeze for slowing the expected growth of its nylon division. ICI employs a total of 126,000 workers in all its widespread activities.

Leaders of the Transport and General Workers Union described the dismissals as "callous" and said they would call on the company to withdraw them. Talk of possible strike action was heard among militant unionists.

5,000 WENT BEFORE
Since the squeeze began last month about 5,000 workers—mostly in automobile plants and other consumer industries—have been either fired or put under notice of dismissal because of factory reductions.

Another 6,000 have been told they may have to work part time which would reduce their take-home pay.

Union leaders have been assured by Wilson's administration that it will never foster unemployment as a deliberate instrument of policy.

The total of unemployed in Britain was 345,500 at the last count. Government officials have said they do not expect the number to rise above 450,000 as a result of the economic measures.

Next month the giant Trades Union Congress meets in Blackpool for a crucial vote on whether to support the wage freeze, which will stay in effect for the rest of this year with a six-month period of "severe restraint" to follow.

The TUC executive has reluctantly agreed to go along with the freeze, but it seems likely to be over-ruled in the general vote by 34 affiliated unions at the conference beginning Sept. 5.

Tory Leader Remains On Sick List

VERNON (CP) — Stuart Fleming, president and acting leader of the B.C. Progressive Conservative Association, remained confined to bed in his Vernon home Monday with a suspected kidney stone.

Fleming suffered a severe attack in Vancouver Saturday, shortly before he was to attend a meeting of Conservative executive members to plan the party's election operations.

The meeting went ahead without Fleming, party officials said Monday, but no decisions could be made without the president.

It is hoped another meeting can be held this week, the officials said, but it is doubtful Fleming will be able to attend.

19 Workers Killed

BAHRAIN (Reuters) — Eighteen crew members and a mooring supervisor were killed in a fire and explosion on the British tanker British Crown, oil company sources said Sunday night.

Shock Follows 2-Car Crash

Keith McLaren, 16, of 2656 Eastdowne was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital suffering shock Saturday night after a two-car collision on the Gordon Head campus parking lot.

Spanish police said cars driven by McLaren and Jonathan Peter, 3950 Telegraph Bay Rd., were on converging roads when they collided at the corner of a building, causing about $300 damage. Peter was uninjured.

McLaren was released from hospital Sunday.

EVERYTHING COLLAPSED IN SECONDS

VARTO, Turkey (AP)—"The whole town was destroyed in a matter of seconds," an elderly peasant said today recalling the fury of Friday's earthquake here.

Witnesses said the small county seat rocked first horizontally and then vertically, and then there was nothing left as all but three of the town's 700 mud huts and concrete buildings crashed down.

Varto was the epicentre of the violent quake that killed an estimated 3,000 persons in eastern Turkey.

The levelled town was jolted again Monday night as seemingly endless tremors continued to ripple the area.

The tremor, described by an interior ministry official as "quite strong," caused no deaths or injuries.

PREMIER SPOKE
Premier Suleyman Demirel estimated in a radio address to the nation that 2,000 had perished in the four-province disaster regions.

Demirel's estimate was below those of local officials who said more than 3,000 have been killed — 2,100 of them in the Varto district alone.

Meanwhile, government officials moved to provide housing for homeless peasants before the early winter sets in.

Thousands were sleeping in the open as meteorological officials warned that cool weather usually begins here in this part of August. Demirel promised all efforts to provide new housing before the cold grips the mountainous region.

He said 58,000 families would have to be resettled, and that all injured persons had been given treatment in mobile and permanent health centres.

PROVIDE BREAD
The Turkish army moved mobile bakeries into the area to make bread for the survivors and planes dropped fresh loaves into villages not yet reached by land.

One survivor today sat in the ruins of what had been Varto's high school. He said he had been its janitor.

He pointed to his bandaged hand and said it had saved his life. But he added in tears, "I lost my mother and two children."

"I was home Friday afternoon eating with my wife and children and mother when the quake started," he said.

"The roof fell in and the wall collapsed. I thought I was being buried alive but somehow my hand remained above the debris."

"My sister was coming to our place at the time and helped me out. I dug back in with my fingers but my mother and my children were dead."

CHARGED with attempting to sell the drug LSD to police in New York and then pulling a gun when they identified themselves, Allen Sugarman, 28, stands handcuffed in police station Monday night. Sugarman, of Springfield, Mass., said he was a teacher at the University of Melbourne, Australia. Police said they seized a quart of the drug, which they said was worth $140,000 on the illegal market. (AP Wirephoto.)

Big Drug Seizure By RCMP in Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto police and RCMP Monday night made the second largest narcotics seizure in the city this year after arresting two Pakistani immigrants near the city's Bohemian section, Yorkville Village.

Police said seven pounds of hashish—with a value on the illicit market of $35,000 — was found in a mid-town rooming house.

Muhammed Ashraf and Mohammed Siddique Bhatti, both 25 and both landed immigrants from West Pakistan, were jointly charged with trafficking in narcotics. They were arrested after an RCMP undercover agent purchased hashish to be sold in Yorkville.

Both were also charged with importing a narcotic, an offence which carries a minimum penalty of seven years and a maximum of life imprisonment.

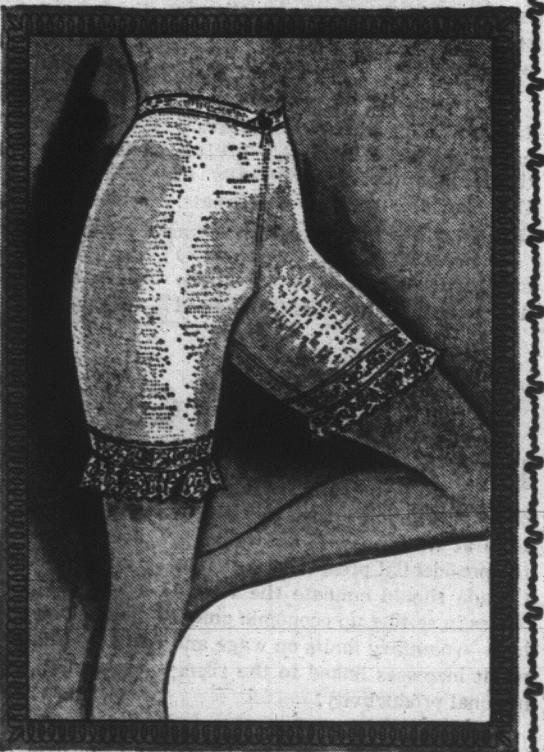

The seized narcotics were in the form of seven "plates" similar to chewing tobacco.

At the Boiling Point

THE NATION FACES A CRITICAL situation in the railway strike which now appears almost unavoidable. A prolonged work stoppage by the non-operating unions could seriously delay the vast movement of export grain to which the country is committed and exert other pressures on the national prosperity. But a strike settlement which gave appreciable impetus to the inflationary surge which now threatens Canada's economic stability would carry its own dangers.

This is a situation in which more than immediate, individual gain should be the criterion of settlement. The pace set by wage increases in the United States and by earlier decisions in Canada have helped push the inflationary spiral higher, when every danger signal calls for a slowdown. It will be more difficult to persuade the railway workers to curb their demands, with the Quebec dock and St. Lawrence Seaway settlements now on the record. But somewhere restraint must be shown or the rising price level that now is to be seen on every hand will inevitably wipe out the gains that union bargainers may win.

In Britain, Mr. Wilson is attempting to meet a similar situation by legislated price and wage controls. President Johnson is depending heavily on voluntary action by management and labor to achieve the same effect. Neither method has yet shown much success. Must Canada merely flow along with the inflationary tide that will nullify wage increases and inflict heavy penalties on savings, on pensioners and others with fixed incomes?

Mr. Pearson has argued that the government could take no direct action in the threatened strike while the legal processes of negotiation were continuing. But with the strike deadline set, Parliament now has the task of finding a quick solution to the problem. Railway negotiations in Canada are complicated by the fact that both lines are heavily subsidized by the government—which means the taxpayers. A railway does not have to show that a wage increase will remove its profits. The loss can merely be added to the subsidy. This situation strengthens the pressure for increases, reduces the railways' powers of opposition, and places the whole thing eventually in the government's lap.

Parliament must consider more than the immediate wage increases as a problem of railway management. It must relate the situation to the nation's welfare, both as regards a lengthy breakdown of transportation and as a factor in the causes of inflation. It must also face up to the need for a strong policy covering the maintenance of vital public services. And it must at long last do something about the recommendations of the MacPherson report, submitted five years ago. These sought to put the railways on a better economic footing by eliminating unnecessary services and routes and instituting reforms throughout the systems.

Earlier action in this regard could have eased some of the present difficulties. But it is essential that the workers should not insist on demands that will help to send the country further into destructive inflation. An example could be set in this instance which would help Canada turn the corner. Can Parliament, the railways and the unions rise to the occasion?

So the Institutions Remain

YEAR AFTER YEAR AFTER year Canadian governments talked about Senate reform. Then, in 1965, one change was effected: retirement at age 75 was made mandatory for all future appointees. Other reform proposals remain stored for conversation in the years ahead.

Efforts to bring Canada's Red Chamber up to date have not been productive. Perhaps this was inevitable. The Senate, according to the authorities, was roughly patterned on the British House of Lords and in Britain the question is still being asked: "What shall we do with the peers?"

Advocacy of its elimination in favor of a one-chamber legislature has recently been revived. This is a theme that recurs periodically in Canadian discussion of the Senate. It carries little conviction.

Mr. Angus Maude, Conservative member for Stratford-on-Avon, who has concerned himself with the need for modification in parliamentary institutions, has pointed to the fact that "every constitution that effectively ensures sound government provides some real check to measures which are hasty and ill-conceived, authoritarian, or fundamentally unpopular." Checks on arbitrary government are needed, he argues, and a second chamber can supply these checks.

There is strong feeling in certain quarters both in Britain and Canada that something more efficient and effective than the House of Lords and the Canadian Senate is required. But in each case, the institutions carry on in traditional manner—a manner which only occasionally claims applause from the public. But, as some experts have pointed out, the chances of either senior house giving way to a more effective chamber of serious second thought is remote because no one seems to have devised an acceptable alternative.

Talks at Campobello

PRESIDENT JOHNSON'S ADVISE to Prime Minister Pearson during their joint visit to Campobello at the weekend, according to the presidential press aide, was that Canada should emulate the United States in setting up economic guidelines—voluntary limits on wage and profit increases linked to the rising national productivity.

Heavily on both men's minds, of course, was the fact that the airline strike and steel price increases in the United States have largely nullified Mr. Johnson's hold-the-line policy, as the St. Lawrence Seaway and Quebec dock workers' settlements set the pace for current inflationary rises in Canada.

It is an unfortunate fact that exhortations for moderation have little effect on the economic factors which are behind the current boom in Canada and the United States. President Johnson was able to claim some success with his "come and reason together" appeal to business and labor early in his presidency, because the economy was weaker and there were fewer pressures on wage and price stability. Now the famed "consensus" is disappearing and both business and labor are disenchanted with a monetary policy which has pushed interest rates to 40-year peaks and a rapidly-rising cost of living.

The President's press aide was reported to have said that Mr. Johnson believed "we're a lot better off with guideposts—even though some of them had been fractured—than without them." This may be true when the guides are only being "fractured." But when they are demolished their value is doubtful indeed and, in any event, they are no substitute for the legislative tools possessed by modern governments to keep the economy in balance.

Tourists from Canada, the Non-Country

By JAMES H. GRAY

ANYBODY who is not convinced that the pursuit of happiness is the main pre-occupation of the human race simply was not in Europe this summer. To wit and for example:

Every beach between Copenhagen and Naples, via Deauville, Biarritz, Malaga, Monaco and the Greek Islands, was cheek-to-cheek people.

Blue and orange sampling tents seemed to cover every available inch of parking space in all the 10,000 "caravan parks" of the continent.

Conducted tour buses causes such congestion and confusion on Europe's narrow highways that angry questions were asked in Parliament.

Every museum and cathedral between Edinburgh and Ankara was overrun with rubberneckers from dawn to dusk.

So great was the congestion at such places as Biarritz that tourist buses were barred from the beach areas.

Threat to Sanity

What the tourists are doing to Europe is awesome to behold. But what is Europe doing to the tourists, to the Canadians, for example, who are flocking abroad in greater numbers than ever before? Let's put it this way:

Anybody who doubts that junketing around Europe is a threat to the sanity, solvency and self-confidence of Canadians is a stuck-in-the-mud stay-at-home. The threat to sanity develops slowest, to solvency it comes quicker; but the threat to self-confidence comes quickest of all to all who venture beyond the narrow boundaries of the tourist traps. Let's consider the humbling process first, or how Canadians become citizens of a non-country.

Most of my aging generation have been nurtured on a steady diet of foreign affairs editorializing over the last 40 years. The pre-occupation of Ottawa with foreign affairs, Mr. Pearson's Nobel Prize, our devotion to NATO and the UN, and our efforts in two world wars all combine to create the illusion that we are citizens of one of the world's leading powers. We represent enlightenment on the side of the angels in world affairs and are warmed by our vision of our country's role in the world. There is a preposterous smugness on our voice when we extend our hand and say: "Je suis un Canadien."

Unknown Country

Canada? Who has heard of it, or of us? The British people, certainly; but mostly vaguely—like the American lady school teachers on the conducted tours. But not the lady secretary at the famous Kew Gardens, for example, or anybody we encountered away from the beaten paths in France or Spain. It was not a matter of overt antagonism like Americans encounter. Nobody has anything against us, they are just not aware of our existence.

It is 100 years since the British Government sent Captain John Palliser to western Canada at the head of one of the world's great scientific explorations.

For three years Palliser's experts probed our geology, mapped our geography and scoured the country for botanical species which were sent off in boxes to the Kew gardens in London.

What a nice thing it would be, we thought, for a couple of visiting Canadians to go to Kew, search out the species which still survive and sniff the perfume of our prairie wildflowers in alien soil.

In a pig's eye! Conceivably, the lady secretary had heard of Canada, though that was obviously doubtful. Certainly she had never heard of Palliser, and neither had anyone else she was able to contact at Kew. In the end she said:

"I am sure if you walk around the gardens you will find what you are looking for. We have many hundreds of plants from America, you know."

And that, you discover is the fate of Canadians in Europe. You settle for being an American, or nothing. Canadians can live and die over most of Europe without ever seeing or hearing their country's name, save rarely in weather stories.

In Arras, I got nowhere seeking directions to the Canadian war memorial until I mentioned Vimy Ridge. Vimy was a French place-name 8 kilometers to the north east. The war memorial there was well known. That it was a Canadian memorial was not.

Blanks at Ypres

At Ypres we drew three blanks before a friendly truck driver was able to direct us to the Canadian war memorial. At Dieppe we had better luck, with only two shaking heads before a souvenir hawk on that famous beach came up with the right directions.

But it is not non-recognition alone that is so humbling. It was also the shattering of our illusions about ourselves. We are proud of the vast expanse of our country, of its huge farms that are the bread-basket of the world. When we think of Europe, it is in terms of Millet's "Gleaners"—peasants eking out a living on postage stamp farms. Then we encounter the kingsized agriculture of France and Spain and are cut down to size.

More horses are to be seen from the highways of western Canada today than from the roads of northern France. There the tractor has also taken over and the wheat fields often stretch from horizon to horizon. Massey Ferguson tractors are almost as numerous as the Citroen mini-cars in which so many French peasants now travel from their homes to their fields. The scythes and horse-drawn carts are still seen, but the minicars and gas-powered bikes outnumber them by 10 to 1.

Miles of Crops

The French and even Canadian wheat fields are dwarfed by the olive groves of Spain that stretch up and down hill for unbroken miles after mile. And there are the fields of melons now sprouting where a crop of wheat has been harvested and where a crop of corn or cotton will follow. On these great estates that yield four crops a year, modern machinery is at work of which Canadian farmers would be proud.

And the rice fields of Valencia! Here are spreads that would impress the Chinese with their bigness and the Americans with their techniques. Rice planted by machinery, irrigated by machinery, harvested by machinery.

So what has Canada got that Europe hasn't got? Many things, of course; many, many things. But what difference does it make if nobody in Europe is about going to hear about them, or about Canada? Our search through the newspapers of England, France, Germany, Switzerland and Spain for a story with a Canadian date-line became increasingly frantic as weeks passed. Then we were rewarded with a one-paragraph story in The Times.

Canada, it said, was faced with a nationwide railway strike. What a comfort to discover we still had a country to go home to, even a non-country like Canada.

FROM WASHINGTON

U.S. Labor Poised for Wage Drive

By CHARLES BARTLETT

LABOR'S leadership is poised to seize the opportunity of the pre-election period to nail down impressive wage gains in order to set a liberal pattern for the contract negotiations of 1967.

The imminence of a sweeping move on labor's part to make the most of the next 11 weeks was brought home to the White House Wednesday when Walter Reuther sent word that he is asking the auto manufacturers to re-open contracts which do not expire for 12 more months. He wants more pay for skilled workers.

Reuther has not attempted to reopen a contract since the post-Korean inflation of 1953. He is the most sensitive of all the labor leaders to the needs of the Democratic party. His decision to push for negotiations is solid evidence that the labor leaders have determined that the campaign for higher wages will take precedence this fall over the campaign for votes.

The reason for this strategy, reportedly adopted at a recent meeting of the AFL-CIO hierarchy, is clear. This is an ideal time to press against management because the president's hands are tied by the political campaign. He cannot challenge labor's claims without risking grave damage to the cause of his party.

Argument Undercut

At this moment the president has no strong arguments he can use against the labor leaders who insist that their members must have increases of 5 per cent or more. The guideline limit of 3.2 per cent has been destroyed by the cost-of-living advances. Company profits are undeniably fat. The war has been brushed aside as a reason for restraint by industry and labor.

The going is certain to be tougher for the unions after the election. Then the president will direct the power of his office toward the task of recapturing wage-price stability. The fiscal measures which he has declined to use in an election year, especially a tax increase, may then be brought into play to cause the economy to lose its boom complexion.

Next year is an important one for labor. At least 16 major contracts come up for renewal. The task of securing big wage gains at a time when the economy is being tightened by fiscal measures will be difficult unless a generous pattern is set by the wage agreements this fall.

Big Stake Poker

This is big stake poker and it means tough bargaining and a lively possibility of major strikes in the weeks ahead. The International Union of Electrical Workers is asking General Electric for increases of over 12 per cent. Joseph Beirne of the Communications Workers has picked his most aggressive unit, the young and mobile installations workers of Western Electric, to reach for a settlement that will determine the pattern for some 380,000 workers in the telephone industry.

All of this may be extremely damaging to the Democrats but the labor leaders are responding to the needs of their own security, a cause which they

For Bunn, Not Crumpet

I completely agree with School Trustee Peter Bunn's statement that care should be taken to prevent a crumpet stand being erected on the steps of Craigdarroch Castle. In my limited imagination this is the one gambit so far overlooked by the tasteless vulgarians who try to represent Victoria as being so cutely English as to make one sick. What they have actually done is to use the techniques of Los Angeles to turn Victoria into a little bit of Olde Conny Island.

Victoria never was in any sense a little bit of Olde England. It was a charming town with a character of its own which attracted visitors. The Causeway carnival barkers who have exploited and debauched Victoria to extract the tourist buck are too stupid to realize that they are defeating their own aims.—T. F. Rose, 210 Yarrow Building.

Do We Lack Culture?

On Aug. 19, I attended an afternoon concert in the Empress Ballroom given by the Victoria Summer School of Music. It was a superb recital given by youths from various parts of the world who had come here to study.

Regrettably, there was an attendance of only 25. May we assume then, that Canadians are so indifferent, or unappreciative of the fine arts that they would rather let them be utilized by other countries?—Cedalia Alice Eraut, 1507 Fernwood.

Beyond Price

Quite recently I have been a patient in Victoria's St. Joseph's Hospital.

There are those of the hospital staff, men and women, who render, even proffer, the type of altruistic and compassionate kindness to those in need of it, which no amount of money can buy or pay for.—H. W. Pettman, 1017 Burdett.

An Apology

The Victoria Women's Symphony Society wishes to apologize to those of its supporters who bought $2 tickets to the Banff School Festival Ballet but had to sit in the $1.50 section of the theatre.

The house did not oversell, but unfortunately some people who bought $1.50 tickets sat in the $2 seats. In order to prevent this happening at a future date, we feel it would be advisable to have one price for all seats unless reserved.—Kathleen V. Humphrey, Secretary.

No Charity

On the subject of pensions for the present senior citizens, I wish to point out the following:

1. It is no charity government gesture but Old Age Insurance already paid for over a period of years by a 3 per cent tax, said tax continuing until recipient's death.

2. This is the only segment of our population caught between two forms of old age insurance plans through no fault of their own, and the number diminishes by death every year.

3. It is also the only group of citizens that this affluent government has the colossal nerve, in view of their own 80 per cent increase of salaries, to subject to a means test, knowing full well it is impossible to exist on even $105 per month without some small personal saving to supplement it in this age of inflation and ever-soaring prices.

4. No form of labor or profession so subjects its members before each strike or raise in salaries, and certainly the government took no such steps to find out how many MPs do or do not have a flourishing business going on at home to supplement their enormous increase in government salaries.

The eventual demise of this helpless group of our senior citizens is certainly being hastened by the worry over bare necessities existing today. It is a cruel and needless political football.—An Ashamed Canadian.

Looking Back

From The Times of August 23, 1966:
(From an editorial.)

We candidly confess we do not know a great deal about modern literature. We find it grievously disappointing. The only reading we can find time to enjoy is Blackwood's and perhaps a few of the old masters. But then we are of the old school and the rising generation has left us behind.

On the other hand it may be that the goods at modern editors' hands are not up to the standards they once were. All we know is that in the good old days, we never had a book or a magazine out of our hands.

SHOCKINGLY GOOD

"I never deliberately use shock tactics. When people are shocked I'm always astonished. There's an element of shock in anything that is dramatic. You may say knocking on the door in Macbeth is shock value; it is simply theatre, it's drama. I think that anything that makes the theatre alive and vital is good for it. I don't think it has ever been as vital and alive as it is now. If people are moved to walk out or to yell out rude things, it shows that they are responding; they are not just sitting there. I think it's splendid.

Mao Introduces His Heir

By STANLEY KARNOW
The Washington Post

HONG KONG — Last Thursday morning, Peking's vast Tienanmen Square was packed with a million Chinese, mobilized to celebrate the political purges currently convulsing Communist China. They wielded red flags and shouted slogans, and they finally thundered applause as a rotund figure shuffled into view atop the gilt-roofed Gate of Golden Peace.

Wearing an olive-green army uniform, Communist party chairman Mao Tse-tung, China's living deity, had appeared.

Significantly, however, Mao was not alone. Beside him stood a slender soldier, his face sharply featured by a curved nose and black, bushy eyebrows. For Mao's massive rally to promote Communist orthodoxy was, in effect, his way of introducing his heir, Marshal Lin Biao.

It was Lin's first public appearance in the Chinese capital for three years, and his first exposure to such a crowd. But from the style of his presentation, there was little doubt that he had been chosen to succeed Mao, now approaching 73.

Among the scores of senior Chinese leaders on the rostrum, only Lin ranged close to Mao. In official accounts of the event, moreover, his name topped the list of Mao's associates. When he addressed the rally, according to Chinese press reports, Lin's words were weighted with unprecedented authority. He spoke "on behalf" of Mao, Premier Chou En-lai, who followed, urged the people to "respond to the call of Comrade Lin Biao."

The call of Comrade Lin was, predictably, a panegyric to Mao and Maoism, of the kind that has been reverberating throughout China for months. Exalting Mao as "the greatest genius of the present era," Lin vowed to continue the Maoist offensive against alleged bourgeois, capitalist and revisionist "monsters and demons." To further the revolution, he proclaimed, "we will vigorously destroy all the old ideas, old culture, old customs and old habits of the exploiting classes."

Lin is a Communist who happens to be a soldier. He embodies Mao's thesis that Officers and men of the People's Liberation Army at Peking rally.

"the party shall always command the gun."

Now nearly 60, Lin is part of a Chinese generation scarred by a dual experience—the memory of a China torn asunder by rival warlords and, in its weakness, exploited by foreign powers and their native mercenaries. The legacy, strong among the Chinese Communists, is a sense of nationalism combined with the conviction that only a firm government can rule the country.

Lin was the second son of a small factory owner in central Hupeh province. Either heavy taxes or foreign competition ruined his father's business, but Lin managed to attend high school, where he joined in the ferment of nationalist youth activities that were later to become Communist-led.

The Chinese Communist party was only four years old when Lin joined it in 1925. That year he decided upon a military career, going to the Whampoa Military Academy in Canton, jointly run by the Communists and the Kuomintang Nationalists.

Thus Lin studied military tactics with Chiang Kai-shek and politics with Chou En-lai. Upon graduation, he joined Chiang's celebrated campaign against the northern warlords. At the age of 20, he was a colonel in the Kuomintang army.

When Chiang turned against the Communists in 1927, Lin mobilized a column of troops, wandering around southern China until he was able to join Mao in the Kiangsi Soviet area a year later. He distinguished himself as a guerrilla leader against the Nationalists, and by 1932 he commanded the First Red Army Corps, numbering 20,000 rifles.

If a lack of trained Communist officers accounted for Lin's fast promotions, it was during the epic "Long March" in 1934 that he showed that he deserved them. Directing his army corps, he broke through Nationalist encirclement and spearheaded the 6,000-mile retreat to Yenan, where Mao set up new headquarters. When he visited Yenan in 1936, the American writer Edgar Snow found Lin as president of the Red Army University, an improvised college functioning in caves.

At that point, Snow recorded, Lin had fought a hundred battles against the Nationalists without being wounded.

But a year after, in a successful ambush of a Japanese division at Pinghsing Pass, Lin was badly wounded. He was sent to the Soviet Union for treatment, remaining there three or four years and, according to some sources, participating in the defence of Stalingrad.

From Russia he returned to Chungking, China's capital during the Second World War, where he spent most of his time studying military literature and writing training manuals. He also took dancing lessons from the German wife of a Chinese Communist official. She recalled later that "he approached the fox trot and tango as if he were solving strategic problems."

In Chungking, too, Lin took part in the abortive 1945 negotiations between the Communists and Nationalists. American officers who knew him at the time found him attractive and modest, adding to the general consensus that Lin is personable and popular.

A former Communist who was acquainted with Lin years ago described him as "being ambitious without appearing to be so."

When civil conflict broke out again between the Chinese Communists and Nationalists after the war, Lin seemed to welcome the chance to return to the field. His army captured Hainan Island in the south, then moved up to occupy the northeastern provinces. Lin was closest to the battle front when the Korean War erupted. Thus he commanded the first Chinese "volunteers" to enter Korea.

Following that initial offensive, Lin disappeared for several years. Some sources submit that he was wounded in Korea and again sent to Russia for treatment. Others report that he contracted tuberculosis and was sent to a

... no charisma

Peking sanatorium. Still others claim that he fell from grace because of ties with purged party elements. But by 1958 he was prominent again as one of the five vice-chairmen of the politburo's youngest member.

The Chinese Army in those days was demoralized. The effects of the disastrous "great leap forward," during which troops had been used as laborers, had displeased career officers. Growing friction between Peking and Moscow worried professional Chinese soldiers, who foresaw that a break with the Soviet Union would deprive them of their only source of modern weapons.

This dissatisfaction culminated in the purge, in 1959, of the defence minister, Marshal Peng Teh-huai. It fell to Lin, as Peng's successor, to bring the army back under party control.

What ensued, under Lin, was a pervasive political reorganization of the Chinese armed forces. Units were stiffened with commissars, and ranks were abolished to revive the old "guerrilla" spirit.

Lin ordered officers to serve as ordinary soldiers to familiarize themselves with menial problems, and he stressed that ideology was in command of China's 2.7 million troops.

Under Lin, the Chinese developed their nuclear bombs and are building ballistic missiles. But he must realize that a sophisticated Chinese nuclear striking capability is some years away. His substitute for the present is Maoist doctrine, or the "spiritual atom bomb."

A major question for the future is whether Maoism can flourish without Mao. Distinguished and able as he may be, Lin clearly lacks Mao's charisma.

'Involvement' Gains Popularity Among Canadian Young People

By STEWART GOODINGS
The Globe and Mail

The young and old have always been at loggerheads. This is basically, a healthy positive sign that youth is not prepared to swallow whole the wisdom so willingly provided by its elders, and that young people are seeking answers in their own fashion.

Sir Winston Churchill wryly put his finger on the problem: "Elderly people and those in authority cannot always be relied upon to make enlightened and comprehending views of what they call the indiscretions of youth."

Yet today, the tolerance that has usually greeted youth's clumsy efforts to find its place in society often gives way to a deep anxiety that young people are simply mixed up and unwilling to accept the realities of the Twentieth Century.

Everywhere, it seems young people are protesting. In Toronto, against U.S. actions in Viet Nam; in Quebec City, against the government; in Selma, against segregation; in numerous countries throughout the world, against authoritarian regimes.

The staggering proliferation of youth organizations is evidence of a burgeoning social conscience. Why are young people in this country and others beginning involved in social action and protest groups? Or, to phrase the question more colloquially, what's bugging them?

Young 'Bugged'

In the first place, many young people are bugged by the world they are inheriting, one whose glaring contradictions — the coexistence of justice and injustice, poverty and affluence, liberty and oppression — compel them to be cynical about the theory of inevitable progress that dominated our liberal-technological culture.

Ten years ago, the reaction of some young people to these realities was disillusionment. The general mood was one of escapism. This was the era of the beatniks, who scorned involvement as pointless and "square." But the key idea of the mid-Nineteen Sixties is involvement, based on a social awareness that is tougher and less euphoric than most previous idealistic manifestations.

Many young people (and many not so young) are especially bothered by the advanced years of Canada's political leaders. Perhaps more widespread than any other, this attitude is tied in with a subtle rejection of the traditional idea of apprenticeship, the theory that young people should go through a long process of training in citizenship before assuming the responsibilities of making important decisions.

Learn by Doing

Commencement speakers of the "You are the leaders of tomorrow" school are especially susceptible to this argument. Young people find it particularly galling today. Activists and many less active young people strongly believe that they will learn how to exercise responsibility by exercising responsibility. Play-acting at citizenship is out. Making decisions now is in.

There are a number of capable and committed young people trying to induce change in the political parties, but they face formidable obstacles. Most have given up on the parties, at least for the moment. The radicals mostly consider them irrelevant, and the average young person does his best to ignore them.

Parliament is irrelevant only if its members make it so. Political parties become a joke only if sincere and critical people refuse the challenge of changing them. The vast majority of young people, I am convinced, still believe in the parliamentary system and political parties; they simply require evidence of the ability of these institutions to work.

It is important to note that the organizations young people are forming are more than protest groups. While the social action of the younger generation may seem like a long sit-in, there is more to it than that.

Four Groups

Take just four of the groups: Canadian University Service Overseas (CUSO), The Company of Young Canadians (CYC), the Student Union for Peace Action (SUPA), and Summer of Service '67.

CUSO is the oldest, created in 1961 to send young Canadians to work as teachers, nurses, and technicians in developing countries. It is one of the success stories of voluntary action in Canada. Now supported by the government, (80 per cent of its budget) it remains a private organization, and has more than 350 young Canadians working abroad.

The company of Young Canadians, with 50 volunteers in training, 4 in the field and another 75 ready to start training in September, is the government's major response to committed young people. While supported by public funds, and responsible in the legal sense to Parliament, it will be run largely by its volunteers (two-thirds of its governing council will be elected by the volunteers), and hopes to stimulate a similar kind of grassroots participatory democracy wherever its volunteers work.

Most Influential

Created from the Combined Universities Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament (CUCND) in December, 1964, the Student Union for Peace Action has firmly established itself in the past two years as the most influential radical presence in Canada. Without rejecting CUCND's ultimate goal of world peace and nuclear disarmament, SUPA has turned its energies toward community organizing projects, based on the idea that social justice at home is a prerequisite to a sane international order.

Even SUPA's most loyal supporters (and these include some respectable Canadians, bearded and without sandals) admit its organization is "hung up."

Everyone is so uncertain about leadership and so afraid that SUPA will become just another organization with a national office, members, annual meetings, that its impact has been seriously handicapped by internal feuding.

Most SUPA people suffer from the "we — they" syndrome, and little attempts has been made to enlarge its small band of button-carrying militants. But despite its faults — its tendency to see only Viet Nam on a map of the world, a distorted vision of its enemies and potential allies, and its often arrogant self-assurance — SUPA has been an immensely refreshing and aggressive if often annoying presence.

Summer of Service '67 is the most concrete and vital outgrowth of the new spirit in the religious youth organizations. It is being organized as a joint venture of several Protestant denominations, to give a number of young Canadians an opportunity to celebrate Canada's centennial by devoting a summer of voluntary service in community projects co-sponsored by local people. It appears to represent an alternative to the ribbon-cutting phobia that will grip Canada next year.

Perhaps the biggest push for Summer of Service came from KAIROS, the reborn National Young People's Union of the United Church. Under George Cram, a past president of KAIROS, it is placing about 25 volunteers in pilot projects this summer and hopes to have about 200 volunteers next year.

Re-Thinking

Even the huge, mass membership, adult-run youth organizations are suffering through a re-thinking of their roles. Canadian Junior Red Cross for example, has become Red Cross Youth, with imaginative programs for voluntary service, at home and abroad.

All this activity and reflection is having its effects on governments, too. Several provincial governments have established, or are in the process of establishing, departments of youth. The federal government is also planning an extended program for youth through the Citizenship Branch.

Before you start preparing for the revolution, remember that most of Canada's young people are still opting for the safe, secure life, in which their main objective is a larger slice of the North American economic pie.

The young radicals and community organizers and volunteers I have been talking about comprise about 5 per cent of their age group. Their influence is far more extensive, however, than their numbers indicate.

It is impossible to write about "youth" with any sense of certainty, or without making generalizations that can always be disproved by the exception. The younger generation has mixed views about Viet Nam, Parliament, sex, religion and so on. It cannot be categorized, although the mass media constantly seeks to do so. It is contradictory, alive, demanding, and inquisitive, as it seeks the answers to the eternal questions and some new ones.

Advice to Both

If anyone asked me for advice about the younger and older generations, to the younger generation I would say: Don't be so ready to categorize the enemies of social change, and don't be so ready to reject the traditions and inheritances of the past. There are many dynamic and progressive civil servants, businessmen and voluntary agency executives who are ready to help change things, and the dismissal of the monarchy and the parliamentary system ignores the best of these institutions.

To the older generation I would say: Don't be patronizing toward youth, don't preach the eternal verities (if they are eternal, youth will discover them), and try to become just a little bit excited about helping us to change Canada.

Mr. Goodings is the interim associate director of the Company of Young Canadians.

Much Hearsay Evidence In Justice Wells' Report

By DOUGLAS FISHER

The report of Justice Wells' inquiry into the case of George Victor Spencer relies heavily upon the hearsay evidence of Assistant Commissioner Kelly of the RCMP. The hearsay factor relates not so much to the individual facts which were available elsewhere as to their inter-relation and their meaning.

The "whole" picture presented by Mr. Kelly is one of an emerging Soviet espionage network in B.C. and across Canada with Vancouver's pathetic postman laying the groundwork. Most of Mr. Kelly's general observations can be found in the Penkovsky Papers and elsewhere.

There can be no challenging them. But what does not ring true is his specific application of these generalities to Spencer. There may be a connection and perhaps Justice Wells knows the missing connecting elements and for reasons of national security cannot reveal them.

The information collected by Spencer in Vancouver in all probability already exists on microfilm in the Leningrad Library, which has a most extensive collection of Canadiana from Hansard to newspapers to books and periodicals. If not, it could be easily obtained without running the risk of exposure with a weak link like Spencer.

The Wells Report contains this gem: "It would appear that for the purpose of security when establishing an espionage network it is necessary to obtain even relatively simple information in a clandestine manner if the security of the operation for which the information is ultimately obtained is also to be a clandestine one."

Even assuming that Justice Wells meant to say that it is the "operation" and not its "security" which is to be clandestine, it is very difficult to accept this unless Soviet espionage is in the hands of dolts. If the Soviet Embassy wanted to know if Bloor and Yonge Streets in Toronto intersected it is suggested that they would not buy a map of Toronto. They would instruct a "resident" to direct an "illegal" to go to the street corner and photograph it in the middle of the night.

Justice Wells make a great point of the fact that Burdakov could not easily have taken pictures of the Trans-Canada Pipeline because he had a heavy Russian accent. There are more people in western Canada with Russian accents than there are adherents to the Church of Scotland.

And as for information on postal security measures, there is possibly more information recorded in Hansard as a result of members' questions than Spencer or any other postal employee at that level would have.

But we must come back to the fact that George Victor Spencer, a civil servant, on the evidence and against his oath, gave unauthorized information to a foreign power. In the commissioner's judgment, he probably would not have been found guilty if he had been formally charged.

But he could be fired, and he was. Should he have been? Should he have been deprived of his pension?

This is what Justice Wells was asked to inquire into, but his treatment of these matters is brief and rather cavalier. When was the post office informed of Spencer's activities? The report does not contain such a simple and central piece of information.

Who told them? What did the post office do when they were told? Who did it? We don't know. We learn virtually nothing from the report about the "nature" of his dismissal.

The commissioner suggests it would have been "indecent" because of his health to have brought charges against Spencer at the time they were being considered. But, let it be noted, the time they were being considered was in May, 1965, two years and three months after Spencer's last contact with the Russians and nearly nine years after the RCMP had first become aware of his activities.

Why the long delay? And if the ravages of time and health made it indecent to arrest him might they not also make it indecent to deprive him of his pension if not his job, as Mr. Douglas suggested?

There is a plausible explanation of the long delay, raised in this column last March. In May, 1965, the RCMP was facing censure from Mr. Justice Dorian as a result of developments in the Rivard affair. Something was needed to take off the heat and refurbish the Mounties' image.

So a statement was secured from George Victor Spencer, postal clerk, who two years before had ended his Soviet contacts. It must be emphasized that the self-incriminating evidence contained in Spencer's statement to the RCMP which Justice Wells had before him is also dated May, 1965.

The department of external affairs announced on May 7, 1965, that two Soviet officials had been expelled. Later we discovered they had been expelled several years before. We know from the Wells Report that on May 11, 1965, the RCMP in Vancouver sent a Telex message to headquarters in Ottawa containing this sentence:

"Doctor assured that our interviews to date and future interrogations would have no effect on Spencer's progress. In fact, doctor suggested he will arrange Spencer's treatment for mornings to leave afternoons free for our needs."

After nine years they were going at him every afternoon.

In January, 1966, the postmaster-general revealed that Spencer had been fired as of Dec. 30, 1965; later it was discovered he had lost his pension rights. In July, 1966, Justice Wells was to note that Spencer "apparently had the impression that he had been cleared."

There are many specific unanswered questions. But one general one overshadowed them all—"What was the Spencer affair all about?" It is a question which an investigation by a parliamentary committee would possibly have answered.

'Sky Alert' Ordered For Big Fire Bomber

Island Digest

He Knows But Does Gagardi?

PORT ALBERNI — Alberni MLA John Squire of the New Democratic Party, said Monday he has known for a year the Tofino Highway will be paved.

Mr. Squire claimed the announcement would be made Wednesday by Highways Minister Phil Gaglardi at a Social Credit luncheon here.

The minister will be speaking in support of Dr. Howard R. McDiarmid who was chosen Friday as Social Credit candidate for the Alberni riding.

A giant Martin Mars water bomber will remain airborne on patrol over central and southern Vancouver Island for three hours each day because of the high fire hazard.

The extra precautionary move was announced Monday by John Hemmingsen, president of Forest Industries Flying Tankers Ltd.

The company which operates two of the huge aircraft is a joint project of MacMillan Bloedel Ltd., B.C. Forest Products Ltd., Western Forest Industries Ltd., Tahsis Co. Ltd. and Pacific Logging Ltd.

The aircraft will take off from its Sproat Lake base near Port Alberni each day at 1:30 p.m. and fly a patrol in a central location until 4:30 p.m.

The bomber will be able to drop its 6,000-gallon load of water on any blaze in the southern half of the Island within 15 minutes of receiving a fire call by radio.

"The situation is now becoming dangerous," said Mr. Hemmingsen.

He said the province is faced with a disturbing prospect in the forest industry because both the danger of forest fire outbreaks and the potential dollar loss and extent of destruction is mounting in B.C.

"Years of logging in B.C. has increased the volume of immature timber which is more vulnerable to fire and in many cases this timber is some distance from logging crews and fire fighting equipment.

"Public access to the woods is increasing with a resulting increase in hazard from fires caused by lack of care."

He said another problem is that logging camps in the woods are being eliminated as loggers move to established communities so that fire-fighting crews may take longer to reach out-breaks.

The Mars water bombers dumped a record 1,516,000 gallons in a total of 314 drops during the 1965 fire season and played a major role in striking out 23 forest fires between June 2 and Sept. 23.

REALTOR NOMINATED FOR COWICHAN-MALAHAT

Grits' Chances 'Aren't Hopeless'

DUNCAN — Realtor Joseph Haddock was unanimously chosen Monday Liberal candidate in the Cowichan-Malahat riding.

He was nominated by former candidate George Whittaker who warned: "Our chances of winning are not too bright but they are not hopeless."

Mr. Whittaker alleged a split exists within the NDP on the question labor unions and he claimed public disenchantment with the Socials.

Mr. Whittaker said the Socials large second place vote in the riding in 1963 was due to a great deal of personal support for candidate Reeve Donald Morton.

Mr. Whittaker said he understood Reeve Morton is not running again.

The local Social nomination meeting is tonight.

Mr. Haddock said Social Credit is making more enemies daily and the public is fed up with the empty self-praise.

He said there has been a great increase in the number of highway deaths since this government came to power.

Mr. Haddock said: "I'm not blaming Mr. Gaglardi but he has incited in our young people a disregard for everything but speed."

Guest speaker at the convention was Alan McFarlane, Oak Bay MLA in the last legislature.

Mr. Haddock said: "I believe it is a fact Premier Bennett will resign before the next election, if he isn't defeated this time."

"And then there will be the damndest fight you ever saw."

"I predict the whole Social Credit party will fall apart."

Expounding the Liberal platform, Mr. Macfarlane said they would overhaul the expropriation laws; give people the right to sue the government; amend the divorce laws; and set a fixed date for elections.

Mr. Macfarlane said a government should complete four years of its term, unless defeated on the floor of the legislature.

He said the Liberals are not against development of the Peace and Columbia River projects. Liberals felt the development should be on a national basis if possible.

Premier Bennett is refusing federal government money to build the transmission line.

Mr. Macfarlane said: "All because he thinks they are his own projects."

Duncan Approves Better Lighting

DUNCAN—Lighting in the city will be improved at an increased annual cost of $400.

Council Monday evening accepted a program proposed by Ald. Barney Cocks.

Prime areas for improvement are the Trans-Canada Highway south from Dobson Road, and Coronation Avenue west from the highway.

Ald. Cocks said this will be part of a program to improve the lighting in residential parts of the city, and at dangerous intersections.

B.C. Hydro reported the downtown street lighting excellent.

'DARN NUISANCE' Mayor Jack Dobson said he has mixed feelings regarding the lighting of residential areas.

He said: "I find the lights a darn nuisance."

Ald. Thomas Kilpatrick said street lighting is mainly for the assistance and safety of pedestrians.

"Lighting in parts of Duncan is ridiculously poor," he said.

END ASKED TO 'DRY' VOTING DAYS

DUNCAN — City Council will ask Attorney-General Bonner to amend the Municipal Act to allow liquor outlets to remain open on election days.

Mayor Jack Dobson described the law as "a carry-over from the horse and buggy days."

Council agreed Monday that if Mr. Bonner's reply is unfavorable the matter will be placed before the September convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities.

'Why Buck It?' Asks SC Choice

NANAIMO—Vote Social Credit or Nanaimo will lose 10 years development, realtor Frank Ney said Monday when he was nominated as the party's candidate in the Sept. 12 election.

"If we sit on the lid of progress it will blow us all to pieces," he told an audience of 270.

Mr. Ney is president of Nanaimo Realty, buccaneer of many parades, sponsor of the Protection Island swim and centennial committee chairman.

He said Nanaimo will benefit more by co-operating with the government than by trying to "buck" it. He mentioned one of the benefits was the B.C. Ferries terminal.

Another speaker at the meeting was Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

"Nanaimo is the great gateway to the north," said Mr. Campbell. "Communities on the coast are the main street of North America today."

He said under the present government there is equality in both education and power throughout the province.

Mr. Ney's opponent is David Stupich, NDP member in the last legislature who defeated cabinet minister Earle Westwood in the last provincial election.

CAMPSITE ASKED IN ROTARY PARK

DUNCAN — Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan will be asked to consider establishing a government campsite in Rotary Park here.

The request will be made by city council which Monday night took up the issue first raised by the Chamber of Commerce.

Ald. Robert Mason said he had spoken to Mr. Kiernan last year and the minister favored a campsite in the park.

The minister's only stipulation was the park must have access from the highway.

ON RIVER Rotary Park lies along the Cowichan River at the east end of Duncan.

Ald. Mason said Mr. Kiernan told him it was possible to resolve easily the problems regarding the park's southern boundaries.

Dunrobin Here Thursday

One of the last operating steam locomotives seen in this corner of the world will chug over Johnson Street bridge Thursday afternoon.

Dunrobin, consisting of engine and ornate saloon coach built in Britain 72 years ago, will be on display at the E. and N. Railway terminal, Store Street, as a 1966 B.C. centennial event.

The so-called royal train — in its time as an estate jitney having been driven by four kings — will be met by Mayor A. W. Toone and Greater Victoria reeves, with members of the Greater Victoria centennial committee.

Small Support For Rebel Group At Port Alberni

PORT ALBERNI—A delegation of "breakaway" Nanaimo union representatives seeking support from mill workers here received a chilly reception Saturday.

Two women and six men, representing Local 8 of the Canadian Union of Pulp and Paper Workers, collected only 42 names to a petition seeking support.

The Alberni Valley has long been a stronghold of support for the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Workers.

Dunrobin is working its way down the island from Nanaimo on E. and N. and Canadian National tracks.

Until earlier this year Dunrobin was a private project of Victorian Harold Foster who bought the train and had it shipped from Scotland where it had been a feature of the Duke of Sutherland's estate.

BOUGHT BY GOV'T Centrepiece for a short while of a Government Street museum, Dunrobin was bought by the provincial government to be part of the Port Steele restoration near Cranbrook.

Shipped to the mainland, Dunrobin was put back in running condition in Vancouver and has been on trial runs between Chilliwack and Squamish.

The sedate looking locie with the tallish stack is of standard gauge and is coal-fired.

LADYSMITH TODAY It has been to Nanaimo, Port Alberni, and Courtenay and today was due at Ladysmith, Chemainus and Duncan. Wednesday it will visit Lake Cowichan before the run to Victoria.

Those who want to catch sight of Dunrobin en route may see it at Shawanigan Lake at 12:30 Thursday afternoon, a half hour stop.

From there it is a 40-minute run to Langford over the Malahat, followed by another 30-minute stop to 2:10 p.m.

The trip to Victoria via Thetis overpass, View Royal and Esquimalt will take 20 minutes, with arrival downtown set for 2:30.

Dunrobin returns Sept. 3 to the mainland via Nanaimo and next year will tour the interior.

Giant Blast Rips Church, One Killed

PLAINVIEW, Tex. (AP)—A thundering explosion sent the roof crashing down Monday night on 200 worshippers in the Church of God in Christ. Falling debris killed a woman and injured 53 other persons.

Twelve persons were trapped for a time as a small fire that broke out was quickly quenched in the concrete block and frame building.

After preliminary investigation Plainview's director of public safety, Hoyt Curry, said natural gas apparently was to blame.

"Indications are that it was a gas leak, possibly set off by an electric organ," Curry reported.

"The United Baptist Choir was singing when it happened," said elder Henry Jackson, 32. The lights went out, then there was an explosion that blew the floor out of the building and threw the top caved in.

"It blew me up in the ceiling, then I fell back in the chair where I had been sitting and turned over backwards,"

Mrs. E. N. Givens, wife of the pastor of the Negro congregation, said a capacity crowd of 200 or more filled the church for an all-musical service opening a week-long revival, and there were 65 in the choir loft alone. Her husband was injured.

Rescuers plodded through mud left by two days of rain to lift the wreckage, using a truck crane to hoist big pieces of the roof.

They found the body of Mrs. Ennis A. Dukes, about 45, beneath timbers which crashed down on the rostrum where she was sitting.

Hundreds of motorists flocked to the church on the north side of Plainview, a West Texas farming centre. Many helped remove the injured. Ambulances came from at least five other towns.

Doctors kept 28 of the injured in hospitals overnight.

A falling beam pinned David Lewis and his wife, who were sitting near the back of the church at the opposite end from the pulpit, but they apparently escaped serious injury.

Lewis said many persons escaped because the toppling roof lodged about five feet above the floor on the front side.

12-Mile Trek For Aid After 'Copter Crash

TERRACE (CP)—An injured Prince George man walked for nearly 12 hours to summon help for two companions injured in the crash of a helicopter about 34 miles west of here.

Neal Voss, 24, was burned, bruised and exhausted when he was spotted from a search helicopter early Monday on the banks of the Skeena River. His companions were rescued later.

Garry Pattison, 24, of Red Rock, B.C., was in critical condition in hospital here with internal injuries and a broken back.

Voss suffered moderate chest burns and the pilot of the helicopter, David Alder, 32, of North Vancouver, had a broken leg, but both were in satisfactory condition.

Voss and Pattison had hired the helicopter for a hunting trip.

IF YOU WANT TO SELL DON'T KNOCK PRODUCT

Honesty pays—but perhaps not this time. A half-ton pick-up truck owned by Esquimalt municipality was given a brutally candid appraisal in a public works committee report to council Monday night. The 1953 GMC truck was listed among "virtually worthless material" the municipality owns and should jettison. Its engine block is cracked and a new engine would be "a false economy."

"Market value of the truck is virtually nil."

Council may put it up for auction.

Now who'll raise that bid?

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved... actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

YACHT CREW SIGHTED LOCH NESS MONSTER

FORT AUGUSTUS, Scotland (Reuters)—A Scottish yacht crew said Monday they saw and radar-tracked a 40-foot creature in Loch Ness that followed their vessel for half an hour. The sighting was reported by George Ralph, 62, lead lockkeeper of the Caledonia Canal, which includes Loch Ness—home of an often-sighted but never-snared mystery monster.

South Viet to Abolish Prostitution

SAIGON (Reuters)—The South Viet Nam government intends to abolish prostitution and close down bars and dance halls.

Social Welfare Minister Tran Ngoc Lieng.

The government intends to remove prostitutes to "recreational centres" where they will be taught "more decent if less pleasurable and lucrative live-hoods," the English-language Saigon Post says.

Lieng told a dinner Monday night prostitution was a well-organized industry run by companies with head offices, branch offices and private cars for transporting "flower seekers" to "live flowers."

He said concentration of prostitutes into specific areas for re-education would safeguard public health and security and prevent more people being drawn into the world's oldest profession.

The prostitution problem, he added, stems from the social upheavals of the war, which brought large numbers of refugees into the cities and insufficient education.

Observers here, however, recalled the ill-fated attempts of the Ngo Dinh Diem regime to curb immorality—moves which only served to alienate the ousted president and his family from the people of Saigon.

Since the fall of Diem in 1963, bars and dance halls have boomed in the city, mainly because of the massive influx of American forces, and the rows of bars in the main street now employ thousands of bar-girls.

CANADIAN RAILWAYS

Livestock, Explosives Banned as Strike Near

MONTREAL (CP) — Threatened with a Friday strike, the CNR and CPR Monday announced embargoes on freight and express shipments of a variety of goods.

The railroads said effective immediately shipments of livestock and poultry would not be accepted.

Both companies said their embargo would be extended to perishable goods in general. The CPR also mentioned specifically silver and gold bullion, currency, explosives and other dangerous articles.

Both railroads said other express and freight shipments will be accepted, subject to delay, up to noon standard time on Friday, Aug. 26.

On that date, 120,000 employees of the two companies and of five smaller lines are threatening to walk out.

The embargo is typical of the way public agencies and private individuals are bracing for the walkout.

A spokesman for the Canadian Manufacturers Association, which represents 6,300 manufacturing concerns across the country, said major layoffs appear unlikely.

LOSE WORKERS

"We have a full-employment situation and the company that lays off workers will be in danger of losing them to other firms."

Some communities north of suffer because they are dependent on railways.

Mayor Philip Givens of Toronto said if the strike happens, it will have a worse effect now because this is "an inflationary period with the stock market down and a scary international atmosphere."

An Air Canada spokesman said no appreciable increase in demand for seats has been felt yet. "But we'll know in a day or so."

DESTINATION

CPR President Ian Sinclair said in a statement Monday that the firm would try to make sure perishable traffic now en route is moved to its destination.

As for passengers, they "will be advised before they entrain of the destinations to which their trains will be operated and of the cancelled train schedules."

Already calls are flowing in to truckers from citizens anxious to book places for their goods on alternate forms of transportation.

The Provincial Transport Co., which provides bus service to points throughout Quebec, has been dickered for extra buses to help take up the slack that would be caused in the Metropolitan Montreal area by a train strike.

REMOTE AREAS

Spokesmen for oil companies have pointed to the more remote areas as the first to suffer from oil shortages if the strike lasted more than two weeks.

Some slowdowns could occur in delivery of cars, but auto companies are shut down anyway for purposes of the annual model changeover.

One department store chain told of building up warehouse inventories in recent weeks, while the steel industry felt it would not be seriously affected. William Dunlop, president of the Winnipeg Chamber of Commerce, said Winnipeg's geographic location would make the strike effects doubly serious.

"We have to make sure from here that the utmost amounts of wheat can be shipped to ports."

USE TRUCKS

Hume Gibson, president of the CMA's Manitoba division, said many firms producing market goods would resort to highway transport but operations would be severely limited.

One problem for trucking firms is the shortage of drivers. Harvey Scott, assistant general manager of Manitoba Pool Elevators, said the federal government should intervene and prevent the strike.

"As far as we can see it, the western Canadian farmer will be one of the first to suffer from this. And if he suffers the whole western Canadian economy will feel it very quickly."

Some trucking officials in Montreal have said firms cannot afford to operate additional equipment during a strike because of the sudden decrease in business back to normal levels which would follow settlement of a rail tieup.

In Montreal, officials of the 1967 World's Fair expressed fear that a rail strike would delay their preparations.

FOOD INDUSTRY

Garnet Brown, president of a Halifax food firm, said if the strike lasts one week the Halifax food industry will be hard hit. "We'll have to rely on trucks and increase our stocks."

James Mingo, chairman of the Port of Halifax, said the port, now in the slow season, would be seriously affected. All cargo coming into Halifax moves by rail, except grain which comes mostly by vessel during the summer.

Nora Scott's premier, Robert L. Stanfield, said a strike could be serious "for the whole country" if it lasts any length of time.

Scottish Firms Merge

GLASGOW (Reuters) — Three Scottish shipbuilding firms announced today they will merge into a combine aiming to beat European prices for specialized shipbuilding.

The firms, with orders worth £40,000,000 ($120,000,000), said they could provide jobs for up to 10,000 men. At present 6,000 are employed.

Details of the proposed merger, in which all three yards will remain open, were announced by spokesman for Charles Connell and Co., Alexander Stephen and Sons, and Yarrow and Co. Spokesmen said the merger would concentrate on matching European prices for ship types in which the yards already specialize—naval, refrigerated, fast cargo and dredger.

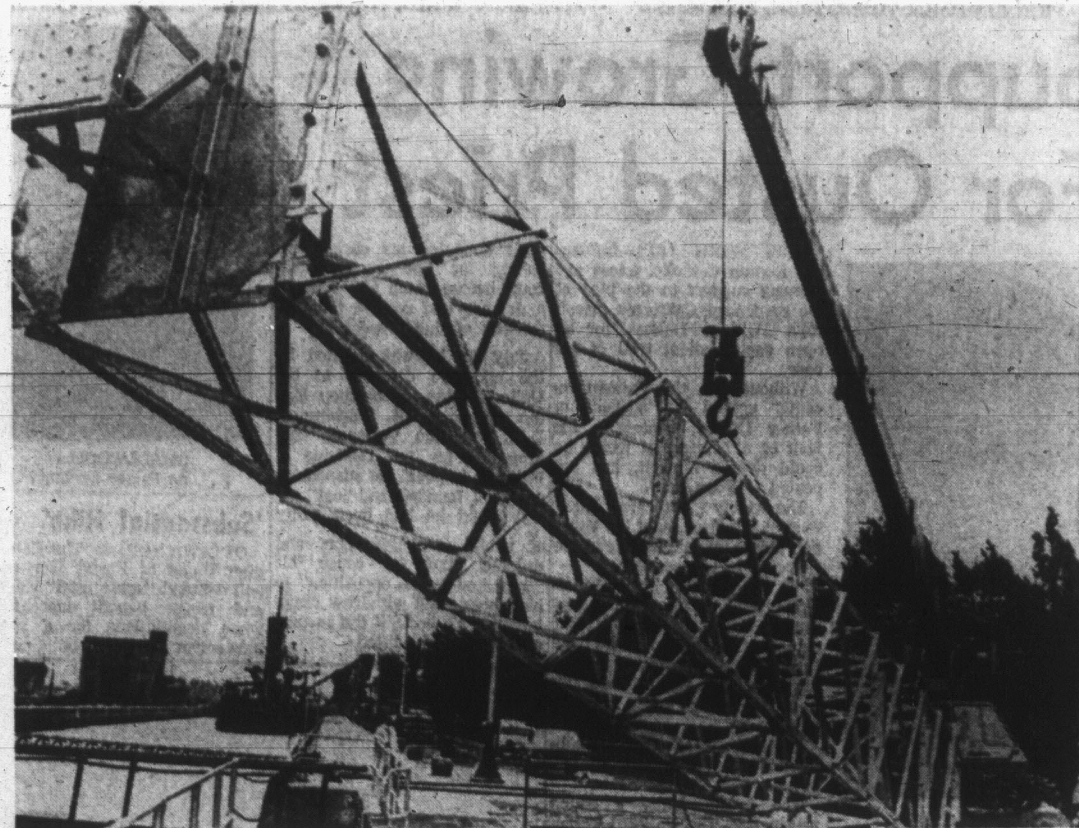

The group also plans to develop the container-carrying ship, expected to revolutionize sea freighting.

SKODA CARS TO RETURN

Car Workers To Press New Demand

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers Union gives every indication it is not taking as final the big three automakers' rejection of contract reopening to give wage boosts to skilled workers.

And General Motors, Ford and Chrysler are apprehensive as they shift into high gear on 1967 models, despite labor contracts which run until September of next year.

Unrest within any major segment of their 700,000-man labor force holds the threat of work stoppages or slowdowns. None wants this in a boom market such as has existed last year and this.

GM, Ford and Chrysler Monday separately turned down a UAW demand for immediate contract reopening to give skilled workers an immediate wage increase of at least 50 cents an hour.

POINT TO RAISE

The big three said reopening wasn't justified, pointed to automatic raises next Monday under current contracts and said, at least in effect, the union should abide by the three-year pacts signed in 1964.

The UAW contends its tradesmen working in auto plants are underpaid when compared with those of similar skills working elsewhere, particularly in the building trades.

Douglas Fraser, co-director of the union's skilled trades department, said the question of reopening now would be advanced to the top of the agenda for a meeting here Sept. 7 of the UAW's international executive board.

Asked if he anticipated stoppages or other incidents by skilled tradesmen because of rejection, he replied: "No, but I've been wrong before."

Dropout Looked for Work Now He's Making Million

EDMONTON (CP) — Sam Hashman of Calgary is a high school dropout who has made the big time.

At 36 he heads a multi-million-dollar construction group from executive suites in Edmonton, Calgary and Regina. Soon he hopes to open an office in Vancouver.

Interviewed in his swank office in the 25-storey CN Tower — a skyscraper one of his companies built — Mr. Hashman recalled his struggle to reach the top.

Quitting school after Grade 11, he had to find something to do.

"I was very uncertain about my future. I didn't know what exactly I wanted to do, so I accepted an opportunity to enter the business world."

When Mr. Hashman married at 21, he sold out to his partner and started Hashman Construction Ltd. with $3,000 of his own and a $5,000 bank loan.

Though a shoe-string operation, the venture had a definite advantage, he said.

"If you don't have much, you can't lose much, and if you are young, you can start all over again."

But he didn't have to start over again. His first construction company, started in 1950, now employs 300 people.

His holdings have mushroomed to include Sam Hashman and Co. Ltd., a construction company; Sam Hashman Management Co. Ltd., a development and investment company; Hashman Construction (Edmonton) Ltd.; Hashman Construction Regina Ltd.; and Hashman Holdings Ltd.

Soon his group of companies with financial interests in 12 other Alberta companies will reach beyond the Prairies to include not only Vancouver but Ontario and Quebec. He said negotiations are under way in an attempt to establish a partnership in the Toronto-Montreal area.

PARITY BONDS

Interest Rates Higher

By AB KENT
Times Business Writer

For the second time in three years Premier Bennett has had to boost parity bond interest rates from 5 to 5 1/2 per cent, due to the stiff financial market.

With the announcement Monday of a new $50 million Pacific Great Eastern Railway refunding issue of prime parities at 5 1/2 per cent, the premier also raised four previous 5 per cent issues for B.C. Hydro and Power Authority totalling $200 million.

But the circumstances are different this time.

TIGHT MONEY

When the previous raise was effected the premier was forced into it to keep bond holders from cashing in because of a tight money atmosphere.

This time there is a tighter money situation and the borrowing market is such that interest rates are at their highest in decades.

The 5 1/2 per cent rate is deemed about the lowest at which the parity bonds would sell, even though they are almost gilt-edged securities.

PARITY BOND

The premier said Monday in Vancouver:

"The parity bond is better than money. It will do everything that money will do, and finance commodity purchases and every three months it pays interest and that's something money won't do by itself."

But he also said he decided to make the issue to satisfy a public demand, that people would have been "disappointed if we didn't come out with a new issue."

He said the PGE might have been financed out of government funds instead of the parity bond issue.

EARLIER ISSUE

This issue replaces a $50 million PGE bond issue maturing Sept. 15, 1966, also at 5 1/2 per cent.

The Hydro issues will mature in August of next year, 1968, 1969 and 1970.

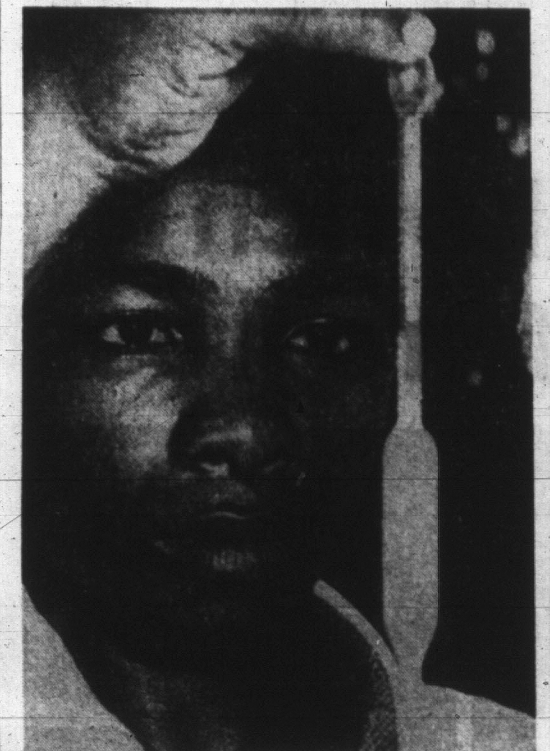

Later, at a press conference, the premier predicted a sharp drop in interest rates in future years.

"When peace comes in Viet Nam, interest rates will drop and it will be a sharp drop," he said. "Right now there is an artificial demand for money. Companies are securing money for their financial needs ahead of the time they will need it, and are paying high rates."

BUY THINGS

"It is like the Second World War days when people bought things like nylons or chocolate because they feared a scarcity."

"If peace comes in Viet Nam, the demand for money will return to normal — even to less than normal — because people have borrowed money in excess of their current needs."

Apples Bring Profit In Island Experiment

There's a good living in growing apples commercially on Vancouver Island, according to one of British Columbia's leading horticulturalists.

"But a man must be fully experienced in growing tree fruits," said R. P. (Bob) Murray, 592 Ridgway, retired provincial horticulturist.

Mr. Murray was the man who assisted Louis Gobolos, 1412 White Road, Central Saanich, to establish a 30-acre apple orchard, the first successful commercial venture on Vancouver Island in many years.

PLANTATION

The plantation has renewed the interest of growers in apple production — an industry which petered out before the First World War.

Mr. Murray said certain areas on Vancouver Island are suited for planting apples for marketing, especially Spartans and Tyndeman Reds.

"These varieties will do as well as in the Okanagan, B.C.'s major fruit growing district," he said. "But don't think it's a matter of ploughing 20 or 30 acres of land and just waiting for the money to roll in."

"Apple production calls for a fully experienced grower," he added. "One of the troubles of the Okanagan apple industry is the lack of such men."

WHAT PROFIT

He would not hazard a guess on what profit a grower would make on apples.

But horticulturists at the Dominion Experimental farm, Saanich, have come up with some figures, based on production.

Spartans were grown for 10 years on Malling VII footstock. They produced an average of 160 pounds per tree in 1965, or 35,200 pounds per acre. (222 trees per acre.)

This means at 10 cents per pound to the grower, the gross return would be $3,520 per acre, or $106,500 for 30 acres.

The late McIntosh produced an average yearly crop of 25 pounds per tree. The gross return per acre is $2,267.

One horticulturist felt it is possible to make a net profit of $2,000 per acre.

FATHER DuBAY asks trial

Independence Has Brought Wrong Leaders

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — The wrong men have been leading many of the countries of Asia since their independence, a former Burmese diplomat said Monday night.

James Barrington, former Burmese ambassador to Ottawa, Washington and the United Nations, told the Banff conference on world development that many Asian countries have been led since independence by men who are basically revolutionaries.

He said that while revolutionaries played an essential role in the independence struggles, they are often unfitted "emotionally or psychologically" for the subsequent task of administering a nation.

The revolutionaries have made poor administrators.

Mr. Barrington said this has been a factor in the lack of progress many Asian countries have made in improving the welfare of their people since independence.

"In most of Asia, I would say, the material plight of the population is worse than it was at the moment of independence," he said.

NEW LEADERS COMING

Mr. Barrington said a new generation of leaders is coming to power in Asia—in some cases military men, in others men trained as administrators.

These men could be expected to do a better job of leading their countries out of economic backwardness and of communicating to the affluent West their needs in areas such as economic aid.

Mr. Barrington said more fineness is needed in Western aid programs.

The pride of Asian leaders might well be hurt less if aid were channelled through international agencies instead of being dispensed on the primarily bilateral basis used currently.

Ivan Head, professor of international law at the University of Alberta, participated with Mr. Barrington in the session.

In his address, Prof. Head said the principal Western error in post-war relations with Asian countries has been failure to listen to what Asians want.

"The West has sought for centuries to remake Asia in its own image," he said. This kind of approach is winning only resentment.

Local Potter Wins Honors

Work of a local potter, Margaret Neill-McLennan, has received recognition at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.

A set of wine jugs in brown and rust colors, with leather straps, has been accepted at the exhibition and given honorable mention.

They were one of her two entries in an exhibit for weaving, ceramics and other crafts, sponsored by the Canadian Handicraft Guild.

Two pots done by Miss Neill-McLennan of Gilmar Pottery, 1700 Kings, have also been accepted by the National Gallery in Ottawa, and another is at present in the Gallery's travelling show.

NEW YORK (AP)—Influential Roman Catholic voices are offering support to the plea of the suspended California priest, Rev. William DuBay, for an open ecclesiastical trial of his case.

Without one, the Vatican recently upheld his suspension. Father DuBay, protesting the lack of a hearing at which he could defend himself, has appealed to Pope Paul.

The widely-respected Jesuit weekly, America, said the situation points up deficiencies in the church's legal procedures.

"In the name of basic human dignity and the procedural guarantees indispensable for that dignity's recognition, Father DuBay should be given an impartial, public and procedurally impeccable trial," America said.

Some other U.S. Catholic publications have voiced similar views.

The independently-edited newspaper, The National Catholic Reporter, said last week: "Today it is an almost universal conviction of mankind that judicial proceedings held in secret and in the absence of the accused are not likely to provide 'efficient' protection of personal rights."

America disclaimed any sympathy for Father DuBay's doctrinal or practical viewpoints. Father DuBay, 31, first got into trouble in 1964 when he publicly accused his superior, James Francis Cardinal McIntyre of Los Angeles, of "gross malfeasance" and urged Pope Paul to remove him.

The priest said Cardinal McIntyre had failed to provide moral leadership against racial discrimination, and had suppressed priests who sought to do so.

Cardinal McIntyre transferred him several times, eventually to Santa Monica, Calif., and last February suspended him from exercising his priesthood, after he urged a labor union for priests and published a book, The Human Church, urging wide reforms, such as election of bishops.

Complaints Mount

Noise Bylaw Considered By Esquimalt

Esquimalt soon may have an anti-noise bylaw.

Council decided Monday night to consider the move after hearing complaints from residents.

The bylaw is necessary, councillors decided, to give police and the public works department proper authority.

The action came after a Lampson Street resident complained about noise from a neighbor's workshop.

A noise-measuring device, used in some municipalities, was recommended by Coun. James Bryant.

Municipal engineer John Graeme's resignation was accepted by council. He was thanked for his "fine work and co-operation" during 14 years in the post.

Mr. Graeme leaves at the end of October for a position with a local firm of consulting engineers. No successor has been chosen.

In other business council:

- Noted fees for business and trade licences in Esquimalt are "considerably below" other municipalities. A report is being prepared.

- Announced plans to rezone Lampson Street property to allow for additions to Olde England Inn "with a number of restrictions." A public hearing will be set later.

- Chucked over a suggestion from co-ordinator Jerry Gosley that municipal employees don't top hats during centennial celebrations Sept. 5 to 11.

- "We may fly a few more flags in front of the municipal hall," said Coun. James Bryant.

- Requested a boiled-down edition of the Capital Region Planning Board's sewage study prepared for councillors by the municipal engineer.

NDP ENTERS THE RING

Smallwood Faces 3-Way Fight

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Liberal Premier Joey Smallwood, seeking to keep his unbeaten string unbroken, unveiled his government's platform for the Sept. 8 Newfoundland election Monday as the New Democratic Party gathered its forces to make it a three-way fight.

Mr. Smallwood, premier of the province since Confederation in 1949, released a 42-page booklet which he says will be mailed to every householder in Newfoundland to show the voters what his government has done and what it plans for the future.

The NDP held its Newfoundland founding convention here Monday night and named Calvin Normore, a Corner Brook papermill worker, as its first leader. He will oppose Mr. Smallwood in Humber West.

Mr. Normore's first speech of the campaign accused the Liberals of being in power so long that their leader — Mr. Smallwood — "is no longer the servant but the master of the people."

Mr. Normore said the NDP will "fight an all-out political war" in an attempt to oust the Liberals.

The NDP held no seats in the last legislature. Also in the campaign are the Progressive Conservatives, headed by Dr. Noel Murphy. The PCs have announced they will contest all 42 seats. At dissolution, the Liberals held 33 seats and the Conservatives six.

There were three vacancies. The Liberal platform outlined a series of ambitious proposals including a plan to pave 3,000 miles of road in Newfoundland and Labrador and to build a road connecting by a tunnel—insular Newfoundland with Labrador.

The government promises to build or rebuild 500 schools and "wipe out illiteracy." A new campus for the fisheries college here would be built and the present $4,000,000 annual grant for school construction would be doubled.

The Liberals also promise improved health services, construction of two or three nursing schools, a doubled value of the fishing industry, landing strips for several communities and more aid to municipalities for water and sewer services and housing.

Mr. Smallwood also promised reduced electricity rates for all Newfoundlanders by next spring.

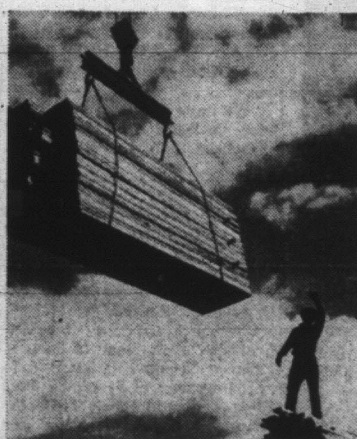

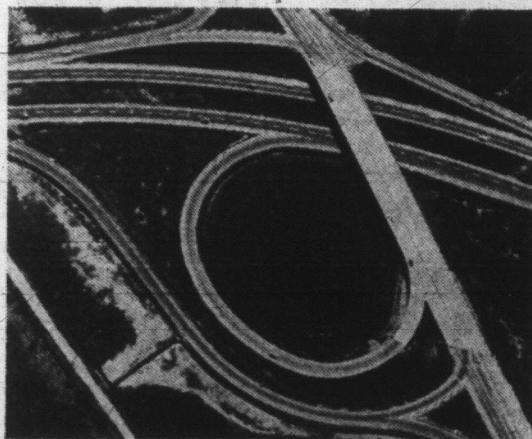

He said increased federal aid and income from development of the province's natural resources will pay for his program.

MAYOR'S WIFE BYLAW VICTIM

AURORA, Ont. (CP)—Teen-agers are the target of Aurora's new anti-loitering bylaw, but one of the first victims was the mayor's wife and son.

Mrs. William Davis and her son, Robert, were standing with some friends on the main street Sunday when they were asked to "move along" by Constable Lowell McClenney.

"The bylaw states they shall not loiter and we must enforce it," said Police Chief William Langman. Week-end crowds of teen-agers prompted the new bylaw, proposed by Councillor Richard Hlingworth, chairman of the police committee, and passed by council last Monday.

"How would the chief like his wife to be moved along like I was when she's stopping to talk with friends," asked the mayor's wife.

Her husband promised to bring the matter before council.

"The bylaw wasn't drawn up just for a set of teen-agers," said Chief Langman. "The bylaw covers everyone and in our eyes everyone is equal."

PENDULUM SWING BACK

Another Theatre Set To Re-Open on Yates

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Times Movie Reviewer

A new movie theatre, The Haide, will open in Victoria soon.

It is a reconstruction of the old Plaza, on Yates Street, which closed five years ago because of the waning interest in movies in favor of TV. Work has been held up by the carpenters' dispute and an opening date hasn't been set.

Now the pendulum is swinging back. The people of Victoria are demanding more first-run feature films, and the Odeon-owned Plaza is being renovated and modernized to meet this demand.

It will be the second new theatre to open on Yates Street in three months. A manager will be named soon. The Coronet (formerly the Atlas) was started last May and is doing well.

WAIT TOO LONG

Victoria moviegoers complain they have to wait too long for top feature films presented in Vancouver. For instance, Lawrence of Arabia, Mary Poppins, My Fair Lady, and The Sound of Music showed in Vancouver and other big cities for nearly a year before they got to Victoria.

Why are we so neglected? Local theatre managers say it is because the big films are issued in 70 millimetre Panavision and Victoria theatres haven't the apparatus to handle them.

The big distributors won't issue copies in 35 millimetre while 70 millimetre Panavision is making money in the bigger centres.

And the Vancouver theatres are all in favor of Victorians crossing to the mainland to see them. Tickets to Vancouver showings are regularly sold in Victoria with the added enticement that viewers may also enjoy shopping in the big city.

Meantime, Victoria theatres are denied the showing of such interesting films as Doctor Zhivago, Beau Geste, ARMSTRONG... they kept coming.

The Blue Max, The Russians Are Coming and The Agony and the Ecstasy.

These much-advertised productions have been running for weeks in Vancouver but Victoria may not see them for months.

EXCEPTION

An exception is The Agony and the Ecstasy, featuring Charlton Heston and Rex Harrison. It is booked to open at the new Coronet Theatre on Sept. 24.

The Sound of Music showed in Vancouver and other larger cities for a whole year before it reached Victoria last March.

It has broken all Victoria records since with a 24-week run at the Odeon Theatre, but is due to close Wednesday, Aug. 31, to make way for Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?

The controversial film starring Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton.

"Virginia Woolf has been held back because of the tremendous popularity of The Sound of Music," says Jack Armstrong, manager of the Odeon.

"Several times we tried to take it off, but the public wouldn't let us. Victoria people kept coming back to see it again—and the tourists came in droves."

"Most of them had seen it in other parts of Canada and the United States and wanted another look."

Alex Reid, manager of the Capitol Theatre, hopes to get Mary Poppins back soon.

"I'd like to have it before the holidays are over," he said. "It would be a dreadful irony if we had to show it the week the youngsters are back in school."

This raises the fateful question: How much do our local movie managers have to say about the choice—and duration—of the films they show?

Who calls the tune—the managers, the proprietors, or the big distributors?

Mrs. Hemingway Admits Novelist Shot Himself

NEW YORK (UPI)—The widow of Ernest Hemingway acknowledged Monday that the prize-winning novelist, "sick and desperate" at the time, committed suicide at their Ketchikan, Idaho, home five years ago.

It was the first public admission by Mrs. Hemingway that her husband's shotgun death on July 2, 1961, was not an accident.

"I never discussed it with a psychiatrist but I suppose it had something to do with self defence," she said. "Admitting the truth would have snapped my nerves, split open my brain. But I realized it was stupid to go on pretending."

Mrs. Hemingway had maintained for a long time after the tragic event that the famed author's death had been accidental. Although no official inquest was held after the shooting, a local coroner said it would never be known whether the death was accidental or self-inflicted.

She said that Hemingway, regarded internationally as one of the great contemporary writers, had been productive "right up to the end," even after he had been in the Mayo clinic for treatment a second time and had returned to Ketchikan to rest.

"He left 40 pounds of manuscripts," she said. "There remains another novel, maybe two. I mean 'The Dangerous Summer' (a large volume on bullfighting) and one set in the Caribbean. Then there are many short stories. The next novel to appear will almost certainly be set in the Caribbean."

PIRATES CLING TO LEAD

'Not a Bad Catcher' Proving a Good Hitter

By Associated Press

Jesse Gonder finally is catching up with Frank Robinson and Vada Pinson again, but he's rather catch up with Yogi Berra.

Gonder, who was a high school chum of Robinson and Pinson, continued hitting like the two sluggers Monday night, rapping three hits as Pittsburgh Pirates edged Philadelphia Phillies 6-5 and maintained their one-point lead in the National League pennant race.

Gonder, a reserve catcher, has started the last three games for the Pirates and has collected eight hits in 13 at bats, raising his average .54 points to .245.

But as elated as Gonder is about his hitting, he prefers building his image as a catcher, an image he contends has been marred unjustifiably.

"I'm not a bad catcher," he said. "I hate to say this, but I have to blame the New York press. When I was with the Mets, the press was building the Mets' image. Any time a player did something wrong, they'd play it up big.

"Like one day the headline read: 'Gonder drops pop fly. Mets lose.' I don't think I got a fair shake."

Gonder, 30, has traveled extensively since attending Cuyamaca High School in Oakland, Calif., with Robinson and Pinson.

He played with 11 minor league teams and four major league teams—both New Yorks, Cincinnati Reds and Milwaukee—before joining the Pirates this season.

He's still considered a second-stringer, but his current hitting prowess adds one more potent bat to the Pirates' already potent attack.

He's socked his only three doubles this season in the past two games, and his six homers are only one less than his major league career high of seven.

In other National League games, second-place San Francisco Giants defeated Cincinnati 5-2, Los Angeles Dodgers edged Atlanta Braves 4-3 in 12 innings, St. Louis Cardinals blanked Houston Astros 3-0 and Chicago Cubs downed New York Mets 8-4. There were no games scheduled in the American League.

BILL POWERS RALLY
The Pirates added 14 other hits to Gonder's three. One was Bill Mazeroski's two-run triple, which powered a four-run rally in the fifth inning. Mazeroski put the Pirates ahead of Philadelphia 4-3 with the triple, then scored as Bob Bailey singled.

Hal Lanier scored on Len Gaviglio's fifth-inning single, putting San Francisco ahead 3-2, then added a two-run single in the eighth. Reliever Lindsay McDaniell preserved the victory by blanking Cincinnati on four hits in the last four innings.

Lou Johnson's two-out, run-scoring single in the 12th inning kept Los Angeles three games out of first. Ron Fairly's run-scoring single put the Dodgers ahead 3-2 in the eighth, but Atlanta tied it in the ninth on Mack Jones' sacrifice fly. Hank Aaron hit his 34th homer for the Braves.

Steve Carlton scattered seven hits for his first major league shutout. Curt Flood supplied enough batting support, singling home runs in the first and fifth innings. Houston got only one runner to third.

Randy Hundley hit a two-run homer, and Ron Santo slugged two doubles and a single, leading Chicago past New York. Ken Holtzman scattered eight hits, including Jim Hickman's two-run homer in the fourth.

First-Place Honors Shared at Gorge Vale
Shirley Naysmith and Elsie Saunders tied for first place in a medal round for women with under-15 handicaps at the Gorge Vale golf course Monday. Each had a low gross score of 83.

Jean Lunsey won the low net title with a 75. Flo Chapman was second with 77.

COACHES CONCERNED
Coaches concede that defence is ahead of the game at this stage. All have come up with an additional threat—a rollout quarterback.

Now that Peter Liske has replaced Eagle Day, at least temporarily, as Calgary's starting pivot, every club in the west has a quarterback capable of running.

Awkward but effective, Liske's running allowed him to join Kenny Ploen of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Joe Kapp of British Columbia Lions, Ron Lancaster of Saskatchewan and Randy Kerbow of Edmonton Eskimos in the ranks of western roll-out threats.

Kapp, basically a drop-back passer, is rugged enough to carry the ball although he lacks speed.

Kapp and Liske have similar physiques—tall and solid—and similar running styles.

The other three starters possess good speed to complement their passing.

Lancaster, the premier scrambler among Canadian quarterbacks, probably has less sheer speed than either

Punt Return Play Lifts Eskimo Club

Esks in Third After Tripping Roughies, 18-17

REGINA (CP)—Edmonton Eskimos climbed out of the Western Football Conference cellar Monday night over the backs of Saskatchewan Roughriders by squeaking an 18-17 victory.

Esks coach Neil Armstrong said that while his defensive squad was too cautious in the second half, the offence was greatly improved.

But the defence was the key to unlocking the cellar door and moving Edmonton to third spot in the league with a 2-3 record and four points, two behind Saskatchewan with six points and a 3-2 record and Winnipeg, also with six points, on a 3-1 record.

The big play was halfback Trent Walters' 53-yard return of a short kick by Saskatchewan's Jack Abendschan early in the second quarter as the Esks trailed 8-0. At halftime Edmonton led 18-8 with the Roughriders scoring a field goal in the third quarter and an unconventional touchdown in the final minute of play.

Rider coach Eagle Keys agreed the punt return for the touchdown was the turning point.

SHOOK THINGS UP
"That shook everything up. The defence didn't really recover until the third quarter. Our offence had plenty of chances but we just didn't take advantage of them."

Abendschan opened the scoring in the first quarter with a single and then converted quarterback Ron Lancaster's touchdown.

Tommy-Joe Coffey added six points in the second quarter rout with two converts, a single and a field goal. Garry Lefebvre rounded out the Esks' scoring, catching a Randy Kerbow pass for a 21-yard touchdown.

A crowd of 18,652 saw Lancaster move his squad to the Edmonton 35 from the Saskatchewan 28 to set up Abendschan's third-quarter field goal.

In the fourth quarter Kerbow fumbled on the option, at the Riders' 43. Gene Wlasiuk recovered for Saskatchewan and one pass later, as the clock moved into the final minute, Lancaster hit Gord Barwell in the end zone. But Abendschan missed the convert and the chance to salvage a tie.

LANCASTER SHARP
Lancaster completed 18 of 29 passes for 306 yards and kept the ball six times to gain 33 yards on the ground, including his touchdown.

Kerbow gained only 45 yards on three completions in 14 pass attempts, but guided the Esks to 188 yards along the ground compared with the Riders' 71.

Indicative of Edmonton's hard-charging defence, the Roughriders had 22 first downs compared with Edmonton's 12 but were unable to use them to advantage.

Jim Thomas, a three-year Eskimo, retained his lead in WFC rushing, adding 90 yards for a total of 655. His longest of 37 carries was 23 yards.

Saskatchewan's George Reed, who won the conference rushing record last year, carried 17 times for 64 yards—his longest eight—to give him a tally of 370 yards in second place, well behind Thomas.

But Reed caught three of Lancaster's passes good for 60 yards, and shaded teammate Hugh Campbell who was held scoreless, gathering in three of four passes for 47 yards.

BRANDON (CP)—For nine Canadian provinces, the Canadian junior golf championships and interprovincial team matches began to take on a gloomy note after just one day of play Monday.

CANADIAN JUNIOR RESULTS

BRANDON (CP)—Eighteen-hole scores in the 36-hole junior interprovincial team golf championship Monday:

ONTARIO (27)—Gar Hamilton, Jr., Toronto 41-40; St. Peter Turner, Toronto 37-38; Ken Trowbridge, Brampton 37-38; Wayne McDonald, Oakville 39-33-74.

SASKATCHEWAN (30)—Lawrence Bamford, Saskatoon 41-38; Rick Falk, Saskatoon 38-39-75; Rick Maguire, Saskatoon 41-38-79; Ted Rick, Prince Albert 36-38-74.

BRITISH COLUMBIA (30)—Ross Brown, Vancouver 37-38-75; John Marston, Victoria 38-43-81; Tom Morvan, Port Hammond 37-38-75; Doug Stewart, Halifax 38-40-78.

ALBERTA (31)—Bryan Bennett, Edmonton 38-37-75; Keith Allan, Calgary 38-43-81; Jim McNeill, Edmonton 38-39-78; Roger Klatt, Edmonton 40-37-77.

NOVA SCOTIA (31)—Graham MacIntyre, New Glasgow 37-37-74; Bill Darrow, Dartmouth 38-41-79; Chris Seaver, Halifax 38-40-78; Scott Seaver, Halifax 39-43-82.

QUEBEC (31)—Andy Jette, Beloeil 42-40-82; Brian McLean, Lorraine 40-37-77; Eric Reid, Dorion 38-40-78; Stephen Smith, Dorion 38-40-78.

MANTOYA (33)—Dave Hill, Winnipeg 40-38-78; Steve Barnatyn, Winnipeg 41-38-79; Jason Paulsen, Fort Arthur, Ont. 38-37-75; Gordon Falk, Winnipeg 40-40-80.

NEW BRUNSWICK/P.E.I. (37)—Jean Boudreau, Edmundston, N.B. 41-40-81; Carl Shaw, Perth, N.B. 42-42-84; Ronnie Barrett, Charlottetown 42-42-84; Bob Irwin, Charlottetown 38-39-77.

NEWFOUNDLAND (38)—Edo O'Brien, Corner Brook 42-40-82; Keith Ross, St. John's 42-43-85; Peter Stirling, Grand Falls 42-43-85; Richard Hyslop, St. John's 42-43-85.

OTHER B.C. SCORES
Russ Bentley, Kamloops 38-44-82; Glen Buckley, Vancouver 38-39-77; Jim Wardhaugh, Vancouver 41-37-79; Don Hillsborough, Victoria 42-38-80; John Russell, Richmond 43-38-82; Joe Scully, Vancouver 38-43-78; Ritchie Downey, Vancouver 40-42-82.

Not that the 10th Ontario—was worried.

Ontario's provincial team built up an eight-stroke lead on its nearest rival, partly on the strength of a par 70 by Peter Turner of Toronto, as it opened defence of the title it won last year at Brantford, Ont.

And Turner's 37-33 on the Brandon Golf and Country Club course, coupled with strong performances by several other Ontario golfers, made it apparent that the province is out to retain the individual title won last year by Ian Thomas of London.

Turner's score helped offset an 81 by Gar Hamilton of Toronto, Ontario's junior champion. A 72 by Ken Trowbridge of Brampton, which left him in a three-way tie for second spot behind Turner, plus a 74 by Wayne McDonald of Oakville gave Ontario an aggregate 297, eight better than Saskatchewan at 305.

Prince Albert's Ted Rick also had a 72 to pace the runners-up. Rich Falk of Saskatoon followed with 75, and Lawrence Bamford and Rick Maguire, both of Saskatoon, each had 79.

British Columbia, after its third team title since the matches were inaugurated in 1959, was third with 309, ahead of a tight scramble that left Alberta and Nova Scotia with 311 each, Quebec with 313 and Manitoba with 315.

THOMAS FIRES A 73
Thomas, 17, the defending champion, shook off two clubbursts in the middle of a wet, cool day for a 73, matching the best efforts of Bob Smith of Kamloops, B.C., and Dale Talon of Noranda, Que.

A stroke back of them were McDonald and Graham MacIntyre of New Glasgow, N.S., champion in Nova Scotia whose 74 tied the province with Alberta in fourth place.

Of 121 golfers, only 42 others were able to tug a sub-80 score from the 6,165-yard course.

The second 36-hole round of the qualifying set goes today with the top 64 scheduled to graduate to six rounds of match play beginning Wednesday. The championships wind up with a 36-hole final Saturday.

Finlay, Stott Claim Trophy

Archie Finlay and Ernie Stott of Victoria West Lawn Bowling Club are the new holders of the Fairall Cup.

They captured top honors in the scotch doubles tournament by defeating the Burnside pairing of Fred Hall and Tommy Smith, 16-14.

Finlay and Stott defeated teammates Jim McGregor and Jack Wright in one semifinal while Hall and Smith sidelined another Burnside pairing, George Dean and Bill Turner.

B.C.'s Doubles Team Sets Unbeaten Pace
WINNIPEG (CP)—Sparked by an outstanding performance by Gord McMillan of Oshawa, Ontario moved into the early lead Monday in the Canadian lawn bowling championship.

McMillan's three victories in the singles competition, plus two wins in each of the pairs and teams event, gave Ontario a one-game aggregate lead over British Columbia, which had two wins in each of the three divisions.

McMillan swamped Jim Huie of Edmonton 21-12 and then stopped Howard Gorman of Halifax 21-14. In the third game, he took out John Henderson of Westmount, Que., 21-13. He has a bye in today's first round.

In the doubles event, British Columbia was unbeaten in three games. Doug Coyle and Andy Wallace of Vancouver stopped W. Wallace and A. J. Church of Alberta 17-15. Then they took out George Robins and Ron Jones of London, Ont., 14-12 before taking a 22-15 decision from the Winnipeg pair of Ed Brown and Stan Townsend.

Ontario had an unblemished 2-0 record in the teams competition.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver took a 2-0 straightedge on the best-of-five Inter-City Lacrosse League semifinal Monday by booming New Westminster, 15-8.

Vancouver could wrap up the series with a victory Wednesday in New Westminster. Fourth and fifth games, if necessary, will be played Thursday in New Westminster and Saturday in Vancouver.

The Salmonbellies were forced to use junior Don Wallis in goal when regular Les Norman was taken ill. Norman, a New Westminster fireman, fought the $10,000,000 industrial fire here Saturday for 16 hours.

NO PROTECTION

Wallis stopped 29 shots but the New Westminster defence provided him little protection.

Whitey Nelson sparked the Vancouver attack with three goals and one assist. Five players—Pete Black, Bob Babcock, Bill Chisholm, Gord Fredrickson and Duke Liebscher—scored two goals each. Sid Warwick and Bob Salt scored the others.

Veteran Cliff Sepka returned to the New Westminster lineup following an ankle injury and scored three times. Ken Torg and Ron Flaten scored twice each and Mack Tyler had one goal.

LITTLE LEAGUE SERIES ADDS $1,927 TO FUND

Victoria fans contributed $1,927.51 to Little League baseball as the result of collections at last week's Canadian championship tournament at Hampton Park.

The figure was announced Monday by tournament director Ray Pearce. The entire sum, he added, will be "deposited to the Canadian Little League regional fund at the Bank of Nova Scotia in Ottawa to continue assurance of Canadian playoffs."

Centennial grants from the provincial government as well as Victoria's centennial committee "pretty well took care of this year's expenses."

Next year's national tournament is scheduled to be held in Quebec, presumably in the Montreal area.

Clay Tries New Tactic To Avoid Army Service

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)

Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay is going to try a new tactic of avoiding army service—asking for a deferment as a Black Muslim minister.

Attorney Hayden Covington of New York, who is now representing Clay, said this is the step he should have taken in the first place instead of becoming embroiled in a controversy over an appeal based on a claim that he is a conscientious objector.

Clay and Covington will appear before former Judge Lawrence S. Grouman Tuesday for a hearing on his appeal as a conscientious objector, which is now being investigated by the justice department.

But Covington said this would have no effect on Clay's new request.

CIVILIAN CHORES

If Clay is reclassified as a conscientious objector he would still have to spend two years in the service as a non-combatant or two years in civilian work such as a hospital orderly.

Covington explained that if he receives a ministerial deferment—which would make him 4-D—he would be free from any service obligations.

Covington is considered an expert in his field and handled hundreds of Jehovah's Witnesses cases during the Second World War.

"This boy has as much right to a ministerial deferment as any minister in the United States," Covington said. "And I am confident he will get it."

"This is one of the finest young men I have ever met," Covington added. "He sincerely believes in his religion and preaches it constantly."

RECLASSIFIED 1-A

Clay twice flunked the army's mental test and was classified 1-Y. However, the defence department lowered its standards last fall and Clay was reclassified 1-A in February.

When informed of his reclassification, Clay touched off an uproar with his remarks about this action.

Subsequent public reaction forced his title bout with George Chuvalo from Chicago to Toronto. Since then he has defended his title twice outside the United States and will meet Karl Mildenberger next month in Germany.

Clay has kept out of the army through appeals for about six months. The Kentucky selective service appeals board has tentatively turned down his request that he be reclassified as a conscientious objector.

CANADIAN CHAMPIONS TACKLE CALIFORNIANS

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—The 1966 Little League World Series for youngsters 11 and 12 years of age opens here today with eight teams vying for the international championship.

As in the past years, four of the teams are from the United States and four from foreign countries.

They will compete in single elimination play throughout the week, with the championship game Saturday.

Today's opening doubleheader matches Sacramento, Calif., against Windsor, Ont., in the first game and Houston, Tex., against Monterrey, Mexico, in the second. Other teams see action Wednesday.

FISHOFF SUNDAY

Spencer Top Man In Ladder Derby

T. W. (Tom) Spencer of Victoria earned the title of "Ladder Man 1966" in the Cowichan Bay Salmon Club's annual ladder derby with a 46-pound, 14-ounce catch.

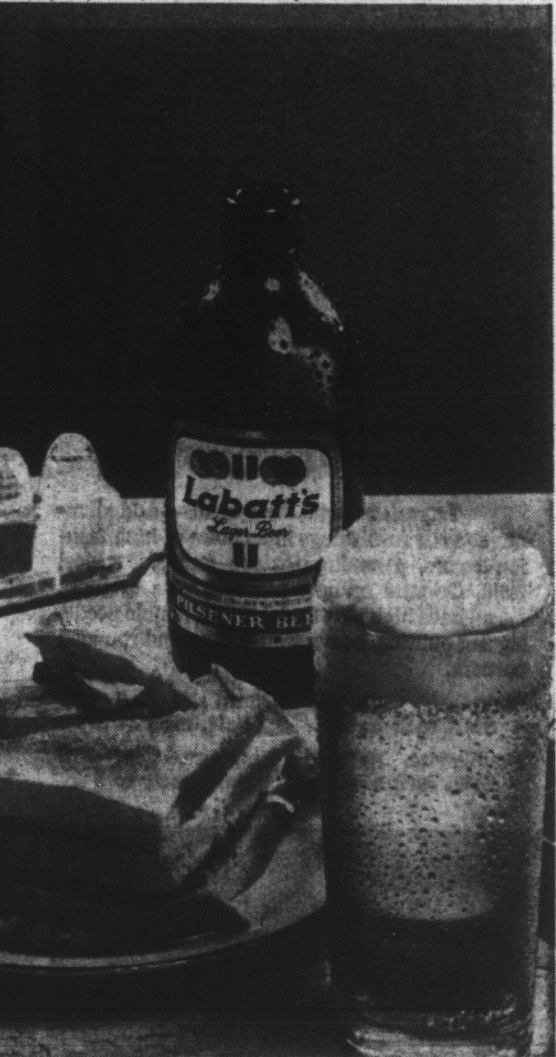

Mrs. Andy Bell of Lake Cowichan, who caught a 40-pounder in the final qualifying week, finished second in the derby. The two were the only contestants to net silver button-sized salmon.

Only the top 50 qualify for the fish-off. Prizes of $75, $50 and $25 will be awarded at the close of next Sunday's action as well as two hidden-weight prizes of $10 each.

Wrong Body Shipped East By Coroner

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lionel Blais, 33, of Blind River, Ont., was missing, but presumed alive, today after his parents almost buried a body they had been told was his.

Mr. and Mrs. Antoine Blais of Blind River, Ont., are hoping that their son Lionel, originally believed killed in a fall in Vancouver, will notify them of his whereabouts.

A body flown from Vancouver to Blind River Saturday for burial was not that of their son. The body has since been identified as that of Leo Blais, 35, of no fixed address, and not related to the Blais family of Blind River. He died Aug. 16 in Vancouver General Hospital after falling down a flight of stairs July 20.

The hospital, which notified the Blais family in Blind River their son had died, said the hospital had been supplied with two sets of names of next of kin by a voluntary social agency.

"The next of kin names were mixed up," an agency spokesman said.

A spokesman for the social agency, however, said the only possible name it knew as next of kin for Leo Blais was a possible brother in Ottawa, and this name had been given to the hospital.

PAID FOR SHIPPING

When notified by the hospital that their son was dead, Mr. and Mrs. Antoine Blais forwarded $153.60 to a Vancouver funeral home to have the body sent East by air.

The mistake was discovered when the family gathered to have a last look at Lionel on the day of the funeral.

Coroner Glen Macdonald of Vancouver said he had ordered the body flown back to Vancouver as soon as possible.

"There has been an honest mistake on somebody's part," he said.

"But there's one question that is not answered in my mind. Who's going to pay for all this travelling? We don't think it was our mistake."

"I guess all our lawyers will have to get together."

Rescued Climbers Returned to Base

CHAMONIX, France. (Reuters)—Two West German mountain climbers trapped for more than a week on the 12,300-foot Aiguille du Dru in the French Alps returned here today with the mountaineering party which rescued them.

More than 60 mountaineers took part in the operation to rescue the pair—Heinz Ramisch, 22, and German Hermann Schridde, 30. It was one of the biggest rescue efforts in the French Alps for years.

The pair had been trapped on a sheer cliff-face.

The climbers were brought down to Chamonix by helicopter when a bivouac at 9,100 feet where they slept Monday night after being rescued from a narrow ledge near the summit Sunday. They had been trapped on the ledge by bad weather since last Wednesday.

They said they were afraid to move up or down in case they lost their footing on the ice-glazed rocks and plunged to their deaths.

A nine-man international rescue team shepherded them 700 yards to safety at the foot of the mountain's west face in a grueling two-day descent.

'I'm Sorry For Lennon'—Minister

A Victoria minister expressed sympathy for John Lennon, one of the British Beatles, in a broadcast sermon Sunday night.

"I am sorry his reference to Jesus Christ, in relation to the Beatles' popularity, got him into so much trouble," said Rev. Albert E. King, addressing a joint service of First United and Metropolitan United churches.

"I don't think it did any harm; in fact it is good for us to be exposed to ideas, even if we don't feel we have much in common with them. It is on ideas that we build our faith."

Mr. King said Lennon's remarks were obviously the outcome of a genuine search for truth and he had been directly influenced by a book, The Passover Plot, by Hugh Schonfield.

"I wasn't greatly impressed with what Lennon said, but I admire his courage for saying it, and I hope he continues his search for truth," Mr. King said.

"There must be times when he thinks much deeper thoughts than those expressed in his songs."

ASK ANDY

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Michael Moore, age 8, of Shreveport, La., for his question:

What is a Portuguese-man-of-war?

Portugal is the home of the Portuguese people—and a man-of-war ship is at home in a fighting navy. The Portuguese-man-of-war is not from Portugal, but it does belong in the sea. However, it is not a fighting ship. It is a bright and shiny, ocean-going jellyfish.

This strange sea-going sailor is seen by ships in the Gulf Stream and farther south in the warm Atlantic waters. On sunny days, a floating flotilla of glossy purple balloons bounces merrily on the waves. As a ship comes near them, they suddenly sink themselves and disappear in the water. The bright, six-inch bubbles are Portuguese-men-of-war, and each one of them is a colony of hundreds of small sea creatures.

The Portuguese-man-of-war is classed as a jellyfish. The shiny balloon is a family float above a colony of stinging relatives. Some of them are shorties, others are 40 or even 100 feet long. The strings are tentacles fitted with waspy stingers. The tentacles may trail through the water in search of food or roll themselves up like coiled springs.

The hungry colony feeds on seafood. The poison from the tentacles can sting and paralyze even a big fish, so that the colony can devour it without a struggle. But the stingers cannot hurt the tough little man-of-war fish. This fellow hides from his enemies among the tangled tentacles of the Portuguese-man-of-war.

Poisonous

The poison, however, is harmful to human beings. The touch of a tentacle on the flesh leaves a red wheal, as painful as the sting of an angry hornet. When swimming in warm seas, watch out for those floating balloons on the waves. Find some other place to wade and swim—and remember, if they suddenly disappear, they are still there below the waves and their trailing tentacles can sting just as well under the water.

Sometimes the wind drives the floating balloons onto the beach and they cannot return to the sea. In the warm sunshine they soon dry up and perish. But take care not to touch or step on them, for those waspy tentacles can sting even after the jellyfish colony is dead.

The gas to fill the family float is a red whiplash, as painful as the sting of an angry hornet. The balloons because the gas is lighter than water. It lifts the whole family to the sunny surface where food is plentiful. But when threatened by ships or hungry gulls, the man-of-war ducks down to safety. A valve on top of the balloon opens, the home-made gas escapes and the man-of-war sinks below the surface.

Clubs Dog to Death

VANCOUVER (CP)—Juvenile authorities said here Monday a 17-year-old youth will be summoned to appear in juvenile court charged with delinquency in killing a dog with a golf club.

Police were told a chihuahua ran up to a youth Sunday and began barking and the youth hit the dog on the head with the golf club.

The Wonderful World of Animals

By DR. FRANK MILLER

Dear Dr. Miller: Something happened while we were visiting friends that has us worried. The first morning there, our Cooker, Blitz, was allowed to visit for a moment in the bedroom. My husband came in the room from the shower as usual. Blitz took one look at him and dove under the bed, seemingly scared to death. When my husband spoke to him, Blitz came sheepishly out wagging his tail. Does this behavior indicate Blitz is going blind or something? He is only three. —F.P.

Dear F.P.: Worry not. Blitz's behavior was not surprising under the circumstances. Apparently he hasn't seen your husband without clothes often enough to recognize him that way. A dog depends not only upon sight but also upon body odor and the sound of the voice for ABSOLUTE recognition. Your husband deprived Blitz of all three means of identification, at least until he spoke.

Dear Dr. Miller: A strange thing has happened with our cat. Tracy has suddenly gotten pretty mean and he was always so sweet before. But he doesn't act sick or anything like that. Just mean. Dad says maybe it's the dog pills we are giving him. The pills were for our dog's itchy skin and we are giving the left-over pills to the cat because he has itchy skin too. But this wouldn't cause it would it? —R.H.

P.S.: The cat is bigger than the dog, so the pills can't be too strong.

Dear R.H.: Yes, it could be the "anti-itchy" pills. Some drugs may cause radical changes in a cat's disposition—and in the direction noted. Of course, there are other possible causes for behavior changes that can occur with out the victim actually appearing sick. Generally it is a mistake to try to apply medication intended for one patient to another. First, discontinue the pills and second, have your veterinarian track down the cause of Tracy's terrible temper.

Dear Dr. Miller: Can you tell me what kind of a bird I have? She lays eggs and sings beautifully. She sings all the time. Could this be because my husband bought her song records and whistled to her a lot? —E.F.

Dear E.F.: Yes, your husband's sing-alongs have obviously been a help. She is an unusual bird, however, in that most hens don't have the stamina (or appropriate hormonal stimulation) to produce both music and eggs at the same time.

Dear Dr. Miller: Having heard pros and cons on this, I would value your expert opinion: Should a dog house be large or small? My wife insists I build our dog one, and wants to be sure it's done right. —C.V.

Dear C.V.: The size of the dog has a lot to do with making this determination. And, would this doghouse be for the dog alone, or would you be sharing it occasionally? From the canine comfort standpoint, a cozy doghouse is usually preferred. Over-sized rooms with high ceilings permit excessive heat loss. Most dogs can do a fair job of heating their own bedrooms—size and weatherproofing permitting. For some seasons, an ideal addition is a dry "porch" and mat so the dog can dry off slightly before going to bed.

Dear Dr. Miller: This summer I brought home a clam and named him Clem. Mom and Dad said he wouldn't be much of a pet and they are sure right. He's the very dullest pet I ever had. Is he hopeless or is there something I should try? —H.B.

Dear H.B.: Determining the state of Clem's health might be helpful. But even a healthy clam is admittedly pretty close-mouthed. Seldom can one be expected to open up and become really friendly. He may actually have a whale of a personality hidden beneath that hard outer shell. However, current communication cannot be expected to improve and you'll just have to accept Clem Chowder at face value—if any.

Does your favorite animal have problems, physical or emotional? Dr. Miller will answer all letters sent to him, in care of The Times, provided a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

Arthur Mayse

Back when the summer was young, a letter from Montreal turned up in my mail. The envelope carried Expo 67's circle of match-stick figures, and inside was an invitation to see how the exhibition is shaping up.

As one who has found his preferred place on earth, I am not easily persuaded to leave it. But I hadn't been east of the dividing mountains for a long time, and the chance to see something big in the making was potent bait.

Well, I have been and seen, and will this week report to you on a journey of discovery which very many Victoria dwellers will make next year.

Their goal, 3,000 miles distant, will be Canada's first world exhibition, a display which will rival—and according to its planners even surpass—the Brussels effort of 1958.

When the Expo men speak of it, which is constantly, they pile superlatives with reckless enthusiasm.

"Never in the history of the world," declares one director, "at any time or on any one site, has there been such an exhibition as you are going to see in your country!"

While newsmen tend to be wary of such extravagant-seeming claims, M. Philippe de Gaspé Beaubien, director of operations, may be proved right. Meanwhile, with Expo 67 still more than seven months removed from its April 28 opening day, I can only pass on to you my personal impressions.

These were gained in a crowded day which, for tactical purposes, began shortly after 9 a.m. in Montreal's Windsor Hotel. A uniformed Expo guide appeared among the shop-talking journalists in the lobby. She was smart in white blouse and light-blue suit. On her head she wore a puffy beret segmented in black, white and blue. With her she brought name cards, and for our lapsels, little gold pins rimmed with the Expo device.

"Now," our guide announced, "we will proceed by bus to the site."

The driver past whom she shepherded us shared the calm, detached air of the caliche horses that drowsed in the shade of the elms.

But there was nothing detached about his driving! He whipped his bus along narrow streets and in and out of traffic as if it were a sport car. We flew down to the St. Lawrence, out along a point of land past the Expo stadium with its tiered steel blocks and into a never-never land of grey concrete and red-primed structural steel.

Our objective is the administration building, the only one so far completed, with its pros-lounge where we are to be briefed by Expo officers. We take the long way round, by churning roads where heavy equipment waddles and crater-sized pits yawn. Our driver backs to the precise edge of a hole, makes a turn along another crumbling rim, and skirts a mountain of angle irons.

While he drives, the guide speaks into a hand microphone up front, continuing gallantly between jolts and bumps to point out clustered spires and incredible shapes which will emerge as Expo pavilions.

Surrounding us is the purposeful and directed tumult that continues, shift after shift, around the clock. The building never stops; there's too much to do, and impossibly little time in which to do it.

Here, though, the impossible is a matter of daily routine. Roads are patched up, torn up, and patched again. Parkland is rolled out before your feet, and around it has sprouted grass and trees.

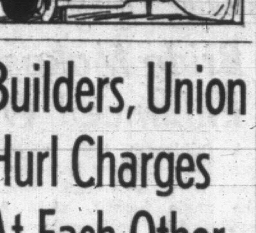

I find that I too am dealing in superlatives. That's how Expo, even with all its bones showing, affects the visitor.

It's Canada's big show, so big that it makes its own wild and wonderful skyline; and Wednesday we'll return to it.

Inquest Tonight

An inquest will be held tonight into the death of Murdo Gillies, 56, of 2831 Murray Drive, killed in a head-on collision Saturday night on the Old Island Highway.

The inquest will start at 7:30 at McCall Brothers Funeral Home, 1400 Vancouver.

Builders, Union Hurl Charges At Each Other

Accusations by both sides marked the 20th day of the contractors' lockout against carpenters in the B.C. construction industry.

Work came to a halt on many commercial and industrial sites Monday as the United Brotherhood of Carpenters extended its picketing of contractors who have declared a lockout.

Biggest projects affected are the $100 million pulp mill extension at Powell River and the new $60 million pulp mill at Gold River on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

The union accused the contractors of "callous disregard for thousands of school children" by locking out carpenters at schools and hospitals.

The companies left private sectors of industry relatively free to function, it added.

In turn, contractors accused the carpenters of backing out of talks with some school boards and contractors and of striking at least four school projects.

PANIC TACTICS

The union was also accused of panic tactics, intimidation of members, ridiculous demonstrations, "downright lies" to owners and "false reports to the press."

Carpenters came back saying there is "no basis whatsoever" for the remarks, that the union offered to resume work on classrooms needed by school opening and is willing to meet school boards and contractors to work out details.

The contractors said there was no lockout until the union struck several companies considered vulnerable because of completion penalty clauses in contracts.

Both sides are not budging in their positions over hours of work and the union hall hiring system.

Contractors want no change in the 40-hour work week and no more union hiring. Carpenters want a 37½-hour work week and continuation of union hiring.

SPLIT-LEVEL ROAD PLAN PREPARED

A new plan for a Johnson-Wharf-Storé split-level intersection has been prepared for city council.

The general scheme had been proposed earlier. But the new and detailed engineering plan entails a straighter approach to the Johnson Street bridge.

A straighter north-south connection between Storé and Wharf also is envisaged.

The proposal includes use of land formerly occupied by a warehouse at Storé and Johnson. It would require filling to street level.

Use of some E and N right-of-way property also would be required.

The plans are flexible and could be altered to conform with the location of underground services, said city engineer James Garnett.

TRUCK ROUTE

Store and Wharf would serve as a heavy truck route leading to James Bay and Ogden Point wharves. It would probably pass under Johnson, eliminating cross traffic, traffic lights and providing an uninterrupted approach to the bridge.

The project would require more money than the $140,000 now available said city controller James Bramely. But if council approves, certain other budgeted works could be put off, he stated.

NOVEMBER START

The city engineer said recently the intersection construction was planned to start next month, but likely will be put over at least until November.

Meanwhile, two other street projects will be necessary to complete the city's plan for a north-south truck diversion—a bridge over Rock Bay and a widened Causeway.

The latter is planned and could be undertaken relatively soon.

Bouncer Fined For Assault Of Patron

A man who was thrown out of a Broad Street dance hall June 19 testified in court Monday he suffered a broken nose, cracked rib, torn knee cartilage, bruises and abrasions.

John Harrison, 2605 Belmont, told the court two bouncers lifted him out of his chair at the Golden Slipper, carried him outside the ballroom where they dropped him on the floor, kicked and beat him.

Up to eight people took part in the beating, he said. While he was being carried down a stairway, one of the bouncers, 18-year-old Douglas Beasley of HMCS Mackenzie, kept punching Harrison in the stomach.

FINED $30

Beasley pleaded not guilty to assault but was convicted and fined $30.

Harrison was asked to leave when he was spotted with a bottle of liquor in the unlicensed premises, said the accused.

When he refused to go he was forcibly led to the exit by another bouncer but was not beaten.

Magistrate Ostler said that while it was likely Harrison had not been "a perfect guest," Beasley was too young to work at such a job and he was pleased to hear he was no longer employed at the dance hall.

CHANGING LANDSCAPE, due to warehouse demolition at Storé and Johnson, is due for greater change yet. If city proceeds with engineering plan which would create a Store-Wharf truck route and an unobstructed overpass of Johnson for bridge

Drinking Makes Him 'Go Wild'

Man Ruled Threat To Safety of Wife

An Oak Bay man pleaded guilty Monday to pointing a shotgun at a policeman and to kicking him in the stomach.

James Ballendine, 2020 Milton, was also ruled to be a threat to the personal safety of his wife, whom he also threatened to kill with the shotgun.

He will be sentenced for assaulting a police officer and pointing a firearm at him when he appears in court next Tuesday.

'GOES WILD'

"He doesn't drink that often but when he does he just goes wild," Margaret Ballendine said of her husband.

She fled from the house when the accused came home drunk early Saturday, grabbed the gun and a box of ammunition and said he was going to kill her.

When Constable Robert Faith approached the house, he said Ballendine pointed the shotgun from the hip at him.

"If this is the way you want it, this is the way you're going to get it," he shouted at the officer.

LOUD HAILER

Other police who arrived hurriedly talked to Ballendine over a loud hailer and persuaded him to give himself up.

As Constable Faith was putting handcuffs on the accused, Ballendine kicked him in the stomach.

Mrs. Ballendine said her husband beat her up regularly and described how he had slapped and choked her before throwing her out of the house last month.

Esquimalt Won't Budge In Sewer Hook-Up Fight

Greater Victoria School Board and Esquimalt municipality still haven't reached agreement on a sewage hook-up for the planned Christie Point school.

Council stood by its previous refusal to allow the hook-up after a meeting Monday night with school district representatives.

They asked instead the school board "formally approach" the

Victorian Gets $7,000 Scholarship

A Victoria man has been awarded a $7,000 Commonwealth Scholarship.

Brian Richard Little, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. Little, 1535 York Place, will apply the coveted scholarship to postgraduate study in psychology and architectural aesthetics at Oxford University, England.

He will pursue a Master of Philosophy degree from University College, Oxford, while continuing his own research on "sex differences in environmental perception."

Mr. Little will leave for Oxford from Montreal Sept. 9 aboard the Franconia with his wife, the former Sandra Ridgway-Wilson of Victoria.

The 25-year-old scholar graduated from the University of Victoria with a BA in Honors Psychology in 1959. He engaged in doctoral study in psychology and acted as a teaching assistant at the University of California at Berkeley from 1964-66.

He will return to Berkeley in September, 1967, for the Ph.D. in psychology. Mr. Little held a Canada Council scholarship 1965-66.

Railway Strike Would Hit 500

No Trains, Freight, Express, Telegrams

A national railway strike Friday will directly affect nearly 500 workers in the Victoria area.

They are members of the various non-operating unions set to strike at 1 p.m. summer time. The strike will mean no trains, no freight, no express and no telegrams.

Hotels, steamships and airline services come under separate working agreements and are not directly involved.

Indirectly, however, some of these services may be affected by the railway strike.

The Ogden Point docks will be affected by nearly a dozen CNR trainmen, maintenance of way employees and clerical staff. If a picket line appears longshoremen may refuse to cross it.

Spokesmen for Canadian National and Canadian Pacific and several of the unions said many of the effects will only be known once — and if — the railway strike starts.

SHIPS AFFECTED

The two biggest unions locally which are involved in the strike are the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers and the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks.

The CBRT represents drivers, warehousemen, office staff and some others at CNR while the BRT covers a similar jurisdiction at the CPR. Between them they represent about 500 Victoria workers.

A spokesman of the CBRT said steamships will be affected if attempts are made to circumvent the strike. "Hot" freight won't be handled, he said.

The CNR said there won't be any trains to move on ships so the shipping service is "bound to be affected."

He also said the company will do its best with supervisors and other non-union personnel to maintain private wire services such as telex in the event of mechanical failures or needed repairs.

A spokesman for Canadian Pacific said the last dayliner between Victoria and Seattle will be the first British Railer to arrive in Victoria.

The Board of Industrial Relations, meeting in Vancouver, is hearing briefs from all interested groups and persons on possible revisions to the existing minimum wage orders and structure.

These requests are minimal requirements to bring the lower segments of workers up to a decent living standard," said the federation's brief.

'WOEFULLY INADEQUATE'

It called the present minimum wage of $1 an hour in most minimum wage orders "woefully inadequate."

It pointed out that the social planning council of Metropolitan Toronto, on the basis of October, 1965, prices, said a family of four required a gross income of $409.88 a month or $23.6 an hour.

With adjustment for the cost of living, the rate now would be $2.43 an hour.

Blast Victim Remains 'Only Fair'

A six-year-old girl remains in only fair condition today after the explosion of her parents' cabin cruiser on Sunday.

Margaret Elizabeth Curran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Curran Jr., of 3617 Doncaster, is being treated in Royal Jubilee Hospital for severe burns received when the 36' cruiser, the Timist, exploded in flames while being refueled at Canoe Cove Marina.

When the cabin roof was blown off the little girl and her 11-year-old brother Donald were thrown into the engine compartment. They were rescued by their father.

Boy Set Fire On Maud Street

An 11-year-old boy was responsible for a grass fire at the end of Maud Street on Monday.

Deputy City Fire Chief Eric Simmons said today the youngster got a lecture from police in front of his parents. It took crews almost an hour to extinguish the blaze.

Fire fighters took just half an hour to douse another grass blaze behind the Curling Rink on Monday.

$1.75 Minimum Wage Asked by Federation

The 120,000-member B.C. Federation of Labour today called for a single minimum wage of $1.75 for all non-agricultural workers in the province.

For farm workers, it recommended $1.50 plus room and board or $1.75 in lieu of room and board.

In a submission to the Board of Industrial Relations, the federation supported:

- One minimum wage for all industries instead of the present 40 different minimum wage orders for various industries;

- End step-up progressions to minimum wage levels in the first three months of employment;

- A 40-hour work week instead of the present statutory 44 hours;

- Provision of statutory holidays with pay.

The Board of Industrial Relations, meeting in Vancouver, is hearing briefs from all interested groups and persons on possible revisions to the existing minimum wage orders and structure.

These requests are minimal requirements to bring the lower segments of workers up to a decent living standard," said the federation's brief.

They're Ripe for a Move Here ... and That's No Applesauce

By GLEN ALLEN

Westward ho the wagon. And thank goodness for that, say a retired English couple who brought a small trailer across an ocean and a country to Victoria.

"East of Banff we thought we'd made a mistake coming here at all," said Mr. and Mrs. Walter Boxall, of Hythe, Kent.

In a trailer park at Colwood the caravanners (that's what they call the trailer breed in England) explained that, until the Rockies, Canada had nearly as many beautiful as beautiful aspects.

"Things Canada could do without," said Mr. Boxall, 63, a former radio and electrical engineer, "are women in curlers, the thousand and one notices pinned and tucked all over everywhere, overhead wiring, and abandoned motor car bodies."

"It is criminal a country

with scenery like yours to allow it to be spoiled."

"But we're not griping," said Mr. Boxall, a reluctant critic.

"There have been the very good things. The places with outlandish names, like Medicine Hat or Moose Jaw; the day back in May when we arrived and the Halifax police took us in tow and even brought us a fish supper; the many warm hospitable people who in some parties queued up to visit, with us in our caravan."

"And then there were the mountains, the island and this city."

"Victoria has what we left behind (their home village is on the coast, in view of the hills of France) and more. It's just like Bournemouth."

"We hear songbirds and see flowers again."

"We're going home next year to sell our house and come back to stay."

"That's no applesauce."

The peripatetic pair have been living out of their tiny trailer the good months of every year for many years.

The caravan, hauled by a standard English sedan and weighing only 900 pounds unloaded has wintered in Spain, crossed the Alps countless times and Wednesday will head for Mexico.

The Boxalls have been told they're the first British trailer travellers to come to the island.

"More would come — I know many myself who are dying to come — if we could get our money out of the country."

They said they hadn't had any adventures worth recounting — black bears always kept their distance and they've always found a parking space for the roof over their heads.

"We don't really want any adventures," said Mr. Boxall.

"It's just a matter of buttoning down and going," he said buttoning down and waving goodbye.

Shoo Summer Chills In Warm Cotton Knits

By Penny Saver

Summer is a deceitful season, as no matter how high the thermometer rises during the day, you can get a chill in late afternoon or in the evening. One good chill is all you need for summer sniffles to set in with a will. Summer colds are miserable enough for adults, never mind for youngsters who must stay inside to cure the cold when they would much rather be outside. One good way to prevent sniffles after a day at the beach is to change into warm, dry clothing after your swim.

I found ideal cotton knit sweaters for the pre-schooler to keep him guarded from chills. One cardigan comes in pink tones and will make any youngster look dapper. These are color-fast and sell for $2.99.

Another light but warm cotton knit sells for $3.25. These have colorful patterns in pink, blue and yellow. Made in Denmark, these pullovers are perfect for summer and fall.

Little shirts for baby are always in demand. Striped cotton shirts with short sleeves have animal and floral patterns on the stripes. They're adorable and stand up to the toughest wear. Wash them with your regular wash without a second thought, as the colors won't run. Price is $2.

A West German import is made for babies. It is a little suit that comes in sizes ranging from small to the one-year-old size. Prices range accordingly from $1.85 to $3.50.

The cotton knit wearers have round necklines and buttons at the shoulders. In blue and white tones, these have a cord at the middle for a snug, comfortable fit.

The bottom part of this outfit has long legs with feet, ideal for the crawler and the youngster who is forever taking off his socks.

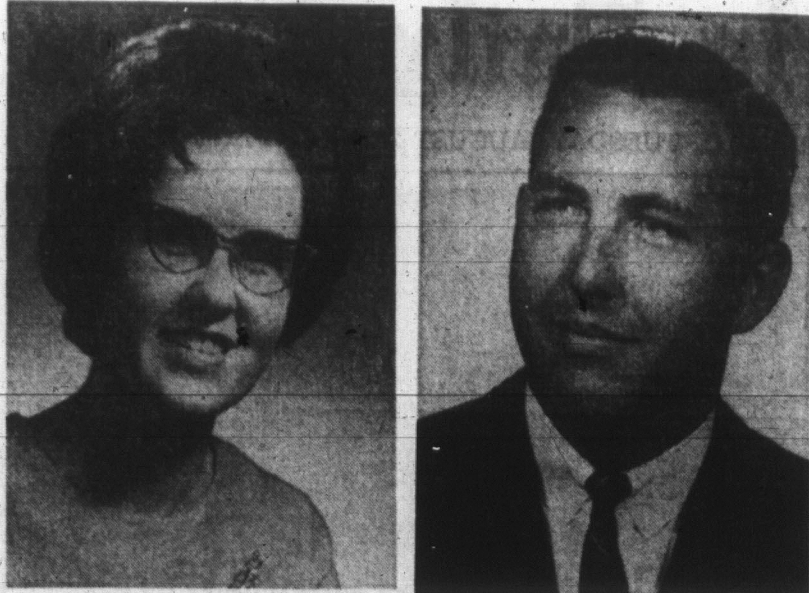

Stock baby's wardrobe now. Give Penny a call at 382-3121 if you want to know where she shopped for these outfits.

THE BETTER HALF

By Bob Barnes

"It's time to get up—I will begin counting to one slowly."

Mr. and Mrs. E. Mulholland, 4029 Carey Road, announce the forthcoming marriage of their youngest daughter, Maureen Doris, to Mr. Lloyd Dale Thate, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. (Bud) Thate, 3273 Seaton Street. The wedding will take place on Saturday, September 3, at 7:30 p.m. in First United Church. Rev. Marvin G. Fowler will officiate. (Jus-Rite Portrait Studio.)

FOLLOWS ROSE-MORSON MARRIAGE

HONEYMOON IN THE SOUTH

Following their recent wedding in First Baptist Church, Mr. and Mrs. William Ernest Rose travelled on honeymoon touring California and Nevada.

The bride, the former Miriam Doris Morson, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Morson, 1615 Pinewood Avenue, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William W. Rose, 2352 Scott Street. Rev. J. A. Watson officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The church was decorated with arrangements of gladioli and carnations in pink and white tones.

Mrs. Doris Kroeger sang "Wedding Prayer" during the ceremony, and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register, accompanied by organist J. E. Tunstall.

Given in marriage by her brother, Barrie Morson, the bride wore a floor-length gown of emerald silk faille. The groom's gown was styled with a scoop neckline and lily-point sleeves. The full skirt was of unpressed pleats, extending from a natural waistline. A coronet of seed pearls and rhinestones held her four-tier scalloped veil of silk illusion net. Her grandmother's gold necklace, "something old," was the bride's only jewelry accent.

She carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses and stephanotis. Maid of honor Miss Ruth Love and bridesmaid Miss Penny Rose, the groom's sister, were gowned alike in soft pink floor-length dresses of brocade. Headpieces were roses made of the same material. Jewelry was drop pearl necklaces, the bride's gifts, and they carried cascade bouquets of pink gladioli and feathered carnations.

Richard Elliott was best man, and guests were ushered to seats marked with white bells, accented by pink roses and white bows, by Wayne Morson and Steve Rose, brothers of the principals.

A three-tier wedding cake flanked by white candles and pink roses centred the bride's table at the reception following in Holyrood House. The Continental played for dancing.

Dave Bandfield proposed the toast to his niece's happiness.

The bride's travelling ensemble was a two-piece suit of pink tweed, complemented by white accessories and a matching pink hat. A corsage of white gardenias completed her outfit.

Mrs. William MacDonald was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were the Misses Joan Gilmour, the groom's cousin, and Sandra Inrig, the bride's sister.

Little Debbie Inrig, flower girl for her sister, wore an empire-line dress in tangerine tones with eggshell trim. She carried a basket of daisies. Robert Ellington was ring bearer.

Jim Gilmour was best man and ushers were Lorne Atkins, Harry Hill, Rick Inrig and Bob Blakeney.

Elegant Alencon Lace Highlight On Jill Boorman's Bridal Gown

Beautiful in its sculptured simplicity, the bridal gown of Jillian Diane (Jill) Boorman was fashioned of silk faille and styled on empire lines. The skirt bustle effect added back interest. Alencon lace gentled the high waistline. The fair-haired bride completed her ensemble with a chapel-length veil of white roses, dusted in seed pearls. Her cascade bouquet contained white roses, stephanotis and feathered pink carnations. For "something old," she wore her mother's heirloom crystal pendant.

Rev. J. C. Davenport officiated at the double-ring ceremony in St. Philip's Anglican Church, Saturday evening, that united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Boorman, 3494 Cardiff Place, and Barry Reimer Slagboom, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Slagboom, 8855 Marshall Road.

Standards of white gladioli and pink carnations were at the altar and pew markers carried out the same color theme. The wedding marches of Liebestraum and Lohengrin were played by Jim Furmston and during the signing of the register, "The Hawaiian Wedding Song."

A trio of attendants preceded the bride and her father up the aisle. They were matron of honor, Mrs. Kenneth Barker, and bridesmaids, the Misses Gail Smith and Pamela Boorman. They chose identical full-length aqua gowns, styled on empire lines, and complemented with toning headpieces of silk flowers and veiling. Complementing the picture were bouquets of pink roses and white feathered carnations and culture pearl pendants, gifts of the bride.

William Dealey was best man and ushering guests were Ken Barker and Terry Boorman.

Ferris Sturdy proposed the toast to the bride at the reception which followed at the Uplands Golf Club. Mr. Sturdy served with the bride's father in HMCS Prince Robert during the Second World War and had been present at the bride's baptism ceremony.

Leaving on a honeymoon motoring trip to California, the bride donned an imported Italian knit ensemble of pink sheath dress and matching full-length coat, pink-ribboned hat, toning accessories and corsage of gardenias and pink carnations.

On return, the newlyweds will make their home at 957 Monterey Avenue.

Heirloom Brooch Chosen As 'Something Old' Token

Her great-grandmother's gold wishbone brooch was "something old" worn by Jeanne Elizabeth Inrig when she became the bride of Murray Robert Bryden. The brooch and a single strand of pearls and pearl earrings were the jewelry accents to the bride's floor-length gown of crystal peau de sheep, highlighted the A-line gown, which featured sleeves ending in lily points. Her train, appliqued with Chantilly lace, extended from the back of the empire waist. A coronet of seed pearls and rhinestones held her four-tier veil of French illusion.

F. G. Hamilton heard vows uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Inrig, 1694 Alderwood Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Bryden, 1189 Tattersall Drive. Mr. Inrig gave his daughter in marriage.

Oaklands Chapel was decorated with gladioli, daisies and stocks in tangerine and ivory tones by Miss Jenny Smart for the ceremony.

The bride's uncle, J. Inrig, sang "Wedding Prayer" and "O Perfect Love," accompanied by organist Miss Daphne Bagshaw.

Tangerine, green and yellow were the color theme worn by the bride's chosen attendants. The floor-length gowns featured a sheer floating panel in back. Headpieces were of net trimmed with eggshell-toned satin roses, and they carried colonial bouquets of daisies.

Jewelry was the bride's gifts of pearl and crystal necklaces and earrings.

Mrs. William MacDonald was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were the Misses Joan Gilmour, the groom's cousin, and Sandra Inrig, the bride's sister.

Little Debbie Inrig, flower girl for her sister, wore an empire-line dress in tangerine tones with eggshell trim. She carried a basket of daisies. Robert Ellington was ring bearer.

Jim Gilmour was best man and ushers were Lorne Atkins, Harry Hill, Rick Inrig and Bob Blakeney.

At the reception following in the Union Centre, Mrs. Dale

Wallace read a poem which she composed for the occasion. The cake, which centred the bride's table, was made by the bride's mother and decorated by Mrs. W. Sims. Stan Hitchman was master of ceremonies and Charles Ellington proposed the toast to the bride.

The new Mrs. Bryden wore a pink crocheted Italian suit complemented with celery green accessories and a pink and green petalled hat, for travelling on honeymoon to California and Mexico. She completed her outfit with a corsage of gardenias.

When they return, the couple will live at 1670 Fort Street.

Bride Makes Brocade Gown Enhanced With Full Train

A full-length train created back interest to the floor-length gown of white brocade, which she made herself, worn by Sandra Alice de Macedo when she became the bride of Henry Hohlachoff recently in St. Aidan's United Church.

The empire-line gown featured sleeves ending in lily points. Her four-tier veil misted from a floral headpiece. She carried a bouquet of red carnations and white roses.

Rev. Leighton Straight officiated at the ceremony uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. de Macedo, 1875 Ventura Way, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Hohlachoff, 760 Rodrick Street. Mr. de Macedo gave his daughter in marriage.

The church was decorated with arrangements of gladioli in yellow and white tones. The bride's aunt, Mrs. Verna Moore, sang "Ave Maria."

Maid of honor Miss Beverley Smith, and bridesmaids the Misses Penny Chamberlain and Maureen Marson were dressed alike in floor-length gowns of brocade, styled similarly to the bride's gown. Blue and green highlights starred their sleeveless gowns. They carried bouquets of white and gold chrysanthemums.

Jim Gallagher was best man, and ushers were John McKenzie and Tom McKenzie.

At the reception following in the Union Centre, yellow roses and yellow candles in candelabra which were gifts to the bride's parents at their wedding, centred the bride's table.

Bob Bickford proposed the toast to the bride's happiness.

For travelling on honeymoon motoring through the provincial interior, the new Mrs. Hohlachoff donned a two-piece suit in pink tones with white accessories and a pink whimsie hat.

The couple will make their home at Garden Park Court.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Give Him a Chance —It's Not Too Late

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My sister, who is a 50-year-old divorcee, asked if she could make her home with me. My husband and I have a rather large home, but both his mother and my mother live with us, and we still have two sons living at home which crowds us a little. My sister pays $50 room and board. She recently met a man who, I suppose, is "courting her."

We don't want to spoil her chances with him, but he comes over almost every night for supper, on my sister's invitation. After supper they take over the living room and everybody else has to go to bed. How much longer should we put up with this? He takes her out occasionally, but not very often.

NO PRIVACY.

DEAR NO: I realize it's tough sledding for a 50-year-old divorcee, but give him till Christmas, and if he doesn't put a ring in your sister's stocking, you put a bug in her ear.

DEAR ABBY: Re "Nose Job," the girl who wanted her nose bobbed by a plastic surgeon: Her mother kept saying the girl had her father's nose, and his nose fits his face.

And you said, a girl's nose doesn't have to fit her father's face. Abby, you should have said if a girl was meant to resemble her father, or any other male relative, she would have had a flat chest. Yours sincerely,

ISOBEL IN TORONTO.

DEAR ISOBEL: Some have introduced myself. I am Jerry Moshenberg and I edited a wrestling publication for two years, so I feel qualified to speaking with some authority on the subject of wrestling. It is impossible for a man to get anywhere in the wrestling profession unless he weighs 200 pounds, minimum!

And for a 42-year-old to start training for a career in wrestling is useless. Wrestlers should start in their teens as it takes years of hard training to become a pro. So tell "Wants to Wrestle" to forget it, unless he wants to go to Scotland or England where they sanction bouts between men under 200 pounds. Very truly yours,

J. M. IN BALTIMORE.

DEAR J. M.: "Wants to Wrestle" is a woman. What are HER chances?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LITTLE RED CONVERTIBLE": an old technique for taking the sting out of criticism is to label the critics "jealous." Don't fall into that trap. The criticism may be just.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Women will soon have almost as many diet aids as cosmetic aids. Actually there are probably many more on the market than many reducers realize, and new ones are appearing every day.

Your supermarket or local store may not have all of the items I mention today. But they will have many of them, and the others will no doubt soon follow. I am sure you all know about the artificial sweeteners and that they come in both liquid and tablet form. However, I wonder if you know how successfully they can be used in recipes. I don't think anyone can tell the difference.

You also know about skim milk. Have you tried any of the non-fat dry milk? This can be used in recipes also. If you are a whipped cream fan and crave it even on your gelatin, whip up some of the non-fat dry milk crystals. It's not at all bad. The directions are on the box.

Of course, there are all sorts of low-calorie drinks — carbonated drinks and noncarbonated drinks. There are also artificially sweetened cereals and powdered coffee cream.

There are a great many low-calorie salad dressings which are really good. There are low-calorie breads and crackers of many kinds and some extremely good spreads. Cheese spreads are available.

You can buy jam and jelly which are artificially sweetened. The list of low-calorie desserts is impressive — custards, puddings and cookies. There are water-packed fruits which are low in calorie count.

I think that these items are helpful especially when you begin to diet and especially if your main problem is a sweet tooth. Also many women find that bread and salad dressings are their downfall. There is surely help in this category.

There are also some new low-calorie margarines. Such items are helpful as crutches for those who have a difficult time getting started.

If you would like to have my "Trick and Treat Diet" which gives you some treats while tricking five pounds, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf from an old book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor discoloration and faint horizontal lines, possibly from the scanning process or the original paper's grain. There are a few small, dark spots or specks scattered across the surface, which are typical of old paper. The overall tone is a warm, off-white or light beige.

Quakers Channel Aid To Cong Via Canada

NEW YORK (AP)—A group of American Quakers, who say they want to give "humanitarian relief to all sides," has mailed packages of medical supplies to Canada destined for the Red Cross organizations of North Viet Nam, the Viet Cong and South Viet Nam.

The Quaker group tried to mail the packages here Monday but U.S. postal officials would accept only the packages to the south, and rejected those headed for North Viet Nam and the Viet Cong. The latter were then readdressed to Canada for trans-shipment to their destinations.

The 6,700-member New York Quakers group voted last month to test the legality of sending parcels to the North Vietnamese.

A post office department spokesman in Washington said the action did not violate any postal regulations. There was no comment, however, from the justice department.

The postal spokesman also said later mail for North Viet Nam is being accepted and is being handled through Hong Kong. Hong Kong will not accept packages, he said.

The parcels included token amounts of medical supplies.

The group also mailed cheques, to be used to purchase more supplies, to the Canadian Friends Service Committee in Toronto.

B.C. MAN CASUALTY IN VIET NAM ACTION

WASHINGTON (CP)—The U.S. defence department announced Monday that Marine Pfc. L. Cpl. Eric B. Barrow, Jr., 855 McBride Blvd., New Westminster, B.C., was killed in action in Viet Nam.

Previously the marine, son of Eric B. Barrow of New Westminster, had been listed as missing in action. He is believed to be the first Canadian killed in the war.

Cheques Stolen from Bus

EDMONTON (CP)—A post office investigator from Edmonton and RCMP at Hudson Hope, B.C., were continuing to search today for two mail bags containing more than $38,000 in cheques and money orders, taken from a bus traveling between Portage Mountain and Fort St. John Aug. 6.

Much of the money is believed to be from workers at the Kiewit-Dawson-Johnson hydro construction project at Portage Mountain. It was a pay weekend and the men are believed to have put their pay cheques in the bag, for mailing from Fort St. John, 100 miles away, to their homes.

About 4,500 men are working on the project.

Postal officials said Monday the pay cheques, plus a $38,000 cheque from the construction company, were in a registered mail bag. They are protected from loss by theft, since funds can be reclaimed from the bank if cashed by the wrong person.

Another private mail bag, also taken from the bus, is believed to have contained more money and cheques from B.C. Hydro workers for mailing at Fort St. John.

Students Feel Iron Heel In Argentine

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—Argentina's military regime, stung by a growing university revolt, today dissolved four leading student organizations at the rebellious University of Buenos Aires.

The action came after street battles between students and heavily armed police Monday in Buenos Aires and the interior industrial city of Cordoba. Nearly 100 students were arrested and several students and three newsmen were injured in the clashes.

The four dissolved organizations included the left-of-centre Argentine university federation, an intercollegiate group and student associations at the colleges of medicine and economic sciences at the university of Buenos Aires.

STUDENT UNIONS

The organizations, like American student unions, include perhaps one-third of the 81,000 students at the University of Buenos Aires.

In Buenos Aires, truncheon-wielding police fired tear gas in the heart of the city's shopping district to disperse students protesting the right-wing regime's intervention in Argentina's traditionally autonomous university system.

Terrified shoppers dived for cover along Calle Florida—Buenos Aires' Fifth Avenue—as riot police lobbed tear gas grenades at about 300 students from the university of Buenos Aires' School of Engineering.

"Books si... boots no," the students chanted.

At least one student was injured and 83 were arrested. Police said today 33 of the 83 being held would be sentenced to 30 days in jail.

In Cordoba, an ancient city about 450 miles northwest of Buenos Aires that is modern Argentina's Detroit, police used clubs, dogs and tear gas to disperse a mob of about 2,000 students.

Border Closed

ADEN (UPI)—The South Arabian Federation Monday ordered the closure of its borders with Yemen. The action follows the deportation of some 150 Yemenis for the assassination last week of a federal supreme council member.

Magistrate Dies at 73

VANCOUVER (CP)—Former Vancouver magistrate Gordon Scott, 73, died Sunday in Shaughnessy Hospital of a heart attack.

Mr. Scott resigned eight months ago to enter private practice, after 40 years in the police courts as prosecutor and magistrate.

Mr. Scott graduated from the University of B.C. in 1919, after overseas service in the First World War. He was mentioned in despatches in the Somme fighting and was awarded the Military Medal at Vimy Ridge.

Youth Admits To Additional Two Charges

An 18-year-old youth caught by police in a stolen car last Thursday pleaded guilty to two additional charges when he appeared in court Monday.

Frank Nelson, 3229 Doncaster, admitted entering several trucks belonging to Nelson's New Method Laundry, 947 North Park, stealing a raincoat and driving one of the trucks into a gatepost, causing about $150 damage.

These offences occurred shortly before the car theft, court was told.

He will be sentenced for wilful damage over $50 and theft under $50, Wednesday.

Church Fair Opens Harvest Spectacles

By HILDA BEASTALL
The first of the local fall shows to be brought to our attention will be staged on Saturday of this week at the Centennial United Church (also known as the Howard Harris Building), entrance on David Street, just off Gorge Road, a block from Humber Green.

The Men's Club (AOTS) of the church have arranged their fifth annual display of fruit, vegetables, flowers, preserves and baked goods, and will welcome entries from anyone wishing to compete in these classes.

A list of classes, prizes and show rules may be had by contacting Mr. G. Lane at EV 4-1519. Since entry forms must be returned to Mr. Lane by Friday, I suggest you call him right away for a list so that you may check your garden and preserve shelves for entries.

The items for show can be taken to the gymnasium building either on Friday evening or on Saturday morning. They must be in place before 10:30 a.m. for judging.

There are several classes for summer garden flowers, early chrysanthemums and decorative arrangements. In the vegetable and fruit sections, gardeners will find great interest this year in comparing growth and seeing what has flourished.

Apples are classed separately by name, so here is a chance for gardeners to replace lost names on their own apple-bearing trees.

The proceeds of this annual show are used for giving practical assistance to youth work not only within the church but in the community, and the class entry fees of 10 cents each, and the show admission charge of 50 cents (including afternoon tea) are all devoted to this work.

The show will be open to the public from one to six p.m.

Get an entry list from Mr. Lane at EV 4-1519 this evening, and make a start on exhibiting in the local fall shows.

There will be several during the next four or five weeks, and you'll find great fun in participation.

CHURCHES SEIZED BY YOUNG CHINESE

By VERGIL BERGER

PEKING (Reuters) — The Communist Chinese capital's famous Tien An Men (Heavenly Peace) Square was renamed Donfang Hing (The East Is Red) Square today as thousands of organized youths continued to hold sway over the city.

The youths, officially-packed by the Communist party in their campaign to rid Peking of Western influences, also took over, apparently permanently, the churches serving the capital's few Christians.

dome and western tower of the Italian-style Nantang South Cathedral, the main Catholic centre here.

The youths, known as the Red Guards, covered the walled cathedral compound with posters denouncing old and foreign traditions.

Some posters were covered with biblical pictures used in the cathedral—scenes of the nativity, of Christ teaching, and various saints—crossed out with heavy black brush strokes and characters to indicate such things were henceforth not allowed.

WINDOWS SHUTTERED

Red guards refused foreign correspondents access to the cathedral grounds. From across the street it was possible to see that some of the buildings' windows were shuttered.

East Is Red, the new name of Tien An Men Square, is the title of a Chinese Communist anthem now being played and sung here publicly—far more often than the national anthem.

The campaign to oppose bourgeois tendencies took some unexpected forms.

A poster outside a depot for pedicabs—tricycles pedalled by a driver with a seat behind for his passenger—says these may still be hired, but the passenger should pedal himself while the driver sits in the seat.

Several flower stores closed this week and the Red Guards proclaimed that having flowers in the house is not revolutionary.

Stamp stores were closed with the declaration that philately is a bourgeois pastime.

TERRORIZE PEKING

Meanwhile, although many people seemed unconcerned by the happenings, some showed frightened expressions in their faces and observers said there is little doubt the Red Guards were terrorizing some Peking inhabitants.

Long-haired youths in the capital were trimming their hair in public under the stern eye of the Red Guards.

Tight trousers—frowned upon as Western symbols—also were getting drastic treatment on the spot.

Monday young men with tight pants legs ripped them down the sides or cut them into shorts while the "red guards" intensified their drive against "revisionism," bourgeois tendencies and Western influence.

School children and students, who with official approval carried the campaign for strict compliance with Communist Leader Mao Tse-tung's philosophy to the man-in-the-street, covered walls of the city with posters during the last three days.

GIVE ULTIMATUM

Some of these gave a one-week ultimatum to anyone with pointed shoes to get rid of them or face the consequences. Women have been washing out their permanent waves to avoid censure.

Everything traditional is under attack as symbolizing the old bourgeois order.

Stone dragons were torn from the entrances of some buildings and elaborate decorations removed.

Hundreds of red guards swarmed into Peking's small Protestant church, broke at least one church window and put up a portrait of Mao.

PAINFUL parting is reflected on face of Sandra Whitted at El Dorado, Kan. It's farewell to champion sheep she exhibited and sold at 4-H livestock sale. Buyer's getting wool or mutton. Sandra's losing a friend.

Early B.C. Election Call Blasted by NDP MPs

VICTORIA (CP) — Two members of Parliament from British Columbia Monday criticized Premier Bennett's decision to call a provincial election Sept. 12.

Barry Mather, New Democratic Party MP for New Westminster, said in Surrey the Social Credit government has become so arrogant in its 14 years of power that it ignores the right of the people to have a government for five years and not for two years.

He said people have stated they are fed up with tactics which have produced three provincial and three federal elections in B.C. in the last six years.

Harold Winch, (NDP, Vancouver-East), said it is time a law was passed in Canada making it compulsory for an election to be called once every four years. This would apply to the provincial as well as federal government, he said.

Mr. Winch criticized what he called "Admiral Bennett's issues" and said the premier has advanced no plausible reason for calling the election.

Mr. Winch said Premier Bennett's home purchase grant plan has a weak foundation due

SOCIAL CREDIT PARTY LEADS NOMINATIONS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Social Credit leads the nominations for the Sept. 12 provincial election, with 53 persons selected to contest B.C.'s 55 constituencies.

To date, a total of 144 candidates have been nominated. No Progressive Conservatives have been named.

The New Democratic Party is second in the nominations, with 48 candidates selected, the Liberals third with 34 and the Communists fourth with seven. Two Independents are also running.

to sky-rocketing construction costs.

Mr. Winch was speaking at a rally for Ernest Hall, NDP candidate in the Surrey riding in the Sept. 12 provincial election.

He said anyone planning to build a home next year will not delay construction plans in order to become eligible for the additional $25 grant on top of the regular $300 homeowner's grant.

"Costs of new homes are increasing by 10 per cent each year," said Mr. Winch. He said the average three-bedroom house costs between $18,000 and $24,000 now and he predicted this price will increase by $2,000 in the coming year.

"Who will wait a year to pay an extra $2,000 to get an extra $25 from Bennett?" he asked.

Elsewhere, B.C. Conservatives are making an 11th-hour drive to run candidates with nominating conventions scheduled for North Vancouver - Capilano, Point Grey and Delta.

George Driedger, president of the Social Credit League, Monday denied allegations by NDP leader Robert Strachan that the Social party has been dumping maverick MLAs.

Five Social Credit MLAs have been defeated at nominating conventions.

"Neither the government nor the league had anything to do with these people being dropped," said Mr. Driedger.

"Our constituency organizations have complete autonomy."

Looks like th' country'll go onto a skidin' while th' Inflation Unlimited goes through.

Commons Session Monday

OTTAWA (CP)—Warning that a railway strike "could be disastrous" for the country, Prime Minister Pearson announced Monday night he has called Parliament to meet next Monday and deal with the impending crisis.

Parliament was to have enjoyed until Oct. 5 a summer break that began July 15.

If a strike begins this Friday as scheduled, the government will introduce unspecified "proposals" to resolve the dispute and get the railways running again.

But even if the strike has been settled by then, MPs will be asked to deal with new legislation that will be based on "a relationship to the earning capacity of the railway companies." It would involve some parts of the MacPherson report which five years ago recommended more freedom for the railways in rate-making and other areas now under rigid federal control.

In a dramatic climax to a long afternoon of cabinet talks, Mr. Pearson revealed the plan in a 500-word telegram to the railways and union leaders calling for "immediate discussions" in a determined effort to settle their dispute before the strike deadline, set for noon regional standard time Friday.

"Such a strike will have consequences for the national economy which are bound to be serious and could be disastrous," his message said.

SUGGESTED MEETING

Mr. Pearson suggested both sides meet with Labor Minister Nicholson to seek a settlement.

"If this effort at mediation should unhappily fail, the government will make proposals to Parliament to resolve the dispute." He did not spell out what the proposals would entail.

He also made it clear that until a strike starts it would be left up to labor and management to work out the settlement. Then he added a spur to such negotiations by the reference to new rail legislation.

Ever since 1959, when the former Conservative government clamped a freeze on freight rates pending new railway legislation, the railways have argued that they have no way of raising new revenues to meet increased wages.

Mr. Pearson's pledge to give immediate priority to legislation based on recommendations made five years ago by the

WIRE BRIEFS

Oregon Timber Burns

COTTAGE GROVE, Ore. (UPI)—Oregon's worst forest fire in 21 years today chewed its way through the timbered coast range about 20 miles west of here. The state forestry department reported that an aerial survey revealed the fire had spread over 41,600 acres.

Reds Blast Ship

SAIGON (CP)—A U.S. merchant ship with war supplies for Viet Nam was blasted by a Communist mine today and sank in the Saigon River. Seven of its American crew members were killed.

Blast Traps Workers

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—Two were killed, at least 10 injured—and an undetermined number of employees trapped today by a mysterious blast which destroyed part of a wire company.

More Quakes

Steel Contract Out After Second Look

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP)—Workers at the Steel Co. of Canada here have rejected a proposed new contract which had earlier been approved by their union negotiating committee. A legal strike could begin at Steelco seven days after the minister of labor releases the report of a conciliation board that assisted in contract negotiations. The report has not yet been released.

Nicholson Will Seek Mediation

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Nicholson said today he will hold preliminary meetings tonight with heads of the railways and railway union leaders aimed at settling their contract dispute in time to avoid a countrywide railway strike set for Friday.

The separate meetings would attempt to lay the groundwork for mediation efforts later in the week, possibly Wednesday.

Mr. Nicholson told a press conference that there has been "excellent response" to Prime Minister Pearson's telegram Monday night calling on both sides to enter new discussions.

A small group of union leaders would meet him in the board room of his labor department office beginning about 6 p.m. EDT.

Later, Mr. Nicholson would hold talks with President Donald Gordon of the CNR and President Ian Sinclair of the CPR.

SET WEDNESDAY MEETING

Mr. Nicholson said a larger group of union leaders would meet him Wednesday morning at 9:30 a.m. EDT in his office. He hopes this would lead to arrangements for a joint labor-management session as soon as possible.

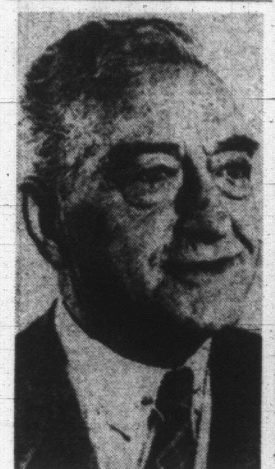

He was asked about remarks by union leaders in Montreal that the Friday walkout was inevitable because a membership vote would be required on any settlement worked out through mediation.

"I'm still an optimist," Mr. Nicholson replied.

The minister said the government has given no assurances regarding the implementation of the Freedman report, which recommended legislation giving unions the right to negotiate the application of automated work methods.

The Brotherhood of railroad Trainmen, one of the unions involved in the current dispute, has insisted that the railways guarantee negotiation on any work changes affecting jobs or working conditions.

Mr. Nicholson said there had been "encouraging progress" on that issue.

Flicker Idol Bushman Dies After Fall

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Francis X. Bushman, great lover of the silent screen whose full life ranged from the days of lantern slide lectures to current television, died today after a fall at his home. He was 83.

Bushman, actually the screen's first great lover, had a handsome face which first made women swoon more than a half century ago and which also attracted many women in recent years.

He was top star in Hollywood for seven years after making his first picture, "Lost years," in 1911. Then his fans learned he was married, and all but forgot him.

The silver-haired great-grandfather never let age slow him down. Recently he was on four TV shows and made several local appearances.

SWOON KING

The original swoon king starred in 324 movies, more than any other actor has. He was an oldtime actor in every sense of the word — drove around town in a long, low, lavender Marmon automobile with "Francis X. Bushman" painted in gold on its side; smoked lavender cigarettes; and had his servants dressed in lavender uniforms.

At his peak he made $6 million in five years. He spent it as fast as he made it. He had 300 great dane dogs on his 280-acre estate along with race horses and hogs.

W. Berlin Kidnappers Grab Canadian Girl

BERLIN (AP)—A four-year-old Canadian girl, in West Berlin on a visit with her mother, has been kidnapped and $35,000 marks ($8,750) ransom demanded, the police disclosed today.

The girl was abducted Monday morning from her grandparents' home in a well-to-do section of the city after the kidnapper bound and chloroformed her mother, police said.

Police identified the girl as Audrey Klewer and her mother

as 28-year-old Regina Klewer, a German-born Canadian citizen from Montreal.

Police said the two arrived here Sunday to visit the woman's parents.

The mother was reported in a hospital suffering shock.

Police said this was the first kidnapping for ransom of a child in West Berlin since the Second World War.

Sources said the mother emigrated to Canada several years ago. The kidnapped girl was born in Ottawa.

SOCRED LOSER FIGHTING BACK

He Tossed Judo Expert for Loss

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—A female judo expert roused Social Credit party officials from bed early this morning when she refused to accept defeat in her bid for a nomination.

Mrs. Jo Dean lost the Social Credit nomination in the North Vancouver-Capilano

Riding for the Sept. 12 provincial election by one ballot, 24 to 23.

The nomination was won by Ken Pugsley, 52, a North Vancouver school principal.

Mrs. Dean's defeat was confirmed at a hastily-called early morning meeting of constituency officials.

"I'm not a poor loser," Mrs. Dean said at the earlier meeting. "there were a lot of irregularities. I'm just fighting for a principle."

She claimed 47 persons had voted in the first meeting, though only 46 were qualified to do so. Mr. Dean claimed Mr. Pugsley campaigned unfairly for the nomination by sending out letters suggesting he was the "official" Social Credit candidate.

He denied the allegation. After the earlier meeting, she got on the telephone.

"As far as I'm concerned, the meeting and its results are perfectly valid," said Trade Minister Ralph Lottmark, roused from his bed at 2 a.m. to iron out the alleged discrepancies.

Officials at the post-midnight meeting confirmed Mr. Lottmark's opinion.

When one party member showed impatience with Mrs. Dean's complaints, she reminded him:

Arthur Mayse

When the summer was young, a letter from Montreal turned up in my mail. The envelope carried Expo 67's circle of match-stick figures, and inside was an invitation to see how the exhibition is shaping up.

As one who has found his preferred place on earth, I was persuaded to leave it. But I hadn't been east of the dividing mountains for a long time, and the chance to see something big in the making was potent bait.

Well, I have been here, and will this week report to you on a journey of discovery which very many Victoria dwellers will make next year.

Their goal, 3,000 miles distant, will be Canada's first world exhibition, a display which will rival—and according to its planners even surpass—the Brussels effort of 1958.

When the Expo men speak of it, which is constantly, they pile superlatives with reckless enthusiasm.

"Never in the history of the world," declares one director, "at any time or on any one site, has there been such an exhibition as you are going to see in your country."

While newsmen tend to be wary of such extravagant-seeming claims, M. Philippe de Gaspé Beaubien, director of operations, may be proved right. Meanwhile, with Expo 67 still more than seven months removed from its April 28 opening day, I can only pass on to you my personal impressions.

These were gained in a crowded day which, for tactical purposes, began shortly after 9 a.m. in Montreal's Windsor Hotel. A uniformed Expo guide appeared among the shop-talking journalists in the lobby. She was smart in white blouse and light-blue skirt. On her head she wore a puffy beret segmented in black, white and blue. With her she brought name cards, and for our laps—little gold pins rimmed with the Expo device.

"Now," our guide announced, "we will proceed by bus to the site."

The driver past whom she shepherded us shared the calm, detached air of the cliche horse that drowns in the shade of the elms.

But there was nothing detached about his driving! He whipped his bus along narrow streets and in and out of traffic as if it were a sport car. We flew down the St. Lawrence, out along a point of land past the Expo stadium with its tiered seat bowls and into a never-ending land of grey concrete and red-primed structural steel.

Our objective is the administration building, the only one so far completed, with its press lounge where we are to be briefed by Expo officers. We take the long way round, by churning roads where heavy equipment waddles and crater-sized pits yawn. Our driver backs to the precise edge of a hole, makes a turn along another crumbling rim, and skirts a mountain of angle irons.

While he drives, the guide speaks into a hand microphone up front, continuing gallantly between jolts and bumps to point out clustered spires and incredible shapes which will emerge as Expo pavilions.

Surrounding us is the purposeful and directed tumult that continues, shift after shift, around the clock. The building never stops; there's too much to do, and impossible little time in which to do it.

Here, though, the impossible is a matter of daily routine. Roads are patched up, torn up, and patched again. Parkland is rolled out before your eyes; look around and it has sprouted grass and trees.

I find that I too am dealing in superlatives. That's how Expo, even with all its bones showing, affects the visitor.

It's Canada's big show, so big that it makes its own wild and wonderful skyline; and Wednesday we'll return to it.

Inquest Tonight

An inquest will be held tonight into the death of Murdo Gillies, 56, of 2831 Murray Drive, killed in a head-on collision Saturday night on the Old Island Highway.

The inquest will start at 7:30 at McCall Brothers Funeral Home, 1400 Vancouver.

Builders, Union Hurl Charges At Each Other

Accusations by both sides marked the 20th day of the contractors' lockout against carpenters in the B.C. construction industry.

Work came to a halt on many commercial and industrial sites Monday as the United Brotherhood of Carpenters extended its picketing of contractors who have declared a lockout.

Biggest projects affected are the $100 million pulp mill extension at Powell River and the new $60 million pulp mill at Gold River on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

The union accused the contractors of "callous disregard for thousands of school children" by locking out carpenters at schools and hospitals.

The companies left private sectors of industry relatively free to function, it added.

In turn, contractors accused the carpenters of backing out of talks with some school boards and contractors and of striking at least four school projects.

PANIC TACTICS
The union was also accused of panic tactics, intimidation of members, ridiculous demonstrations, "downright lies" to owners and "false reports to the press."

Carpenters came back saying there is "no basis whatsoever" for the remarks, that the union offered to resume work on classrooms needed by school opening and is willing to meet school boards and contractors to work out details.

The contractors said there was no lockout until the union struck several companies considered vulnerable because of completion penalty clauses in contracts.

Both sides are not budging in their positions over hours of work and the union hall hiring system.

Contractors want no change in the 40-hour work week and no more union hiring. Carpenters want a 37½-hour work week and continuation of union hiring.

Magistrate Ostler said that while it was likely Harrison had not been "a perfect guest," Beasley was too young to work at such a job and he was pleased to hear he was no longer employed at the dance hall.

Harrison was asked to leave when he was spotted with a bottle of liquor in the unlicensed premises, said the accused. When he refused to go he was forcibly led to the exit by another bouncer but was not beaten.

SPLIT-LEVEL ROAD PLAN PREPARED

A new plan for a Johnson-Wharf Store split-level intersection has been prepared for city council.

The general scheme had been proposed earlier. But the new and detailed engineering plan entails a straighter approach to the Johnson Street bridge.

A straighter north-south connection between Store and Wharf also is envisaged.

The proposal includes use of land formerly occupied by a warehouse at Store and Johnson. It would require filling to street level.

Use of some E and N right-of-way property also would be required.

The plans are flexible and could be altered to conform with the location of underground services, said city engineer James Garnett.

TRUCK ROUTE

Store and Wharf would serve as a heavy truck route leading to James Bay and Ogden Point wharves. It would probably pass under Johnson, eliminating cross traffic, traffic lights and providing an uninterrupted approach to the bridge.

The project would require more money than the $140,000 now available said city comptroller James Bramely. But if council approves, certain other budgeted works could be put off, he stated.

NOVEMBER START

The city engineer said recently the intersection construction was planned to start next month, but likely will be put over at least until November.

Meanwhile, two other street projects will be necessary to complete the city's plan for a north-south truck diversion—a bridge over Rock Bay and a widened Causeway.

The latter is planned and could be undertaken relatively soon.

Bouncer Fined For Assault Of Patron

A man who was thrown out of a Broad Street dance hall June 19 testified in court Monday he suffered a broken nose, cracked rib, torn knee cartilage, bruises and abrasions.

John Harrison, 2605 Belmont, told the court two bouncers lifted him out of his chair at the Golden Slipper, carried him outside the ballroom where they dropped him on the floor, kicked and beat him.

Up to eight people took part in the beating, he said. While he was being carried down a staircase, one of the bouncers, 18-year-old Douglas Beasley of HMCS Mackenzie, kept punching Harrison in the stomach.

FINED $50
Beasley pleaded not guilty to assault but was convicted and fined $50.

Harrison was asked to leave when he was spotted with a bottle of liquor in the unlicensed premises, said the accused. When he refused to go he was forcibly led to the exit by another bouncer but was not beaten.

CHANGING LANDSCAPE, due to warehouse demolition at Store and Johnson, is due for greater change yet. If city proceeds with engineering plan which would create a Store-Wharf truck route and an unobstructed overpass of Johnson for bridge

Drinking Makes Him 'Go Wild'

Man Ruled Threat To Safety of Wife

An Oak Bay man pleaded guilty Monday to pointing a shotgun at a policeman and to kicking him in the stomach.

James Ballendine, 2020 Milton, was also ruled to be a threat to the personal safety of his wife, whom he also threatened to kill with the shotgun.

He will be sentenced for assaulting a police officer and pointing a firearm at him when he "appears in court next Tuesday."

'GOES WILD'

"He doesn't drink that often but when he does he just goes wild," Margaret Ballendine said of her husband.

She fled from the house when the accused came home drunk early Saturday, grabbed the gun and a box of ammunition and said he was going to kill her.

When Constable Robert Faith approached the house, he said Ballendine pointed the shotgun from the hip at him.

LOUD HAILER

Other police who arrived hurriedly talked to Ballendine over a loud hailer and persuaded him to give himself up.

As Constable Faith was putting handcuffs on the accused, Ballendine kicked him in the stomach.

Mrs. Ballendine said her husband beat her up regularly and described how he had slapped and choked her before throwing her out of the house last month.

Esquimalt Won't Budge In Sewer Hook-Up Fight

Greater Victoria School Board and Esquimalt municipality still haven't reached agreement on a sewage hook-up for the planned Christie Point school.

Council stood by its previous refusal to allow the hook-up after a meeting Monday night with school district representatives.

They asked instead the school board to "formally approach"

Victorian Gets $7,000 Scholarship

A Victoria man has been awarded a $7,000 Commonwealth Scholarship.

Brian Richard Little, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. Little, 1535 York Place, will apply the coveted scholarship to post-graduate study in psychology and architectural aesthetics at Oxford University, England.

He will pursue a Master of Philosophy degree from University College, Oxford, while continuing his own research on "sex differences in environmental perception."

Mr. Little will leave for Oxford from Montreal Sept. 9 aboard the Franconia with his wife, the former Sandra Ridgway-Wilson of Victoria.

The 25-year-old scholar graduated from the University of Victoria with a BA in Honors Psychology in 1959. He engaged in doctoral study in psychology and acted as a teaching assistant at the University of California at Berkeley from 1964-66.

He will return to Berkeley in September, 1967, for the Ph.D. in psychology. Mr. Little held a Canada Council scholarship 1965-66.

They're Ripe for a Move Here ... and That's No Applesauce

By GLEN ALLEN

Westward ho the wagon. And thank goodness for that, say a retired English couple who brought a small trailer across an ocean and a country to Victoria.

"East of Banff we thought we'd made a mistake coming here at all," said Mr. and Mrs. Walter Boxall, of Hythe, Kent.

In a trailer park at Colwood today the Boxalls (that's what they call the trailer breed in England) explained that, until the Rockies, Canada had nearly as many unbecomingly beautiful aspects.

"Things Canada could do without," said Mr. Boxall, 63, a former radio and electrical engineer, "are women in curlers, the thousand and one notices pinned and tucked all over everywhere, overhead wiring, and abandoned motor car bodies."

"It is criminal a country

with scenery like yours to allow it to be spoiled."

"But we're not griping," said Mr. Boxall, a reluctant critic.

"There have been the very good things. The places with outlandish names, like Medicine Hat or Moose Jaw; the day back in May when we arrived and the Halifax police took us in tow and even brought us a fish supper; the many warm hospitable people who in some parks queued up to visit with us in our caravan."

"And then there were the mountains, the island and this city."

"Victoria has what we left behind (their home village is on the coast, in view of the hills of France) and more. It's just like Bournemouth."

"We hear songbirds and see flowers again."

"We're going home next year to sell our house and come back to stay."

"That's no applesauce."

The peripatetic pair have been living out of their tiny trailer the good months of every year for many years.

The caravan, hauled by a standard English sedan and weighing only 900 pounds unladen has wintered in Spain, crossed the Alps countless times and Wednesday will head for Mexico.

The Boxalls have been told they're the first British trailer travellers to come to the island.

"More would come — I know many myself who are dying to come — if we could get our money out of the country."

They said they hadn't had any adventures worth recounting — black bears always kept their distance and they've always found a parking space for the roof over their heads.

"We don't really want any adventures," said Mr. Boxall.

"It's just a matter of buttoning down and going."

He said buttoning down and waving goodbye.

With adjustment for the cost of living, the rate now would be $2.43 an hour.

MAYOR'S WIFE BYLAW VICTIM

AURORA, Ont. (CP)—Teen-agers are the target of Aurora's new anti-loitering bylaw, but one of the first victims was the mayor's wife and son.

Mrs. William Davis and her son, Robert, were standing with some friends on the main street Sunday when they were asked to "move along" by Constable Lowell McClenny.

"The bylaw states they shall not loiter and we must enforce it," said Police Chief William Langman.

Weekend crowds of teen-agers prompted the new bylaw, proposed by Councillor Richard Illingworth, chairman of the police committee, and passed by council last Monday.

"How would the chief like his wife to be moved along like I was when she's stopping to talk with friends?" asked the mayor's wife.

Her husband promised to bring the matter before council.

"The bylaw wasn't drawn up just for a set of teen-agers," said Chief Langman. "The bylaw covers everyone and in our eyes everyone is equal."

PENDULUM SWINGS BACK

Another Theatre Set To Re-Open on Yates

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Times Movie Reviewer

A new movie theatre, The Haida, will open in Victoria soon.

It is a reconstruction of the old Plaza, on Yates Street, which closed five years ago because of the waning interest in movies in favor of TV. Work has been held up by the carpenters' dispute and an opening date hasn't been set.

Now the pendulum is swinging back. The people of Victoria are demanding more first-run feature films, and the Odeon-owned Plaza is being renovated and modernized to meet this demand.

It will be the second new theatre to open on Yates Street in three months. A manager will be named soon. The Coronet (formerly the Atlas) was started last May and is doing well.

WAIT TOO LONG

Victoria moviegoers complain they have to wait too long for top feature films presented in Vancouver. For instance, Lawrence of Arabia, Mary Poppins, My Fair Lady and The Sound of Music showed in Vancouver and other big cities for nearly a year before they got to Victoria.

Why are we so neglected? Local theatre managers say it is because the big films are issued in 70 millimetre Panavision and Victoria theatres haven't the apparatus to handle them.

The big distributors won't issue copies in 35 millimetre while 70 millimetre Panavision is making money in the bigger centres.

And the Vancouver theatres are all in favor of Victorians crossing to the mainland to see them. Tickets to Vancouver showings are regularly sold in Victoria with the added enticement that viewers may also enjoy shopping in the big city.

Meantime, Victoria theatres are denied the showing of such interesting films as Doctor Zhivago, Beau Geste, TOKYO (Reuters)—The Japanese cabinet today approved the appointment of Osamu Itagaki as ambassador to Canada.

Since he entered foreign service in 1932, Itagaki has served as ambassador to Norway and the Philippines among his many diplomatic assignments. He has been ambassador to India and Nepal since 1965.

The present ambassador to Canada, Hisanaga Shimazu, becomes chief Japanese envoy in Formosa.

An exception is The Agony and the Ecstasy, featuring Charlton Heston and Rex Harrison. It is booked to open at the new Coronet Theatre on Sept. 24.

The Sound of Music showed in Vancouver and other larger cities for a whole year before it reached Victoria last March.

It has broken all Victoria records since with a 24-week run at the Odeon Theatre, but is due to close Wednesday, Aug. 31, to make way for Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? the controversial film starring Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton.

"Virginia Woolf has been held back because of the tremendous popularity of The Sound of Music," says Jack Armstrong, manager of the Odeon.

"Several times we tried to take it off, but the public wouldn't let us. Victoria people kept coming back to see it again—and the tourists came in droves."

"Most of them had seen it in other parts of Canada and

Mrs. Hemingway Admits Novelist Shot Himself

NEW YORK (UPI)—The widow of Ernest Hemingway acknowledged Monday that the prize-winning novelist, "sick and desperate" at the time, committed suicide at their Ketchum Idaho, home five years ago.

It was the first public admission by Mrs. Hemingway that her husband's shotgun death on July 2, 1961, was not an accident.

"I never discussed it with a psychiatrist but I suppose it had something to do with self defence," she said. "Admitting the truth would have snapped my nerves, split open my brain. But I realized it was stupid to go on pretending."

Mrs. Hemingway had maintained for a long time after the tragic event that the famed author's death had been accidental. Although no official inquest was held after the shooting, a local coroner said it would never be known whether the death was accidental or self-inflicted.

She said that Hemingway, regarded internationally as one of the great contemporary writers, had been productive "right up to the end," even after he had been in the Mayo clinic for treatment a second time and had returned to Ketchum to rest.

"He left 40 pounds of manuscripts," she said. "There remains another novel, maybe two. I mean 'The Dangerous Summer' (a large volume on bullfighting) and one set in the Caribbean. Then there are many short stories. The next novel to appear will almost certainly be set in the Caribbean."

Boog Says It All With Bat in Hand

NEW YORK (AP)—John (Boog) Powell has turned down a number of lucrative speaking engagements because he doesn't like to talk to large audiences.

But Baltimore's husky first baseman is making a lot of noise with his bat.

Powell hit five homers, drove in nine runs and batted .412 in last week's games. The output boosted his season's marks to 32 homers, 97 RBIs and a .297 average.

He heads the American League in runs batted in, is second in homers to teammate Frank Robinson, who has hit 38.

A six-point pickup resulting from a 7-for-17 performance last week moved Boog into fourth place in the batting race.

Powell suffered a chip fracture on the ring finger of his left hand Saturday, but is expected to be out only a few days.

Minnesota's Tony Oliva remained the No. 1 batter, lifting his average five points to .322 by collecting 11 hits in 25 tries.

Matty Alou of Pittsburgh retained the National League lead with a .342 mark.

OFFENSIVE FIREWORKS

Emphasis on Defence Part of Football Trend

EDMONTON (CP)—Despite recent rule changes intended to reduce the emphasis on defence in the Canadian Football League, observers and officials are unhappy that the anticipated flow of points has been slow developing.

While defensive play has been elevated to something of an art, most agree an additional offensive weapon is needed.

Some, like Calgary Stampeder coach Jerry Williams, have advocated four downs for a first down. Others say the move toward low-scoring games is part of a trend that will reverse itself in time.

Ken Holtzman scattered eight hits, including Jim Hickman's two-run homer in the fourth.

Esks in Third After Tripping Roughies, 18-17

REGINA (CP)—Edmonton Eskimos climbed out of the Western Football Conference cellar Monday night over the backs of Saskatchewan Roughriders by squeaking an 18-17 victory.

Esks coach Neil Armstrong said that while his defensive squad was too cautious in the second half, the offence was greatly improved.

But the defence was the key to unlocking the cellar door and moving Edmonton to third spot in the league with a 2-3 record and four points, two behind Saskatchewan with six points and a 3-2 record and Winnipeg, also with six points, on a 3-1 record.

The big play was halfback Trent Walters' 53-yard return of a short kick by Saskatchewan's Jack Abendschan early in the second quarter as the Esks trailed 8-0. At halftime Edmonton led 18-8 with the Roughriders scoring a field goal in the third quarter and an unconverted touchdown in the final minute of play.

Rider coach Eagle Keys agreed the punt return for the touchdown was the turning point.

That shook everything up. The defence didn't really recover until the third quarter. Our offence had plenty of chances but we just didn't take advantage of them.

Abendschan opened the scoring in the first quarter with a single and then converted quarter-back Ron Lancaster's touchdown.

Tommy-Joe Coffey added six points in the second quarter with two converts, a single and a field goal. Garry Lefebvre rounded out the Esks' scoring, catching a Randy Kerbow pass for a 21-yard touchdown.

A crowd of 18,052 saw Lancaster move his squad to the Edmonton 35 from the Saskatchewan 28 to set up Abendschan's third-quarter field goal.

In the fourth quarter Kerbow fumbled on the option at the Riders' 43. Gene Wasiuk recovered for Saskatchewan and one pass later, as the clock moved into the final minute, Lancaster hit Gord Barwell in the end zone. But Abendschan missed the convert and the chance to salvage a tie.

LANCASTER SHARP

Lancaster completed 18 of 29 passes for 306 yards and kept the ball six times to gain 33 yards on the ground, including his touchdown.

Kerbow gained only 45 yards on three completions in 14 pass attempts, but guided the Esks to 188 yards along the ground compared with the Riders' 71.

Indicative of Edmonton's charging defence, the Roughriders had 21 first downs compared with Edmonton's 12 but were unable to use them to advantage.

Jim Thomas, a three-year Eskimo, retained his lead in WFC rushing, adding 90 yards for a total of 455. His longest of 12 carries was 23 yards.

Saskatchewan's George Reed, who won the conference rushing record last year, carried 17 times for 64 yards—his longest eight—to give him a tally of 370 yards in second place, well behind Thomas.

But Reed caught three of Lancaster's passes for 60 yards, and shaded teammate Hugh Campbell who was held scoreless, gathering in three of four passes for 47 yards.

Brampton, Mann Cup finalists in 1965, took a 4-0 lead in the best-of-seven series "A" eastern ice hockey final Monday night by beating Peterborough, 10-9.

Winner of the series will play at home against the western champion for the Mann Cup.

Defending Minto Cup champion Oshawa won the first game of its eastern junior final Monday night, 12-8, over Mimico. Oshawa will come west for the Minto Cup final.

... SLOW IN DEVELOPING

Ploen or Kerbow. But his ability to evade tacklers while rolling out makes him a threat to run at almost any time.

Ploen has occasionally started for Winnipeg as a halfback and Kerbow, sometimes a flanker, has demonstrated running ability both on roll-outs and after pass-receptions.

THOMAS FIRES A 73

Thomas, 17, the defending champion, shook off two cloud-bursts in the middle of a wet, cool day for a 73, matching the best efforts of Bob Smith of Kamloops, B.C., and Dale Talon of Nanaimo, Que.

A stroke back of them were McDonald and Graham MacIntyre of New Glasgow, N.S., champion of Nova Scotia whose 74 tied the province with Alberta in fourth place.

Of 121 golfers, only 42 others were able to tug a sub-80 score from the 6,165-yard course.

The second 18-hole round of the qualifying set goes today with the top 64 scheduled to graduate to six rounds of match play beginning Wednesday. The championships wind up with a 36-hole final Saturday.

B.C.'s Doubles Team Sets Unbeaten Pace

WINNIPEG (CP)—Sparked by an outstanding performance by Gord McMillan of Oshawa, Ontario moved into the early lead Monday in the Canadian lawn bowling championship.

McMillan's three victories in the singles competition, plus two wins in each of the pairs and teams event, gave Ontario a one-game aggregate lead over British Columbia, which had two wins in each of the three divisions.

McMillan swamped Jim Hule of Edmonton 21-12 and then stopped Howard Gorman of Halifax 21-14. In the third game, he took out John Henderson of Westmount, Que., 21-19. He has a bye in today's first round.

In the doubles event, British Columbia was unbeaten in three games. Doug Coyle and Andy Rae of Vancouver stopped W. Wallace and A. J. Church of Alberta 17-15. Then they took out George Robbins and Ron Jones of London, Ont., 14-12 before taking a 22-15 decision from the Winnipeg pair of Ed Brown and Stan Townsend.

Ontario had an unblemished 2-0 record in the teams competition.

Arthur Mayse

Back when the summer was young, a letter from Montreal turned up in my mail. The envelope carried Expo 67's circle of match-stick figures, and inside was an invitation to see how the exhibition is shaping up.

As one who has found his preferred place on earth, I am not easily persuaded to leave it. But I hadn't been east of the dividing mountains for a long time, and the chance to see something big in the making was potent bait.

Well, I have been and seen, and will this week report to you on a journey of discovery which very many Victoria dwellers will make next year.

Their goal, 3,000 miles distant, will be Canada's first world exhibition, a display which will rival and according to its planners even surpass the Brussels effort of 1958.

When the Expo men speak of it, which is constantly, they pile superlatives with reckless enthusiasm.

"Never in the history of the world," declares one director, "at any time or on any one site, has there been such an exhibition as you are going to see in your country."

While newsmen tend to be wary of such extravagant-seeming claims, M. Philippe de Gaspé Beaubien, director of operations, may be proved right. Meanwhile, with Expo 67 still more than seven months removed from its April 28 opening day, I can only pass on to you my personal impressions.

These were gained in a crowded day which, for tactical purposes, began shortly after 9 a.m. in Montreal's Windsor Hotel. A uniformed Expo guide appeared among the shop-talking journalists in the lobby. She was smart in white blouse and light-blue suit. On her head she wore a puffy beret segmented in black, white and blue. With her she brought name cards, and for our lapels, little gold pins studded with the Expo device.

"Now," our guide announced, "we will proceed by bus to the site."

The driver past whom she shepherded us shared the calm, detached air of the calesche horses that drowsed in the shade of the elms.

But there was nothing detached about his driving! He whipped his bus along narrow streets and in and out of traffic as if it were a sport car. We flew down to the St. Lawrence, out along a point of land past the Expo stadium, with its tiered seat-blocks and into a never-seen land of grey concrete and red-primed structural steel.

Our objective is the administration building, the only one so far completed, with its press lounge where we are to be briefed by Expo officers. We take the long way round, by a curved road where heavy equipment waddles and crater-sized pits yawn. Our distance back to the precise edge of a hole, makes a turn along another crumbling rim, and skirts a mountain of angle iron.

While he drives, the guide speaks into a hand microphone up front, continuing gallantly between jolts and bumps to point out clustered spires and incredible shapes which will emerge as Expo pavilions.

Surrounding us is the purposeful and directed tumult that continues, shift after shift, around the clock. The building never stops; there's too much to do, and impossibly little time in which to do it.

Here, though, the impossible is a matter of daily routine. Roads are patched up, torn up, and patched again. Pavement is rolled out before your eyes; look around and it has sprouted grass and trees.

I find that I too am dealing in superlatives. That's how Expo, even with all its bones showing, affects the visitor.

It's Canada's big show, so big that it makes its own wild and wonderful skyline; and Wednesday we'll return to it.

SPLIT-LEVEL ROAD PLAN PREPARED

A new plan for a Johnson-Wharf-Storé split-level intersection has been prepared for city council.

The general scheme had been proposed earlier. But the new and detailed engineering plan entails a straighter approach to the Johnson Street bridge.

A straighter north-south connection between Storé and Wharf also is envisaged.

The proposal includes use of land formerly occupied by a warehouse at Storé and Johnson. It would require filling to street level.

Use of some E and N right-of-way property also would be required.

The plans are flexible and could be altered to conform with the location of underground services, said city engineer James Garnett.

TRUCK ROUTE

Store and Wharf would serve as a heavy truck route leading to James Bay and Ogden Point wharves. It would probably pass under Johnson, eliminating cross traffic, traffic lights and providing an uninterrupted approach to the bridge.

The project would require more money than the $140,000 now available said city controller James Bramely. But if council approves, certain other budgeted works could be put off, he stated.

NOVEMBER START

The city engineer said recently the intersection construction was planned to start next month, but likely will be put over at least until November.

Meanwhile, two other street projects will be necessary to complete the city's plan for a north-south truck diversion — a bridge over Rock Bay and a widened Causeway.

The latter is planned and could be undertaken relatively soon.

Builders, Union Hurl Charges At Each Other

Accusations by both sides marked the 20th day of the contractors' lockout against carpenters in the B.C. construction industry.

Work came to a halt on many commercial and industrial sites Monday as the United Brotherhood of Carpenters extended its picketing of contractors who have declared a lockout.

Biggest projects affected are the $100 million pulp mill extension at Powell River and the new $60 million pulp mill at Gold River on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

The union accused the contractors of "yellow dogging" by locking out carpenters at schools and hospitals.

The companies left private sectors of industry relatively free to function, it added.

In turn, contractors accused the carpenters of backing out of talks with some school boards and contractors and of striking at least four school projects.

PANIC TACTICS

The union was also accused of panic tactics, intimidation of members, ridiculous demonstrations, "downright lies" to owners and "false reports to the press."

Carpenters came back saying there is "no basis whatsoever" for the remarks, that the union offered to resume work on classrooms needed by school opening and is willing to meet school boards and contractors to work out details.

The contractors said there was no lockout until the union struck several companies considered vulnerable because of completion penalty clauses in contracts.

Both sides are not budging in their positions over hours of work and the union hall hiring system.

Contractors want no change in the 40-hour work week and no more union hiring. Carpenters want a 37½-hour work week and continuation of union hiring.

Bouncer Fined For Assault Of Patron

A man who was thrown out of a Broad Street dance hall June 19 testified in court Monday he suffered a broken nose, cracked rib, torn knee cartilage, bruises and abrasions.

John Harrison, 2605 Belmont, told the court two bouncers lifted him out of his chair at the Golden Slipper, carried him outside the ballroom where they dropped him on the floor, kicked and beat him.

Up to eight people took part in the beating, he said. While he was being carried down a staircase, one of the bouncers, 18-year-old Douglas Beasley of HMCS Mackenzie, kept punching Harrison in the stomach.

Beasley pleaded not guilty to assault but was convicted and fined $50.

Harrison was asked to leave when he was spotted with a bottle of liquor in the unlicensed premises, said the accused.

When he refused to go he was forcibly led to the exit by another bouncer but was not beaten.

Magistrate Ostler said that while it was likely Harrison had not been "a perfect guest," Beasley was too young to work at such a job and he was pleased to hear he was no longer employed at the dance hall.

Drinking Makes Him 'Go Wild'

Man Ruled Threat To Safety of Wife

An Oak Bay man pleaded guilty Monday to pointing a shotgun at a policeman and to kicking him in the stomach.

James Ballendine, 2020 Milton, was also ruled to be a threat to the personal safety of his wife, whom he also threatened to kill with the shotgun.

He will be sentenced for assaulting a police officer and pointing a firearm at him when he appears in court next Tuesday.

'GOES WILD'

"He doesn't drink that often but when he does he just goes wild," Margaret Ballendine said of her husband.

She fled from the house when the accused came home drunk early Saturday, grabbed the gun and a box of ammunition and said he was going to kill her.

When Constable Robert Faith approached the house, he said Ballendine pointed the shotgun from the hip at him.

LOUD HAILER

Other police who arrived hurriedly talked to Ballendine over a loud hailer and persuaded him to give himself up.

As Constable Faith was putting handcuffs on the accused, Ballendine kicked him in the stomach.

Mrs. Ballendine said her husband beat her up regularly and described how he had slapped and choked her before throwing her out of the house last month.

Esquimalt Won't Budge In Sewer Hook-Up Fight

Greater Victoria School Board and Esquimalt municipality still haven't reached agreement on a sewage hook-up for the planned Christie Point school.

Council stood by its previous refusal to allow the hook-up after a meeting Monday night with school district representatives.

They asked instead the school board "formally approach" the

Victorian Gets $7,000 Scholarship

A Victorian man has been awarded a $7,000 Commonwealth Scholarship.

Brian Richard Little, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. Little, 1535 York Place, will apply the coveted scholarship to post-graduate study in psychology and architectural aesthetics at Oxford University, England.

He will pursue a Master of Philosophy degree from University College, Oxford, while continuing his own research on "sex differences in environmental perception."

Mr. Little will leave for Oxford from Montreal Sept. 9 aboard the Franconia with his wife, the former Sandra Ridgeway-Wilson of Victoria.

The 25-year-old scholar graduated from the University of Victoria with a BA in Honors Psychology in 1959. He engaged in doctoral study in psychology and acted as a teaching assistant at the University of California at Berkeley from 1964-66.

He will return to Berkeley in September, 1967, for the Ph.D. in psychology. Mr. Little held a Canada Council scholarship 1965-66.

They're Ripe for a Move Here ... and That's No Applesauce

By GLEN ALLEN

Westward ho the wagon. And thank goodness for that, say a retired English couple who brought a small trailer across an ocean and a country to Victoria.

"East of Banff we thought we'd made a mistake coming here at all," said Mr. and Mrs. Walter Boxall, of Hythe, Kent.

In a trailer park at Colwood today the caravanners (that's what they call the trailer breed in England) explained that, until the Rockies, Canada had nearly as many unfavourable as beautiful aspects.

"Things Canada could do without," said Mr. Boxall, 63, a former radio and electrical engineer, "are women in curlers, the thousand-and-one notices pinned and tucked all over everywhere, overhead wiring, and abandoned motor car bodies."

"It is criminal a country

with scenery like yours to allow it to be spoiled."

"But we're not griping," said Mr. Boxall, a reluctant critic.

"There have been the very good things. The places with outlandish names, like Medicine Hat or Moose Jaw; the day back in May when we arrived and the Halifax police took us in tow and even brought us a fish supper; the many warm hospitable people who in some parks queued up to visit with us in our caravan."

"And then there were the mountains, the island and this city."

"Victoria has what we left behind (their home village is on the coast, in view of the hills of France) and more. It's just like Bournemouth."

"We hear songbirds and see flowers again."

"We're going home next year to sell our house and come back to stay."

"That's no applesauce."

The peripatetic pair have been living out of their tiny trailer the good months of every year for many years.

The caravan, hauled by a standard English sedan and weighing only 800 pounds unloaded has wintered in Spain, crossed the Alps countless times and Wednesday will head for Mexico.

The Boxalls have been told they're the first British trailer travellers to come to the island.

"More would come — I know many myself who are dying to come — if we could get our money out of the country."

Railway Strike Would Hit 500

No Trains, Freight, Express, Telegrams

By ROGER STONEBANKS

A national railway strike Friday will directly affect nearly 500 workers in the Victoria area.

They are members of the various non-operating unions set to strike at 1 p.m. summer time.

The strike will mean no trains, no freight, no express and no telegrams.

Hotels, steamships and airline services come under separate working agreements and are not directly involved.

Indirectly, however, some of these services may be affected by the railway strike.

The Ogden Point docks will be affected by nearly a dozen CNR trainmen, maintenance of way employees and clerical staff. If a picket line appears logshoresmen may refuse to cross it.

Spokesmen for Canadian National and Canadian Pacific and several of the unions said many of the effects will only be known once — and if — the railway strike starts.

SHIPS AFFECTED

The two biggest unions locally which are involved in the strike are the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers and the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks.

The CBRT represents drivers, warehousemen, office staff and some others at CNR while the BRT covers a similar jurisdiction at the CPR.

A spokesman of the CBRT said steamships will be affected if attempts are made to circumvent the strike. "Hot" freight won't be handled, he said.

The CNR said there won't be any trains to move on ships so the shipping service is "bound to be affected."

He also said the company will do its best with supervisors and other non-union personnel to maintain private wire services such as telex in the event of mechanical failures or needed repairs.

A spokesman for Canadian Pacific said the last dayliner between Victoria and Courtenay will run Thursday.

The Empress Hotel will not be directly affected and he didn't expect it to experience indirect effects.

Steamship service was a question mark since picket lines could appear at terminals although the ships themselves come under different agreements.

The spokesman hoped that service between Seattle and Victoria, Vancouver and Nanaimo and Vancouver and Alaska could be continued.

However, there would be no boats for the Princess of Vancouver sailing between Nanaimo and Vancouver.

As with the CNR, private wire telecommunications such as telex would continue but commercial telegram service will stop.

Air Canada flights from Patricia Bay are not involved. Neither are the operations of B.C. Ferries.

Blast Victim Remains 'Only Fair'

A six-year-old girl remains in only fair condition today after the explosion of her parents' cabin cruiser on Sunday.

Margaret Elizabeth Curran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Curran Jr., of 2617 Doncaster, is being treated in Royal Jubilee Hospital for severe burns received when the 36' cruiser, the Tiniist, exploded in flames while being refueled at Canoe Cove Marina.

... MPs SUMMONED BY PEARSON

MacPherson Royal Commission would remove this stumbling block to wage bargaining between the two sides.

The MacPherson report would, among other things, end the freight rate freeze and throw the rail carriers into a sink-or-swim rate competition with other modes of transport.

WOULD FREE RAILWAYS

It proposed giving the railways a increased freedom to scrap money-losing branch lines and discard uneconomic services to improve their financial position.

A variety of present federal subsidies totalling around $100,000,000 a year would be replaced with a single sliding subsidy starting at $100,000,000 the first year and diminishing as the railways got out of unprofitable lines and services.

Eventually, the only subsidies would be those aimed at covering losses for certain services being maintained in the public interest.

Union leaders in Montreal were doubtful the crisis could be avoided, even if the federal government enacted legislation outlawing the walkout. R. C. Smith, chairman of seven non-operating unions representing 54,000 men, said a membership vote would be required to change current plans. Such a vote could not be completed until after Friday, he said.

"No matter what happens, we will be on strike Friday," said J. A. Pelletier, secretary of the joint protective board of the 22,000-member Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and

General Workers.

The prime minister's appeal came in a telegram to the railways asking an immediate meeting with Labor Minister Nicholson, appointed mediator in the dispute.

CPR president Ian Sinclair said Monday night at a press conference in Montreal, that the railways' "hands are tied behind our backs" in terms of earning capacity and union demands for wage increases.

REJECTED DEMANDS

The unions are seeking increases ranging from 55 cents to $1.23 an hour plus various other benefits, including in some cases a work guarantee scheme. The railways rejected the demands and the dispute went into conciliation.

Elsewhere, Mr. Pearson was criticized by several persons with regard to the crisis.

T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party leader, said "the government has taken too long to act."

Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker charged "he, the prime minister, is doing what I said should be done a week ago."

Mr. Pearson's proposed steps to avert a strike are a week too late, Mr. Diefenbaker said.

The walkout strike began in Montreal Aug. 17 when 80 non-ops walked off their jobs at the CNR's Pointe St. Charles yards. All of Monday's 4 p.m. shift at the yards showed up. Other strikers in Sydney, N.S., London, Windsor, Sarnia, Chatham, Toronto and Brantford, all in Ontario, were either returning to work or taking a vote to return Monday night.

There was one exception—20

CNR employees walked out at 2:45 p.m. Monday in Oakville, Ont.

Eight hundred railway workers in Toronto decided to stay to continue their strike

20,000 Hit By Famine

JAWARTA (Reuters)—Some 20,000 persons are reported victims of a famine gripping the Indonesian island of Lombok, east of Bali.

The island's health officer, Mohammed Jusuf, appealed to the Jakarta government for emergency food and aid to help the stricken islanders.

Unless help comes soon, he warned, hundreds of thousands will be victims of malnutrition.

IWA Sending 7 Delegates To Convention

Seven men will represent Local 1-118, International Woodworkers of America, at the annual convention in Vancouver next month of Western Canada Regional Council No. 1.

They were elected at a membership meeting Sunday of the southern Vancouver Island local.

The seven are Ed Haw, local financial secretary; Jack Groves; Al Carle; Roger Lewis; Joe Fowler; Jack Burt and Ted Hess.

The regional meeting is Sept. 26-30 at the Hotel Georgia.

The executives of non-operating rail unions in Sarnia and Windsor meanwhile continued talks that began Monday. There were no indications of general membership meetings.

EMBARGO TRAFFIC

In Montreal Monday both the CNR and CPR embargoed perishable traffic, including livestock and poultry, after midnight Monday. The CPR also embargoed silver and gold bullion, currency, explosives and other dangerous articles after that time.

The two railways said they would accept other cargo until noon Friday but warned shippers must expect delays in delivery.

Passengers planning travel Friday were warned they should make sure their trips ended before noon local standard time otherwise they will be taken to the nearest terminal point in case of a strike.

Speeder Fined As 'Impaired'

A man whose car spun out of control after speeding on Cadboro Bay Road July 24 was fined $300 for impaired driving Monday.

Norman Ketcheson, 540 Normandy, also had his driving licence suspended for four months.

Men, Boy Treated After Collision At Cook, Johnson

Two men and a boy were treated for injuries at hospital Monday and then released following a two-car collision at Cook and Johnson.

Ian Wallace, 3264 Linwood, was northbound on Cook and Alan Simpson, 2318 Orlando, was headed east on Johnson when their cars collided at the intersection.

Mr. Wallace and nine-year-old Keith Wallace were taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital where the driver was treated for leg and arm injuries and the youngster for a cut lip and bump on his head.

Mr. Simpson was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital where he was examined for abdominal pain and released.

Fire Official On the Job Quick as Flash

Instant service! That's what the city fire department provided one anguished motorist Monday after his car engine caught fire at St. Lawrence and Niagara.

Spectators were still milling about looking for a phone when Lt. Arthur Leason, one of the city's fire inspectors happened past.

He doused the flames with an extinguisher, which all department cars carry.

Problems in the ignition system of the car, operated by W. Godkin, 905 Burdette, started the fire. Damage was about $50.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

A ridge of high pressure off the E.C. coast will continue to maintain sunny skies over the province for the next few days at least. Above normal temperatures will be general although extensive smoke layers from forest fires south of the border and patchy morning fog along the coast will mar otherwise cloudless skies.
